VALEDICTORY OF A. E. L. BOOTH AT ENCAENIAL EXERCISES OF UNIVERSITY OF N. B. TODAY

The valedictory address delivered by A. E. Leslie Booth of Fredericton at the encaenial exercises of the University of New Brunswick this afternoon was as follows:—

Your Honour, Mr. President and members of the Senate, Mr. President and Members of the Associated Alumni, Mr. Chancellor and Gentlemen of the Faculty, Fellow Students, Ladies and Gentlemen:—

Today, for the members of the class of 1924, "the old order changeth, yielding place to new", for as graduates we are passing through the portals of our Alma Mater into the great world beyond. To us, at least, Encaenia is the most important function of the college year, for it means the attainment of the goal toward which we have been striving for four years and, we realize with a touch of sadness, it means the severing of associations, of ties which mean more to us than many of you perhaps realize. We believe we have proved that there is nothing impossible of accomplishment, for we leave these halls possessed of the coveted parchments and corresponding degrees. With these stamps of approval ours, with our college careers, behind us, we go forth from a sphere of directed action to the hand-to-hand conflict of life.

Reminiscences.

At this, our last meeting as students of U. N. B., it is but natural that we should be occupied with reminiscences of our existence here, and with mingled feelings of gratitude and sorrow. Therefore it seems but appropriate, now that the time for parting has come, to heed the dictation of precedent and make a brief review of our sojourn here, together with a sketch of the activities of the student body during the past year.

On a bright September morning in the autumn of 1920, a group of forty-six youths and maidens with extremely verdant outlook but withal consumed by curiosity, might have been seen ascending the rocky, crooked path through the grove toward the Arts Building. Such was the entrance of the class of 1924 into the precincts of the University. Even as countless others before us, we ran the gauntlet of the awe-inspiring signs which decorated the trees and were met upon the campus with cries of "Back door, freshmen!" Our decision to remain upon the terrace until the time for the first lecture proved a wise one, for a few minutes before nine we were rewarded by the appearance of the Chancellor, who speedily dispersed the throng gathered on the steps and ushered us into a mathematics lecture by way of the front door. After introductions to the upper classmen, noticeable chiefly for the warmth and enthusiasm of those performing the introductions, the class began to consider itself a part of the student body, and entered with zest into both athletic and social functions. We attained the distinction of being the best interior decorators in college as a result of our efforts in preparation for the annual Convocation, and all too soon afterwards finished our first year.

As Sophomores we numbered forty-nine, for eleven new students joined our ranks though eight had fallen by the wayside. We found ourselves the guardian angels of an incoming class and zealously endeavoured to do our duty. The promising class of 1925 is an eloquent testimonial of our thoroughness and efficiency.

Late J. E. C. Brennan.

But we were not destined to be unvisited by sorrow, for upon returning to begin our Junior year we learned that our newly-elected class president had been called into the Great Beyond and would return to us no more. We knew Jim Brennan, or "Spike" as he was called, as leader, athlete, student and friend, and the accident which resulted in his death deprived the University of one of the finest men who ever entered its doors. But it was not for us to question, and though missing his guidance and mature counsel at every turn we did our best to "carry on" as we knew he would have us do.

In our Senior year we took the helm which today we must surrender to the undergraduates, and made, we believe, an honest effort to maintain the standard set by those who had gone before us. Our membership, reduced to thirty-five, was increased to forty-four by the entrance of the members from the St. John Law School, and to that number we graduate.

Athletic Record.

During the past year our athletic and social functions have been carried on as usual. Our football team won the League championship for the third successive time and thus brought the famous Clark Trophy into the permanent possession of U. N. B.

The hockey and basketball teams were not so successful from the point of view of victories won, but they had the satisfaction of knowing that they played hard, clean games.

Debating

The debating society carried on throughout the year, the intercollegiate team participating in a contest with the Oxford Union Society's representatives who were on tour last autumn, as well as in the regular intercollegiate debate. The Ladies' Team debated Acadia's Co-ed orators. But the fortunes of war were against us in each case. It is felt that too little interest in debating is displayed here. It is an accomplishment of great value to anyone and is worthy of better support "up the hill", especially from the science students.

Other Activities.

The College magazine, has been published regularly, the improvement in the engineering section being most commendable.

Mock Trial and Mock Parliaments were largely attended, and the College Orchestra has been on hand whenever required. The unqualified success of our social functions has been due in great measure to the valuable assistance of the U. N. B. Club and the hearty co-operation of the lady students.

A few months ago another name was added to our list of Rhodes Scholars. We wish Mr. Russell Sheldrick all success in his career at Oxford.

The resignations of the gentlemen in charge of our forestry department we note with regret. Professors Claridge and Pulling have been accomplishing great things here, and we know will achieve equally praiseworthy successes in the position to which they are going.

Late L. G. Slipp.

A few short weeks since there came to us the sad news of the accidental death of L. G. Slipp, a member of the Class of 1922. Noted as a humorist and song writer, "Slippery" was invaluable at all social gatherings. He was generous to a fault, a hard worker and a steadfast friend. On his death the University lost one of her most promising sons.

Recent Expansion.

The past year has witnessed a remarkable expansion of the University of New Brunswick. Our Memorial Building, now nearing completion, is a structure of which we may well be proud, and it will fulfil a long-felt need. Amalgamation with the St. John Law School has been effected, and as a consequence nine students

Stomach Cramps Yield to "Nerviline"

WHEN doubled up with cramps you don't feel like experimenting; what you want is something to remove the cramp. Nothing acts so effectively as Nerviline. Take twenty drops in a little sweetened water, and quick as wink the cramp is gone. Nerviline is about five times as strong as most medicines, and because so strong, only a small dose is required to give instant effect. For stomach, gas, fermentation, cramps, etc., Nerviline should be kept in every home. For sure protection, get "Nerviline" today. 35c. at dealers.
