BERLIN SHOCKS U.S. GIRL WHO SHOCKED PARIS

JANE BURR SAYS CITY LACKS MORALS

Terrible Types Insulted Her and Artist Friends in Dozen Places.

Berlin, Jan. 13—After shocking London and Paris with her knickerbockers, Jane Burr, an American feminist, was so shocked by Berlin that she locked her bifurcated garments in an obscure closet on the fourth floor of the pension building and is going to leave them there until she departs from here.

"I broke up a life long friendship by appearing in London and Paris in knickerbockers, but I told them all I had decided to spend the rest of my life doing every day just as I damned pleased. Then I came to Berlin and wore them for two days while trying to find a room—well, you wouldn't believe what happened."

Miss Burr looked effeminate in a fur coat, Parisian hat, modest woolen stockings and walking shoes as she told this to The New York Herald correspondent.

"I don't believe there are any morals here at all," she continued in discussing her views of Berlin. "I have been with artist friends to a dozen places where we saw terrible types who repeatedly insulted us and our escorts. There doesn't seem to be any sex problem here in the least. Vice in London and Paris does not compare with the vice here."

Miss Burr added that Sweden was the only country she had seen where the problem of so-called morals had been solved not so much by laws as by the will of the people themselves, especially with regard to divorce and illegitimate children.

Miss Burr is in Germany to study the feminist movement and other social problems, but she says she is disappointed to find that so little progress has been made in the independence of women in a country where thirty-six women sit in the national law-making body.

"The war has not made a whit of difference in the status of women here," she said. "No matter how intelligent they are they occupy the same relative position to man—that of inferiority. I think the whole country has taken itself too seriously to profit by the world changes." Miss Burr expects to make a trip around the world after returning to Paris where she says she will again don knickerbockers, her favorite traveling costume.

THE CZARINA HAD FAITH IN SWASTIKA

Documents Show She Was a Believer in Her Protective Qualities.

Paris, Jan. 13—French historians are gravely discussing the origin and merits of the famous swastika sign, which for centuries has been the talisman of royalty particularly of the Russian court. Documents signed by Pierre Gillard who for many years was tutor to the young Czaritch which have fallen into the hands of historians here purport to show that the Czarina who was a firm believer in the protective properties of the swastika and carved and drew the design everywhere had made no mistake when she carved the sign over the door of the room in which she was murdered. Superstitious persons here—they are legion—are won't to believe ill fate over took the Czarina because she carved the sign of another talisman known as sawastika over the door instead of her favorite one.

The origin of the sign historians are ready to believe came from India and it was thought to safeguard and bring prosperity and blessing to all who adopted it.

The sign has been known to exist for centuries. It has been found on the most ancient monuments in Syria and has even been discovered in Mexico while the Greeks covered their delicate vases profusely with it. Many believe that it represents the sun in its course and that the name is derived from the word "swasti" which itself is composed of the word "su," meaning "well," and "asti" meaning "it is."

Bohemians made frequent use of the sign to indicate to caravans that passed them in the road that all was well. In Rome at the beginning of the third century the sign was embroidered, printed or carved on religious ornaments.

One of the firmest believers in the magic power of the sign to-day is Queen Marie of Rumania who not only carried a jeweled swastika with her all through the war but also had it placed on all Rumanian hospitals. Toward the end of the war the Queen impressed her belief in the sign of the King and he created the Order of the Swastika, which is known as the Cross of Regina Maria. In Rumania this decoration has greater value than the Legion of Honor in France and is only given to the brave.

INDIGESTION SWEEPS OVER OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 13—An epidemic of stomach aches pervaded Oklahoma to-day, the aftermath of the gigantic barbecue celebrating the inauguration of Gov. Jack Walton.

More than 100,000 people stuffed themselves on bear meat, possum beef and other varieties of food all day yesterday and paid the price to-day.

The State's party—the biggest community affair since the opening of the Strip—was mostly a matter of history with open house receptions and similar informal affairs scheduled for to-day.

Some square dances started at sun down yesterday, however, were still in progress at dawn.

With spurs jingling to the tune of the music, cowboy dancers frequently pulled pistols and fired into the air, announcing their exuberance with loud yells.

Dr. M. L. Jewett of Milville is registered at the Barker House.

