GOES THROUGH ROOF; LANDS IN A BED

Shamokin, Pa., April 14—Miss Beatrice Brady, eighteen, went to bed the other night more quickly than she had expected, she said.

The young woman was in the garret, the joists of which were not floored, to hunt some covers. Slipping, she fell on the unprotected plaster and in a second was lying in bed in the sleeping room below, having gone through the ceiling.

IF YOU'D SPOT A DEAD BEAT—SCAN HIS PHIZ

Chicago, April 17—At the end of each year at least half a dozen in every office figure out how much better off they would be if they could only collect their bad debts. They are extended herewith an invitation to go off the sucker list.

Whether its the gent who comes into ones bank and hits one for a loan of $10,000 or more or the bird who suggests the loan of a ten-spot till pay day, there's a science in detecting the good bet from the bad one, according to J. F. Keefe, secretary of the Chicago Association of Credit men.

Physiognomy as by his bank reference, "We judge a man as much by his eyes," said O'Keefe. "When we find a man whose head and features are well balanced we consider him a good risk."

Domelike brows are danger signals for the creditor, according to the debt expert, who says the highbrowed borrower is inclined toward crookedness.

Too much confidence should not be placed in the aggressive chin, for this according to O'Keefe, indicates the vital type, the bon vivant, rather too fond of the flesh pots.

Cautious finances will also lay off the bozo with the funny looking head. O'Keefe says he is likely to be unbalanced. He may be a genius, even a financial wizard, but in business deals one may find him erratic.

SAYS BOUDOIR PEEPING HAS BLINDED US

New York April 16—In an address at a luncheon in the Hotel Commodore, New York in the interest of a proposed $6,000,000 endowment fund for Goucher College Baltimore Dr. Edwin Embree secretary of the Rockefeller Foundation charged that the mass of American people do not understand or even think about "colossal world problems pressing for solution" but prefer to "follow the antics of human monkeys on the back fence."

"Such a momentous question as the ultimate dominance of the white or yellow race may be settled at this moment," Dr. Embree said "yet public attention here is centered on a millionaire and the boudoir of a chorus girl; upon the probable engagement of a comedian and an actress and upon pie throwing moving pictures wherein sentiment goes no deeper than the kiss at the end of the reel."

Women he said must lead men in learning a new way of living.

MOVE TO STOP EXODUS MARITIME PROVINCES

(Boston Advertiser)

St. John, N. B., April 14—Although public officials in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick deny that the exodus of natives from the provinces threatens the future of the old section they admit that immediate steps must be taken to stem the tide of emigration that is flowing from the provinces into the United States and Western provinces of Canada.

James H. Conlon, secretary of the Canadian Fisheries Association recently stated that 40,000 persons had left Nova Scotia in the last sixteen months.

Immediately following that assertion Dr. E. A. Smith, chairman of the New Brunswick Water Powers Commission, asserted that 16,000 residents of New Brunswick had left the province within recent date.

Officials Minimize Danger
New Brunswick and Nova Scotia officials scout the two statements and points to the United States immigration records to prove that the exodus from the Maritime Provinces to the United States is not as great as Dr. Smith and Mr. Conlon assert.

They are vehement in their denials, but mindful of the fact that too many natives of the provinces are leaving for new homes in the United States and the newer provinces of Western Canada, they are laying plans to stem the out-flowing tide of verile blood.

They appreciate that the very cream of young manhood is flowing westward.

To check this outflow is the problem, and in the minds of thoughtful citizens is the chief problem that New Brunswick and Nova Scotia faces.

Many reasons are advanced for the outflowing tide of young men and women, and in the work of checking up the causes the officials place a big index finger on the failure of the Dominion government to recognize the claims of the old eastern sections.

West is Favored

For more than a decade the Dominion government and the great railroads of Canada have been doing everything possible to build up the western provinces. Many inducements have been given to the boys and girls of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia to desert the ancestral homes and join the new colonies in the rich wheat-growing sections of the far west.

Through the system perfected by the government and railroads. The young men are financed and placed on the highway of success.

Eastern officials are asking: "Why deplete the eastern provinces in order to build up the west?" The question, they say, must be answered by the sponsors of the system that is robbing Nova Scotia and New Brunswick of its young and efficient workers.

