DEVON MAN PASSED AWAY AT ST. JOHN

St. John, April 2—A. Turner B. Howard a well known and highly respected figure in local Forester and religious circles died in his room at the Boston restaurant Charlotte street last evening at about 8.30 o'clock. The late Mr. Howard who was single and about sixty-eight years of age recently had returned from the General Public Hospital and had been in failing health for some time. His condition was cause for considerable anxiety on the part of a large circle of friends not only here but in Fredericton and North Devon the latter being his birthplace. Yesterday he was up and around and partook of three meals and seemed quite bright and cheery and making several references to Easter and the significance of the great feast. As late as eight o'clock he was sitting in the hallway chatting with friends. He retired to his room at 8.20 o'clock. A friend called with some flowers and on entering the room found Mr. Howard lying on the bed. When he attempted to awaken Mr. Howard he was horrified to find him dead. A call was sent in for Dr. L. A. McAlpine who pronounced him dead shortly after arrival. The body was removed to Brennan's mortuary from where the funeral will be held with the local Foresters in charge.

Mr. Howard had a host of friends in the city who will mourn his passing. He was a man of a deeply religious turn of mind and was an enthusiastic member of the Queen Square Methodist Church for many years. He also was an officer of Court La Tour No 128 I.O.F. which organization has taken charge of the funeral arrangements. Mr. Howard left no relatives in the city and an effort was made last night to locate relatives in North Devon. He has one brother who is in the United States.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION AT GAIETY THEATRE

"Under Two Flags," is the photoplay at the Gaiety Monday and Tuesday. Priscilla Dean is the featured player.

There's a shik on every good director's callboard. And so Ouida's "Under Two Flags" an old favorite and a good one, already successful as a novel and a play, is receiving the third degree as a film play.

Priscilla Dean gives an excellent performance as Cigarette, the vivandiere, with the support of a popular and talented cast which includes James Kirkwood and Stuart Holmes.

In the scenario Cigarette, notorious dancer and mascot of a French regiment in Algiers, falls suddenly in love with Corporal Victor, a stranger who keeps his past well hidden from his companions in the chateaux. He attracts the attention of the Princess Corona, who admires his carved chessmen. This excites the jealousy of the Marquis de Chateaucroy who finally orders Victor shot at sunrise as a traitor to France. Cigarette, whose mother was an Arab, decides to return to the desert with the Shik because she suspects a plot against France. She hears of Victor's fate and returns to Algiers in time to warn the general and save Victor although she is shot in his stead. The picture has a happy ending.

The British Government Has Substantial Surplus

London, April 1—The government last night issued the balance sheet of the United Kingdom for the fiscal year ending March 31. Total government revenues were £914,012,462 and expenditures £812,596,604 leaving a surplus of £101,515,848. The revenue for the year ended yesterday is £210,867,421 below that of last year while the expenditures also decreased £266,690,023.

Customs and excise produced £84,276,000 less than the previous year excess profits duties £28,448,000; property and income tax, £19,842,000 and postal service £5,350,000. The state duties yielded £4,680,000 more telephone service £3,050,000; corporation and profit tax £1,461,000 and motor vehicles dues £1,225,000.

The principal items of expenditure were: Interest on war debt £309,780,511; fighting services £111,000,000 and civil services £286,826,000. The expenditure for fighting services which was £78,000,000 below the previous year exceeded the estimate by £27,000,000 but more than £30,000,000 were saved on civil services the estimates for which were £163,000,000 less than in 1921-22.

The floating debt outstanding is £309,942,500 which is a decrease of £219,573,000 as compared with the floating debt on March 31, 1922.

May Go to Reduce National Debt

The extreme difficulty experienced by Chancellors of the Exchequer after the war in estimating correctly the nation's accounts a year ahead is shown by the figures. Instead of a surplus of between six and seven million pounds sterling as estimated by the former Chancellor, Sir Robert S. Horne the surplus actually exceeds £101,000,000 which by law goes automatically to the reduction of the national debt, unless Parliament should pass a special act disposing of it otherwise.