A. B. Gilbert of St. John arrived at the city this morning.

The Commission on Reparations will Grant Germany an Extension

WILL BE GIVEN UNTIL FEBRUARY 1ST TO PAY FIVE HUNDRED MILLION GOLD MARKS DUE ON MONDAY—DECISION TAKEN AT THE REQUEST OF FRANCE—ANOTHER TOWN OCCUPIED BY FRENCH TROOPS.

Essen, Jan. 12—Gelsenkirchen, three miles northeast of Essen and in the second zone of occupation, was taken over by the French today.

The reparations commission will grant Germany a further delay until February 1 in the indemnity payment of 500,000,000 gold marks due next Monday, it was forecast in reparations circles tonight.

The decision was taken at the request of France. Although the "official" reason is to give the French delegation more time in which to prepare new moratorium conditions, it is believed the increasing indication of passive resistance by Germany to the French occupation of the Ruhr has much to do with it.

It had been decided to begin discussion of Germany's request for a moratorium tomorrow morning and to reach a decision so soon as possible, but it is thought in reparations circles that France desires to leave the question of a moratorium in suspense for several weeks more in order to see what turn German events may take.

MAY CALL A MEETING

There are many reports of the possibility of Premier Poincare arranging a meeting with the Germans, to which would be invited Great Britain, Belgium and Italy and perhaps the United States.

The purpose of such a meeting would be to try and arrange a settlement with Germany, now that France has seized guarantees which she regards as necessary to the fulfillment of any terms which might be presented to Germany.

M. Poincare left the way open when he declined the proposal of Hugo Stinnes, the great German industrialist, to come to Paris after the breakdown of the recent Premier's conference in an effort to reach a direct understanding between France and the German industrialists.

If no such meeting develops, the reparations commission is expected to grant Germany a moratorium by a majority vote some time before the newly-granted delay expires.

OPPOSED TO THE REMOVAL OF THE U.N.B.

St. John, Jan. 13—The Alumni Society of the University of New Brunswick, at a January meeting held last evening in the union club following a dinner at which about forty graduates were present, went on record unanimously opposed to the university entering the proposed federation of the Maritime Universities, and passed a strong resolution urging the legislature of the province to increase substantially the annual grant to the U. N. B. Speeches were made by Dr. W. S. Carter, chief superintendent of education, Dr. C. C. Jones, chancellor of the University and C. D. Richards M. P. P., explaining some of the details of the federation plan and showing clearly that the U. N. B. would not benefit by linking with it. Other speakers endorsed these views strongly. The meeting was one of the most successful the Alumni Society has ever held.

P. J. Hughes, president of the Alumni society, was in the chair at the dinner, which began at seven o'clock, and had on his right the chief superintendent of education and on his left Chancellor Jones and Dr. Thos. Walker, the oldest living graduate of U. N. B. The dinner had been arranged for by Colonel E. C. Weyman and Colonel W. H. Harrison, and they were tendered a hearty vote of thanks Mr. Hughes proposed a toast to the King which was duly honored and he also proposed a toast to Our Alma Mater coupling with it the names of Dr. Carter, Dr. Jones and Mr. Richards. All three responded in brief but impressive addresses.

A number of new members were admitted and a committee was appointed to examine the alumni essays.

Bany Stock Going Up

GOOD WORDS FOR NEW BRUNSWICK

(Fort Fairfield Review)
That New Brunswick will reap an extra harvest from the large amount of automobile traffic over her highways the coming year, on account of her adoption of the rule of turning to the right, is the prediction made by many. Together with her rapid increase in mileage of good roads, this change will mean that New Brunswick will be much more than ever before an automobile pleasure ground for thousands of Yankee tourists, who are always strong in their admiration for the scenic beauties and wonders of this gifted Canadian province.

Big Crowd At Rink

Last evening a large crowd was in attendance at the Arctic Rink. The ice was in perfect condition and the ten bands were enjoyed by all present.

JURY FAILED TO AGREE IN PARKER CASE

Stood Eight to Four for Acquittal on Charge of Manslaughter.

St. John, Jan. 13—Another murder trial has ended in a disagreement. After seven and a half hours of deliberation the jury in the case of Mrs. Bessie Parker charged with the murder of Mary Emily Frontin, whose death followed an illegal operation failed to reach a verdict last evening and they were discharged. The jury members were unanimously against bringing in a verdict of guilty on the murder charge and they stood eight to four for acquittal on the charge of manslaughter. The prisoner was remanded to jail and the court adjourned until next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when Judge Barry will hear the opposing counsel on the further hearing of the case. The jury returned to the court room three times in all before they were finally discharged once to hear a portion of the evidence and twice to announce that they were unable to reach an agreement.

