DELORME TRIAL IS NOW MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

JUDGE SCORES SPECTATORS

Unable to Identify the Priest as Driver of Car on Day of Murder.

Montreal, Feb. 28—Severely scoring tittering by the spectators in the court room this afternoon during the trial of Rev. Adelard Delorme charged with having murdered his half brother Raoul in January 1922 Mr. Justice Martineau declared that if the slightest manifestation of the kind were repeated he would have the court cleared.

It was during the cross examination by Alban Germain, K. C. counsel for the defence of Edouard Depocas a new witness that the incident occurred. Depocas had testified that he had seen a man dressed like a priest and wearing a Roman collar driving a Franklin automobile which is the make of car owned by Father Delorme at two in the morning of the day the murder was committed. While he could not describe him as to full face, he thought that from a profile view he looked much like the accused. He was, however, unable positively to identify this man with the accused. Mr. Germain asked the witness if he had noticed any points on the Roman collar.

"A Roman collar has no points" replied Depocas, "it is round all around."

At this there was considerable tittering and a few outright laughs from the spectators.

Indignant Lawyer.

Mr. Germain at once protested. "There is nothing to laugh at" he cried indignantly. "My Lord" he added "addressing the court I would ask that on a repetition of any such scene the court be evacuated at once." "You may be assured" said Mr. Justice Martineau that at the first sign of any manifestation of this kind, I shall order the spectators put outside at once."

Depocas was subjected to severe cross examination by Mr. Germain.

"Were you told that you would be an expert witness and given $10 a day?" asked Mr. Germain.

"Yes I tried that" answered the witness.

"Do you ever mix up in elections, Mr. Depocas?" was another question, put by Mr. Germain.

"Yes when it pays" was the reply. "And to 'telegraph' votes pays, I suppose?"

"Yes sometimes" answered the witness with a broad smile.

Eusebe Lorraine and J. Higginbotham, civic employees, testified to finding the body of Raoul Delorme.

During the morning session several witnesses declared they had seen a Franklin automobile during the night of Jan. 6-7, 1922. None of them however was able to identify the accused as the man driving the car.

The horse may be passing out, but it is still a good idea when approaching a railroad crossing to whoa.

Skeleton of Germany Would Recover on the Blowing of a Whistle

This is the Opinion of a French General Now on a Visit to Washington—Has Been Investigating Military Conditions in the Reich—Tells of Military Activity of Germany.

(Special to the Mail by the British United Press)

WASHINGTON, February 29—"Blow a whistle and the skeleton of Germany would immediately recover skin, muscle, blood and nerves the same as in 1914", General Bourgeois, a member of the Nollet Commission investigating military conditions in the Reich, declared today in an interview with the British United Press. "To abandon allied control of Germany would be a deadly imprudence," the French commander continued.

"Fortunately the allies have understood this, we have undoubted proof that Germany is secretly organizing for revenue. She is instructing officers. She has Reichswehr troops more numerous than the Versailles Treaty permits. She is furnishing them with most modern and complete armaments, rifles, machine guns, cannon and plenty of ammunition. The Reichswehr is the frame of twenty-one German army corps, a whistle would call all ex-soldiers to join existing companies which are deliberately wearing the numbers of regiments of the old imperial army."

BRINGSTALE OF PLIGHT IN GERMANY

LADY DOCTOR SPEAKS IN BOSTON

Practically No Demand Now for the Services of Doctors and Lawyers.

Boston, Feb. 29—Dr. Alice Calomon known as the "Jane Addams of Germany" held a large audience in the auditorium of the Twentieth Century Club while she pictured not only conditions of life in Germany today, but the mental change coming about among her people.

This change she declared was largely brought on by her friends, sympathetic and helping hand extended to her compatriots by their late enemies. She foresaw an era of universal brotherhood and good-will. She spoke with a strength speech unhampered by an occasional difficulty in expressing herself in English. When hindered by inability to strike the right word or phrase her emotion carried her through more, than one of her hearers sobbing openly. When she closed, John F. Moors, chairman of the meeting, found the only possible words, "What a story that is!"

She said she found it hard to speak on the topic assigned, "The Present Breakdown in Germany in Terms of Human Life," being by nature better able to speak of silver linings than dark clouds. She described Germany through 1923 as the mark swooped to obliteration accompanied by internal dissension and Communist riots, "a nation seeing her hopes of reconstruction shattered to fragments like the smashing of pottery, till a survey made last year showed that 50 per cent of the people existed on public relief."

Economically Quilted.

"Outside of these," she said, "there are large and vital classes who have been economically quilted as a result. The educated and middle classes have entirely lost place and standing. The professional classes are still worse off. How can they live? There is practically no demand for their services, doctors, lawyers, artists and many others. I know of physicians who keep consultation hours in the early morning and in the evening, and during the day work as bank clerks and waiters, and even sell newspapers."
