THE ETERNAL.

Frenchmen and Germans sway back and forth and no one knows but that the breaking of their deadlock will fill a continent again with the roar of heavy artillery. Turks and allies wrangle over matters involving the welfare of millions of human creatures. Pro-tribunalists and anti-tribunalists fill America with their dust and over on the coast of Kamchatka tidal waves roll in and engulf whole villages.

But the fishing season opens according to statutes made and enacted.

So the world is not fallen into the pit of anarchy which timid folks tell us is yawning at our feet. There are dimpled streams purring through green corridors of sprouting willows. There are noble lakes and rivers glinting under the spring sun, changing their countenances as every soft and whispering breeze strikes them. There are sheltered banks nearby from which the anemone peeks out, and far away, the sound of the plowman talking mule-talk to his animals.

No, the world is not preparing itself for one last, grand, deafening explosion. The things that count are no more disturbed than the gods are more anxious by the blowing of paper pellets in the schoolrooms. The season is coming when a man may fish for anything without being pestered by game wardens and while he fishes know again that nations and capitals and statesmen and journalists and even earthquakes, for all their noise, are but as the clattering of tin pans. Eternal things—like biting fish and the love to catch 'em—go on forever, changing not.

Mr. R. B. Smith, M. P. P., of Oromocto was harder hit by the freshet than any other man in the County of Sunbury, yet regardless of his own interests he spent two days last week with his motor boat and scows transporting cattle belonging to the flood stricken farmers of Manguerville and Sheffield to higher ground on the Burton side of the river. Mr. Smith has proved himself a good friend to the people of Sunbury in time of need. A few years ago when a disastrous fire levelled the major portion of Oromocto to the ground he was on the job day and night assisting those less fortunate than himself, and residents of the Parishes of Manguerville and Sheffield will not need to be told of the service which he rendered to them last week. The Little County of Sunbury has raised some eminent men but never one with a bigger heart than beats in the bosom of Mr. R. B. Smith, M. P. P.

New Brunswick Tory politicians at Ottawa seem to take particular delight in barking at the heels of Hon. Dr. Pugsley. On Friday when a vote of $75,000 for the adjustment of war claims was before Parliament a Tory member moved that it be reduced by $9,000, the amount of Hon. Dr. Pugsley's salary, and we regret to learn that it was Mr. R. B. Hanson of York-Sunbury who brought the matter up. Mr. Hanson should be above pettiness of that sort. Had the commissioner appointed to investigate Canada's war claims been an Ontario man instead of a distinguished son of New Brunswick, it is dollars to doughnuts that Mr. Hanson would have never opened his mouth. The Maritime provinces get little enough from Ottawa and when something does happen to come this way if the Tory politicians cannot see their way clear to speak words of commendation they should have sense enough to keep their mouths closed.

Sir Louis Olivier Tallon, who died at Montreal recently, was for years one of the leading Conservative politicians of the Province of Quebec. He was twice Premier of the Province and held a portfolio in the Tupper cabinet when it went down to defeat in the memorable election of 1896. In those days Hon. Mr. Tallon wore a beard a foot long and was a rather picturesque figure. On one occasion when speaking at Montreal during the 1896 election campaign Sir Wilfred Laurier remarked that the Tories were trying to hide their iniquities in Mr. Tallon's whiskers.

According to the Wall Street Journal, Paderewski has received $460,000 for recitals covering about five months. Charlie Chaplin's best year, it says, brought in $800,000 and Dempsey has had a 6-month average of $150,000 for more than four years. The Paderewski income, if it could be maintained throughout the year, would exceed a million dollars. Art with a capital A appears to be making up for its era of crusts and gruel and can complain of nothing except the income tax laws.

A census bulletin issued at Ottawa on the religion of the people shows that Roman Catholics comprise 38.50 per cent of the population. In the Province of New Brunswick twenty five per cent of the people are adherents of the Baptist church. In the government of New Brunswick there are three Baptists holding portfolios.

Although it has always been contended that the Transcontinental Railway in New Brunswick was located in the wrong place it is the only railway in the province on which trains were able to run regularly during the recent freshet.

The City Council should clean up the river bank between Northumberland and Smythe Streets. It can be made a beauty spot instead of the eyesore it is at present.

It might be said that the portrait painter who sailed for Paris rather than testify in the Stokes' divorce case, sort of faded from the picture.

"Soviet System is rotten to Core" says a headline. Lenin and Trotsky will probably argue that there ain't goin' to be no core.

"Woman publisher runs plant like her home and never had a strike." Where is the home that never had a strike?

The Irish Free State has pardoned two women hunger strikers on "ground of compassion." Another blow at feminism.

Summer is all right until one gets his first glimpse of a man in a bathing suit and then it is entirely ruined.

Modern rents have rather disposed of that "Two families cannot live under the same roof" theory.

An apologetic letter for letters unwritten is the tragedy of Mother's Day.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

Lima Beane says the poet was too smart to say woman wants but little here below.

No matter whether we sprang from a monkey or a piece of mud the important thing is, have we improved?

Scientists say the Einstein theory is true. But what effort does that have on the price of sugar?

What would you think of a dandelion that used rouge in a desperate endeavor to look like a pink rose?

Even the fellow who doesn't believe in signs must admit that "Detour" doesn't mean go straight ahead.

When a young man brags about having broken the law prison reform loses some of its attraction as an uplift movement.

Perhaps the safest time to take em off meaning your well knowns is when the tar in the streets gets a bit oozy.

We have yet to see an auto tire hung over a door, in place of the old horseshoe as an invitation to Good Luck to come in.

"Philosophy" remarked the Man on the Car, "Is what you think you would make use of if you were in the other fellow's place."

Come to think of it the Ten Commandments, rigidly observed also take away a lot of man's so-called "personal liberty."

Bridge Towed Back

The work on the covered bridge at the mouth of the Nashwaak was continued Sunday. One of the spans which was carried down stream has been towed into position for replacing on piers. The other is still aground.

Local Improvement Assn.

The Local Improvement Association is active with spring cleaning in various parts of the city. A number of trees along the bank of the river below St. John street have been cut down as they showed signs of decay.

LITTLE STORIES OF THE TOWN

New Brunswick Apples Best.

"Those Western Apples are uniform in size and beautiful to look at" said a local grocer "but for flavor and aroma give me the New Brunswick apple every time. You can tell a Western Apple by sight but you can tell a New Brunswick apple by its delicious fragrance."

After Their Moneys Worth.

A woman who recently assisted at a Rummage Sale says such a sale is the place to find real bargain hunters. She says those who attend the sales are canny how they spend their money and that they get real bargains.

Better Dye It and not throw it away.

Destruction isn't conservation. Clothes thrown away can do you no further good. They must be replaced by new ones which cost money. See if there isn't something in your equipment that can be dyed. If so, we can sell you the very best dye for any fabric and in any color.