At the completion of the judge's charge the jury retired at 2.45 o'clock and they returned at 4.20 o'clock and George Currie the foreman requested the reading of all Nellie Katherine Frontin's evidence; that portion of Mrs. Parker's testimony dealing with the visits of the unfortunate girl to her home and also the girl's dying declaration. The evidence of Miss Frontin and Mrs. Parker was read by Mr. Ketchum the court stenographer and the dying declaration by John Willet, the court clerk.

The jury retired again at 4.55 o'clock and as no further reports had come from the jury room at 6 o'clock the Judge ordered a recess until 7.30 o'clock for supper. Refreshments were also brought to the court house for the members of the jury.

At 7.47 o'clock a knock was heard at the door of the jury room and a rush was made by the crowd waiting in the lobby to secure seats.

The jury filed slowly into the court room and the defendant scanned closely the faces of the jurymen as they took their places. She appeared calm but her face showed the effect of the strain which she had been undergoing. She received the announcement of the foreman of the jury that they failed to agree without showing any particular emotion.

The judge asked the foreman if there was any particular part of the evidence which they wanted read to them. The foreman replied that there was not.

Judge Barry then sent jury back for further deliberation. At 10.15 o'clock they returned and announced a disagreement.

Death at Macnaquac

Mrs. Ludow Albright of Macnaquac died Friday night at her home in that place at the age of seventy years. She is survived by her husband, four sons Charles and Lee of Boston, Harold in Manitoba and George at home, also one daughter Mrs. Byron Brewer of Fredericton. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon with service at the Macnaquac church at two o'clock by Rev. Mr. Gillen.

Rosemary Path to Recall

"Tommy" Going to War

London, Jan. 13—Church Slope Road at Folkestone, the hill down which hundreds of thousands of Tommies marched to embark for France and fight in the great war, is to be planted on both sides with rosemary.

The Folkestone Town Council is considering a suggestion to rename the slope "The Road of Remembrance."

TASCHEREAU IS HOPEFUL OF WINNING

QUEBEC LIBERALS HAVE GOOD RECORD

Movement Being Made to Establish a Farmers Bank in Quebec.

Quebec, Jan. 12—"Victory is ours" is the cry of hope and confidence with which Hon. L. A. Hachereau concluded his manifesto to the electors of the province of Quebec. What the Premier calls his balance sheets of three years' administration and the programme of the Liberal party in Quebec was handed out to the press this evening.

In his manifesto, Hon. Mr. Taschereau deals with every problem with which he took over the leadership from the former Premier, Sir Lomer Gouin. He reviews briefly what his government accomplished during his term of office but he forecasts no important new legislation for the future if the Liberal party is returned to power at the forthcoming elections.

The manifesto will be used as the official statement of the facts by the government and its programme by the Liberal candidates.

An Election Move

Ottawa, Jan. 12—What is interpreted as being an adroit pre-election move on the part of the Taschereau government in Quebec is contained in this week's issue of Canadian Gazette. It takes the form of an application to the Dominion Parliament for passage of an Act of incorporation for the Farmers' Bank of Quebec which, it is understood involves provision for a system of rural credits in that province.

The authorized capital proposed is $2,000,000 and the incorporators are: Hon. J. E. Caron, minister of agriculture in the Taschereau cabinet; C. J. Rockwell, real estate agent; T. Lavoie, banker; Joseph J. Gagnon, public and professor in Laval University; Arsene Denis, farmer, Joliette; Louis Letourneau, manufacturer, a member of the Quebec Legislature and Adhemar Gagnon, wholesale merchant, all of Quebec City.

Although the so-called Progressive movement in Quebec province has not made much progress so far and has failed to dissociate itself completely from the old Nationalist movement the possibility of a real farmers' organization in provincial politics is not regarded as composure, by Premier Taschereau who, it is believed, to head of any such movement has proposed the formation of a Farmers' Bank.

One politician said today that, although there was little hope of the application being granted, the fact that it had been asked for could be pointed to by the Taschereau candidates in the election campaign with considerable advantage.

Late Mrs. Catherine Dolan