This big surplus is mainly due to unexpectedly large reductions in expenditures the chief saving being under the heads of civil services which cost approximately £287,000,000 as compared with estimates of £450,000,000 and defence services of £111,000,000 as compared with an estimate of £190,000,000.

On the revenue side although the income tax was reduced it produced

£50,000,000 more than was estimated while the excess profit duty and sale of war stores together produced £84,000,000 less than estimated.

Want Taxes Reduced.

The question uppermost in the nation's mind at the present moment is whether the budget statement Chancellor Baldwin will submit a week hence will afford any further relief from taxation. The Chancellor is being bombarded with demands for such reductions and there is general expectation of a reduction of sixpence or a shilling on the income tax with relief in the beer and sugar duties.

It is believed however that the Chancellor himself favors maintenance of the existing duties and taxes and application of all realizable surpluses to reduction of the national debt. The new Government is not yet very firmly seated and it is possible that the other ministers will override the Chancellor's personal views and decide for a reduction of taxation.

The present year has not been remarkable for expansion of trade but the fact that the reduced income tax has yielded so much beyond expectations will be seized upon by those who argue that the only thing required to stimulate trade and industry is relief from heavy taxation. There is a strong body of financial and commercial opinion in the country that the Government has pursued too conservative and too prudent a policy in the direction of deflation and reduction of the debt.

This conclusion conceives it is preferable to reduce taxation and stimulate trade rather than to attempt further deflation with the inevitable problems of huge unemployment.

Since however the Chancellor can hardly expect in the coming year retrenchment on the scale of the past year and can hardly hope for any great reduction of expenditure with the United States debt to meet he is expected not to take too sanguine a view and estimate for a large surplus in the coming year.

Everything depends in this estimate on how much he will be able to devote to reduction of taxation.

GERMAN GIRLS TO WED OR WORK ANY DIFFERENCE?

New York, April 2—Two groups of German girls arrived in New York on the United States line steamship President Fillmore. Members of one section said:

"We're coming here to work; we don't want to get married." Those of the other section said:

"We don't want to work; we want to get married."

The immigration officer taking their statements smilingly inquired: "Where's the difference? You won't find any. Take it from me, you'll have to work married or single. Most wives in America have to work. I'm married and I know."

Inquiries for German girls who wanted either to work or to wed, amounted almost to a rush at the immigration station.

AN HEIRESS TO MILLIONS

Hollywood Cal., April 2—Lester J. Norris of St. Charles Ill., obtained a license at the County Marriage License Bureau today to wed Delora Frances Angell, heiress to the fortune of John W. ("Bet You a Million") Gates. Miss Angell said to be the richest heiress in the country was not present when the license was issued, although her father accompanied Norris to give his consent.

FINE PHOTOPLAY AT CAPITOL THEATRE

"Missing Millions" featuring Alice Brady is the photoplay at the Capitol for the first half of the week. Alice Brady plays the role of Mary Dawson, a crook. And she has a cast that is good looking and talented. George Le Guere plays the trusting purser, a poor deluded boy who believes in women. David Powell plays the role of a tender-hearted crook, Frank Losee, does the double-crossing financier with his customary polish.

OTTAWA WON WORLD'S HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP

Vancouver, B. C., April 1—Ottawa Senators hold the world's championship. They fought their way through three play-offs to the honor which they earned if any team ever did. Defeating the Montreal Canadiens, they came west and turned back the Vancouver Maroons three games out of four. Saturday night Senators defeated Edmonton Eskimos by the score of 1 to 0. The Senators got their lone score about half way through the first period and from that point they played a safe but an uninteresting defensive game, which the eastern rules allow. The Eskimos are one of the fastest teams in major hockey, but their speed availed them nothing against the Senators.
