LATE G. W. UPHAM EX M.P.P. WAS A RARE AND GENIAL CHARACTER

The gallery man writing in the St. John Telegraph-Journal pays this tribute to the late Mr. George W. Upham, ex-M. P. P.:

George W. Upham, who died this week at Fredericton, was a rare and genial character. Few men were better known in the western part of the province. He was well liked wherever he was known. Cheery of disposition, frank to the point of bluntness sometimes, ever ready to do a friend a favor, George Upham was hail-fellow-well-met along the reaches of the St. John from Oromocto to Grand Falls. He was a son of the soil, a hard worker, a brainy man of business, keen and alert to many opportunities that offered and successful in winning a comfortable stake in the fortune of life. He was a politician as well, but did not achieve success until 1908 when there was a by-election in Carleton County shortly after the general Dominion elections of October. These were the days when fighting Frank Carvell, representing the county at Ottawa, and B. Frank Smith and J. K. Flemming and others of the Conservative party were always in conflict. So when by-elections were called on in the counties of Carleton and Northumberland in the month of December following the great success of the Laurier Government in the general elections on Oct. 27th, George W. Upham, a candidate of the "Garden County," found that he was opposed by a gentleman named Owen, a very respectable, well known farmer who had not, however, the wide acquaintanceship of the farmer-lumberman candidate known as Upham. George was not a platform talker, but he was one of the best canvassers I ever saw. His passage through a crowd in any part of the county was remarkable for jest and laughter, for caustic wit and rough handling. Upham had a favorite method of meeting people. He could be grave or gay in an instant and he never retained any feeling against an elector who voted the other way. That perhaps was the secret of his popularity. He held no grudges. He was the same today, tomorrow and the next day.

I was in the Press Gallery during Upham's first session in 1919. He was always ready to enter a contest with any of his Carleton County adversaries. J. K. Flemming, whose ability as a debater nobody ever disputed, could be rattled by Upham quite easily. Both of these men were old acquaintances; they had met during many campaigns. Each knew the weaknesses of the other and his vulnerable points and it was very amusing for others in the House to note the verbal conflicts which ensued.

James Lowell, another rough diamond from the County of St. John, was frequently at Fredericton and was a great friend of Upham. Both of them were half farmers and half lumbermen; each had been successful in his own sphere. Lowell was just as popular in St. John County as Upham was in Carleton. They were great men to look after their constituents. Woe betide the government that did not listen patiently to either George Upham or James Lowell when they thought the public services demanded improvement. Lowell was one of the most earnest advocates the people ever had. He was appreciated from Salmon River to Lepreau. He knew more electors in his constituency by their given names than perhaps any other man in politics. He had the happiest methods of dealing with men. Knowing human nature and the peculiarities of many of his friends, he went to them always for advice instead of trying to force his opinions upon them. He guided rather than led, but he could lead if it were necessary. Mr. Lowell was a power in provincial politics and he never should have been persuaded to try to enter the federal arena. His defeat by Dr. Daniel in the City and County could be attributed rather to the city vote than the county influence. However, when he turned around the following year and provided a candidate in A. F. Bentley, who defeated the Conservative nominee, Mr. Mosher, he proved that his strength was still with the country people.

I feel in common with many others that there are too few men of the same sturdy, self-reliant character as George Upham. He was an outstanding figure among those who are making New Brunswick alive today. He was always doing something. Sometimes he was farming, sometimes he was lumbering, but he was never satisfied unless he was at work. Only about sixty years of age, his life was too short for his country and his family's sake.

LORD BYNG'S TRAIN RAN OVER A MAN

Pictou, N. S., July 17—A tragedy marred the gala proceedings of the Hector celebrations today when Scott Dawson was run over and killed by the Governor-General's special train when it was being shunted to its siding. Dawson was deaf and did not notice the slow approach of the train. Both legs were severed and he died shortly afterwards.

Another accident occurred on the waterfront when a motor boat upset at a pier just as it was putting off. Eight persons were thrown into the water but sailors from H. M. C. S. Patriot were near and all were taken out safely. Three of the victims were taken to the Red Cross emergency hospital.

To a philosopher no circumstance, however trifling, is too minute.

SYSTEMATIC CATARRH

A bad case of Catarrh is not an easy thing to treat, and a remedy that makes good deserves great credit. Catarrh is certainly fixed up Chas. H. Webb, who writes from Woodstock: "For a number of years I was troubled with Systematic Catarrh. Nothing helped me very much. I used Catarrh Inhaler and got relief. To build up my system I used Ferrozone. This combination can't be beaten. They made me well." Your case may also be bad, but Catarrh will do for you what it did for Mr. Webb. Two months treatment $1.00, small size 50c. treatment $1.00, medium size 50c. small size 25 cents.

COWS WENT ON A SPREE

Muskegon, Mich., July 18—The cows in Egelston Township have been on a prolonged spree. Every night they returned from the pasture intoxicated. The farmers complained and yesterday deputies watched the cows and located a still. They also raided the farm homes of John Quigg and Garhard Preczynski, and obtained 20 quarts of moonshine, an additional still and mash. The cows had been fed the mash.

DOES IT PAY TO WORRY ABOUT APPENDICITIS?

Can appendicitis be guarded against? Yes, by preventing intestinal infection. The intestinal antiseptic, Adlerika, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel removing ALL foul, decaying matter which might start infection. EXCELLENT for gas on stomach or chronic constipation. It removes matter which you never thought was in your system and which nothing else can dislodge. One man reports it is unbelievable the awful impurities Adlerika brought out. Dibble's Drug Store.
