THE TREND OF TRAVEL.

At Coney Island, Cape Cod and some other summer resorts not so far away, the season's business has been disappointing, and profits of caterers to the public at these places, if any, have diminished says the Toledo Blade.

Unseasonable summer weather is blamed. That had its effect. It does not, however, account completely for the slump. The trend of travel is changing. Many thousands enjoyed sea voyages to foreign ports. Home bound ships are crowded to capacity. Attendance of tourists in Yellowstone National park broke all records and exceeded all expectations. The number of citizens of the United States who toured in Canada this year was much greater than ever before and the rush of visitors to Niagara Falls was so tremendous that accommodations were inadequate and a huge new hotel will be built there at once.

When all the facts are assembled, it will be shown that the American people went farther afield and spent more money for travel and pleasure this summer than ever before.

One of the greatest boxing events in the world's history was pulled off at Chicago yesterday when Gene Tunney successfully defended the world's championship in a ten round bout with Jack Dempsey. No less than 150,000 people paid in the aggregate $2,800,000 to witness the fight. Tunney had several close calls during the early part of the fight, once going down for a count of nine, but he rallied brilliantly and got the decision. Tunney is undoubtedly one of the greatest boxers who ever stepped into a prize ring.

You can work with the mind and rest it at the same time if you know how. It is a good idea to read more than one book at a time. If you are reading a heavy work on the history of philosophy of a scientific book, you will do well to take on a new novel at the same time by way of contrast and recreation. The brain is capable of an almost immeasurable amount of use but it does better on a variety of exercise.

An old proverb has it that "telling your troubles is swelling your troubles." It does more than that. It makes you an unwelcome visitor and a bore. There will always be sympathetic souls who will listen to our troubles. Be sure, however, that they don't enjoy the recital and they will try to escape it the next time. If you want to be popular, keep on the highroad and out of the swamp.

If that New Jersey kid who rode through the night for forty miles on the tail of an airplane isn't made captain of his gang, human nature has undergone considerable change since we fought and bled and lied in defense of a questionable ideal or a glorious delusion.

The unemployment pension is probably one of the worst things that ever happened to England. It helps many a family for a time, but eventually it takes away the independent spirit and the self-reliance of the worker. Too much dependence on government is deadly.

A California man has raised a squash weighing 117½ pounds. Our idea of the last word in fruitless endeavor is to raise a squash weighing 117½ pounds.

Billy Sunday blames the church for "not keeping his converts." The trouble with a lot of Billy's converts, however, is that they're too bad to keep very long.

The month's grand award for inspired typesetting is hereby handed the Coast compositor who has it that a detective's report was "lost in transom."

Some men approach their tasks without fervor, but firemen in Constantinople became so excited over a suburban conflagration they arrived without their apparatus.

Someone who could devise ways and means to pay debts without expenditure of money would be hailed as mankind's greatest benefactor.

It's the upstanding lad of fifteen with the appetite and digestion of a 10-ton concrete mixer who makes a monkey of a dietitian's "balanced" regimen.

Discussing the poet Keats, Amy Lowell says "he frequently misplaced his caesura." This is especially serious at this time of year when one catches cold so easily.

Of course, standards of taste have changed, but even now the embroidered monogram shouldn't be larger than the young man's shirt.

Another of the more reliable signs of advancing age is a disposition to put on the first necktie that comes to hand in the morning.

A New York physician contributes something valuable to medical science. He finds that moonshine removes warts.

It is said that the inventor of the steam calliope, who died recently, never received a cent for his invention. Well, why should he?

The Race Meeting

Today's races at the trotting park will bring the exhibition meeting to a close. There are three events being run off this afternoon and unusual interest attaches to the presence of the famous Bill Sharon in the 2.16 pace. The meet on the whole has been a very successful one.

Ducks Plentiful.

Local wild fowls who have out the past few days report black ducks fairly plentiful on the Sheffield Marshes. Although the birds are rather shy quite a number have been bagged hshv ehecorr ovr eaahou se . . N.

Funeral Tomorrow.

The funeral of the late T. C. Allen will take place from his late residence tomorrow afternoon with services at the Cathedral beginning at 2.15 o'clock.

London, Sept. 23—There are more horses working in London today than in 1913, it was disclosed at the Veterinary Surgeon's Conference at Torquay. The increase in their use in the capital has coincided with the decrease in the total number of horses in the nation from 1,128,800 to 1,077,000.

Horse traffic is largely responsible for increasing the congestion in the city, but is held justified by its cheapness. Railroad companies, for example are thinking of reverting to horse and van delivery after trying out the automobile.
