FINE PHOTOPLAY AT CAPITOL THEATRE

"No More Women" is the photoplay at the Capitol for the first half of the week.

Some scenes in a summer camp in which a young girl tries to attract the attention of a woman hater are particularly good and funny, too. The story as the title would suggest, is about a young man who, for his own protection, swears off the fair sex and then promptly goes and falls in love with the first one who sets her cap at him. It may not be a particularly original idea, but the plot has been ingeniously worked out and a melodramatic sequence has been introduced to add the necessary suspense. Through it all runs the pathetic little story of a dog whose life is one escape from the city pound after another.

The picture has been directed with skill and the casting was well done. Madge Bellamy does the best work she has contributed to the screen in many motions and she looks very pretty. Matt Moore is acceptable and Kathleen Clifford fills the bill as well as the eye.

LATE WILLIAM W. AIKEN

Funeral Held Sunday Afternoon From Late Home of Deceased.

The funeral of the late William Aiken, took place Sunday afternoon, from his home in Waterloo Row, and was largely attended. Rev. Alban Bate conducted the services. The hymns which were sung by the Devon Quartet were, "Abide with Me," "Sometime, Somewhere," and "Lead Kindly Light". Interment was made at the Rural Cemetery. The pall-bearers were Frederick Ryan, Albert Miles, Robert Forbes, Michael Moore, Harry Miller, Dr. W. J. Irvine.

The mourners were: George Aiken, Herbert Aiken, Earnest Howes, George Howes, Earl Niles, M. Stevenson, William Lasky, David Staples, Wardlow Kilburn, Arthur Kilburn, William Staples, George Cummings, Walter Cummings, Elwood Burt, Roy Burt, Joseph McDonald, Jack McDonald, Joseph Moore, Thomas Akerly, Wm. Finley, Wm. Dunbar, Fraser Dunbar, Charles Burt, Thomas R. Steels.

Mill Hand Hurt.

Chester Blizzard an employee of the Victoria Mill is now at the Fraser Memorial Hospital suffering from the effects of a severe accident which befell him while at work on Saturday afternoon. While tending the log roller which draws logs from the river his right foot became caught and was badly injured. Fortunately the roller was brought to a stop otherwise his injuries would have been more serious. He was taken to the hospital where it was found that several toes had been crushed and the main bone of the foot had been fractured. The accident was a very painful one and will lay him up for some time.

The Late Miss Hodge

The funeral of the late Miss Esther Hodge took place from her home on Northumberland street Sunday afternoon. Interment was made at the Rural Cemetery. Rev. G. C. Warren conducted the service. The hymns were "O God Our Help in Ages Past", "Emmanuel's Land", and "Lead Kindly Light", sung by a quartet from the Brunswick Street Baptist Church choir. The pall bearers were W. Storey Hooper, E. A. McVey, Hugh O'Neill Sr., Robert B. VanDine, Franklin Causland, and R. B. Wallace. The mourners were J. R. Haines, George W. Hodge, Harry Hoben, Harry Hodge, John H. Fleming, W. B. Lint, Alexander C. Fleming, Hugh O'Neill Jr., Dr. J. E. Sewell, J. L. Neville, John W. Spurden, Arthur C. Porter, Joseph Walker, George Davenport, Dr. H. H. McNally and W. B. Lint. The floral gifts were many and beautiful.

A Heavy Producer.

John R. Randall of Lakeville Corner Sunbury County is undoubtedly one of the heaviest producers of garden produce in the province. Up to the present time this season he has disposed of ten tons of ripe tomatoes, three thousand dozens of cucumbers one thousand ears of corn and one thousand head of cabbages. He has a large quantity still to sell and expects to gather seven hundred barrels of apples from his orchard. Mr. Randall uses a motor truck and markets all of his produce in Fredericton, Marysville, Devon and Minto.

AN AGGRESSIVE POLICY IS NEEDED FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE FORESTS OF DOMINION

Ottawa, Sept. 7.—Urgent need of a more aggressive policy of forest conservation in Ontario is pointed out on one of the 292 pages of the report of the Royal Commission on Pulpwood which was submitted to the Federal Government near the end of the last session of Parliament and which in its bulky printed form was issued from the Printing Bureau presses only a few days ago.

The members of the Commission were: Joseph Picard, Quebec, Chairman; William A. Anstie, Deputy Chairman; Commissioners Joseph G. Sutherland, R. W. McLellan and A. Kerr, Toronto, Secretary; E. H. Finlayson, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Argues Against Embargo.

Two main questions were to be considered by the Commission. One was the proposed embargo on the export of pulpwood from Canada to the United States, and the other was a general survey of the question of conservation of Canada's pulpwood resources and the best means to adopt to obtain the greatest security for the future forest wealth of the Dominion. On the live subject of the embargo no definite recommendation was made by the Commission, although conclusive arguments against the adoption of such a course were summarized by the report. On this point it was shown that only 10 per cent. of Canada's pulpwood production could be affected by any embargo measure, and it was also intimated that any such restrictive or retaliatory measure against the United States would hardly serve a useful purpose.

Only a small portion of the report is devoted to the much-discussed embargo question, while the major part of the document contains a vast amount of invaluable information relative to the forest wealth of the various Provinces of the Dominion. Dealing with the Province of Ontario and the need of fuller protection of that Province's forest resources, the report says:

Too Great a Toll.

"When the extent of the resources to be administered and protected are reflected upon, and the funds which have for several years been made available to this end are considered, it is quite apparent that the forest service of Ontario has been treated quite as liberally as if not actually more so than, have other Provinces of the Dominion. This fact, notwithstanding there is ample evidence that the Government of Ontario also has followed the practice of extracting too great a toll from its forest resources, without returning thereto, by way of protection and competent administration, the amount which proper conduct of the forest business would demand.

"As in the case of Quebec, so in Ontario the forest industry is of extreme importance in the economic development of the Province. A situation had developed in the balance as between timber production and wood consumption which can only be rectified by the application of vigorous measures. If remedial measures in this direction are to be expected, on the one hand the Government must give its forest service a freer hand in the formulation and pursuance of policies which will permit of improvement; on the other hand, the service must arouse itself to obtain these readily justified concessions from the Government, and upon receipt of them to exert a forceful attitude in the performance of its various functions.

Motorists in City.