To Build Up Provinces

A definite program, for the up-building of the two eastern provinces is now in the making and will embrace the following features:

A system will be perfected under which young men will find it possible to finance the purchase of farms and timber tracts.

A system will also be perfected under which the tourist trade can be encouraged. This will embrace a publicity campaign and the building of hotels on the picturesque coast.

Coupled with these plans will be the more ambitious scheme of developing the hydro electric power resources and the building of electric railway lines that will link up the small towns of the two provinces and solve the transportation problem.

Field A Rich One

These improvements will require much capital, but those who are loyal to the old provinces say that they will prove paying investments.

Concerning agricultural possibilities there can be no denial of the fact that Nova Scotia and New Brunswick offer rich fields for development. This is particularly true for the cultivation of fruits and potatoes.

Naturally the Dominion government will be asked to take a hand in this work, for inasmuch as the government in Ottawa has been instrumental in the depletion of the population it ought to be willing to correct the wrong and help in the work of restoring the ancient provinces to their old time greatness.

YOU CAN SWAP CIGARS FOR LAWSON'S NIFTIEST CAR

Boston, April 18—Want to buy "the handsomest auto in the world?"

"Tom Lawson has it. He needs money and he must sell it. It's a real car, with every conceivable accessory that's necessary for pleasure and comfort. For instance the owner recently paid $760 to have a set of "easy riders" put on it.

Lawson has 11 cars and has decided to sell one of them, the best one, built especially for him. Consequently he inserted the following advertisement in several Boston newspapers, describing the vehicle:

FOR SALE—BEST CAR IN WORLD LOCOMOBILE

I gave an order for the two best cars in the world, open and closed. I paid $25,000 for the pair. They have every conceivable modestly rich touch from a wonderful collection of lamps to $3500 of soft brown Spanish leather linings throughout. No car in the world has its equal. I have kept them for my exclusive use while I have had nine other cars in the garage for family use. Only my personal chauffeur has ever touched them. This closed car has only been used four months a year. It is as good as new. I would not swap it for any two cars in the world. Would not sell it for $20,000 under other circumstances. Every one who knows it or has seen it on the street agrees it is the handsomest car in the world. If it is not, I will give it without cost to the first one to prove it. It has just had added $760 Westinghouse Easy Riders. The first comer gets it for $5,000. My only reason for selling, I must have money. My creditors say, so and I must. This means I must content myself to the use of my open car and four or five smaller ones.

THOMAS W. LAWSON.

P. S.—As I am completely out of cigars for summer smoking, I will take 5,000 $1 cigars in lieu of cash. Apply at once to Horace T. Fogg or William A. Burton, trustees Thomas W. Lawson, Dreamworld, Egypt, Scituate Mass.

Post Scriptum—No attention paid to anyone who has not the $5,000 ready to pay over at once. Under no circumstances will the price be shaded or any dicker held except for smokers as above. T.W.L.

MEOW!

Once I had a little bird
And his song
Was the sweetest ever heard
He is gone—
Some cat got him.

Once I had a white pet mouse
He was great;
Wiggly, dancing little mouse;
He is ate—
Some cat got him.

Once I had a lovely beau
Had a bee;
Lots of cash to spend you know.
I could cuss—
Some cat got him.

OLD SONGS ARE BEST THESE DAYS

Cleveland, April 16—Songs of olden days continue to lead in popularity. This was evidenced today in an address by Kenneth S. Clark, of New York, secretary of the committee of people's songs before the Music Supervisors' National Conference here.

Mr. Clark made public a list of 15 songs which received the highest number of votes from directors of community singing throughout the United States to whom questionnaires had been submitted to determine which are considered the best songs of American origin used in community singing. The list follows: America, The Beautiful (tune Materna).

Old Folks at Home.
My Old Kentucky Home.
Battle Hymn of the Republic.
Old Black Joe.
America.
The Star Spangled Banner.
Sweet Adeline.
Dixie.
Carry Me Back to Old Virginny.
There's a Long, Long Trail.
Home, Sweet Home.
Till We Meet Again.
I've Been Working on the Railroad.
L'il Liza Jane.
Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean.
Sweet Genevieve.
Good Night, Ladies.

This list, Mr. Clark said, will be submitted to the people in the form of a voting contest to determine the favorite song of the American people. A concert tonight by the conference chorus and orchestra, in which the 1,500 delegates will participate, features today's program. Arrangements have been to broadcast the concert by radio.
