A DANGEROUS TURMOIL.

A fierce political storm has swept down upon Austria almost without warning. There must have been premonitions of it, but of these the outside world knew next to nothing. It is impossible yet to say what the wreckage will be. At the worst there will be an overturn of orderly government and the substitution of a sort of Bolshevism. There are riots in Vienna, the destruction of public property, and strikes that have suspended transportation. Prompt and vigorous action is essential to the ending of such a state of affairs. But apparently neither the police nor the troops are wholly to be trusted. The acquittal of some so-called Fascists seems to have been the immediate cause of the disturbance, but the basis reasons must be sought elsewhere.

It would have been less surprising if Austria had gone Red just after the war. Then her prosperity was at its lowest ebb, there was suffering everywhere and all hope of regaining former prosperity seemed to be futile. Chancellor Seipel came to the rescue and with the aid of the League of Nations brought order out of chaos. Since then the chief economic difficulties of the Austrian people have arisen as consequence of their loss of markets. Czechoslovakia, in particular, has raised tariff barriers which have hit directly at their prosperity. It is largely because of this that the demand for union with Germany has become so strong.

The Socialist-Democratic coalition favors this solution of the problem, and the rioting seems to be one method of trying to bring it about. Almost anything may happen now. The massing of Italian troops upon the Austrian frontier is one ominous indication of interference from without.

The passion for non-stop records continues. There are non-stop dancers, gum chewers, piano players, and so on. Comes now the non-stop drumming record. A 60-year-old Belgian marches 30 miles, drumming all the way. What then? Doing something worth doing, and doing it well, is so much more important than doing it without stopping.

Rich men tell the truth when they say that they find their chief happiness not in money but in friends. If you have good and loyal friends, thank God for that and for them. There are no assets like the assets of friendship. Hold on to your friends. There are just two ways to do that. Be loyal to their interests and tell them the truth.

School teachers sometimes think their lot is hard. But they can be proud of the demand for their service. Many schools in Australia have been closed recently because of lack of teachers. It's nice to be necessary.

The centenary of the invention of the accordion, with players from all parts of the world participating in a championship contest, was celebrated recently in brave little Belgium.

This nation is still awaiting the appearance of a public benefactor who will make it easy for the average man to acquire a home as it is to get an automobile.

In Havana a man dropped dead when he saw a horse on which he had bet come in first. Evidently he hadn't braced himself to withstand the shock of anything so unexpected.

And how come those days when the backyard garden, started so gloriously and enthusiastically in the spring, must shift for itself and hope for the best.

Destiny is what the average young man thinks he is working out when he puts aside ten dollars each week toward the expenses of the honeymoon.

Man wants but little here below, but an airman needs something bigger than a hop-sotch court for regular landings.

"Accidents will happen," is a familiar saying, but not so many will if more people will that they shall not, and act accordingly.

If a man who becomes angry really lost his temper he wouldn't show his wrath. What he loses is control of his temper.

Anyone who has anything to sell can find arguments to sustain his contention that it is just what people ought to buy.

Silence in the form of abstention from advertising is never golden for a merchant.

What is called a bluff can be effective only briefly, if there isn't anything at all substantial behind it.

Too often, self-control fails to function in emergencies when it is most needed.

Rumors may be idle, as they are called, but they certainly do loaf about with exceeding swiftness.

A pedestrian is a man with a large sedan and a 19-year-old son just home from college.

It is impossible to see more than a few certainties in the future, but one can learn to see many possibilities.

When the Great Orator adopts one of the opposition's prejudices he refers to it thereafter as a Principle.

Generally speaking, a bad feature about cheap automobiles is the tires.

FUNERAL WAS WELL ATTENDED

The funeral of Harry Osborne, the youth who was crushed to death under the wheels of an ice-cart yesterday, took place this afternoon at 2.30 at the Baptist Church of Marysville. Service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. D. MacPherson and the singing of hymns was led by the Baptist Church choir.

The funeral had a large and sympathetic attendance. A barouche carrying the many beautiful floral tributes preceded the hearse. The pall-bearers were: Richard Finnamore, Harrison Peterson, Ralph Boyce, Bennett Cochrane, John Stephenson, Marvin Mitchell. There were many mourners:

DOG IS DEAF, ALSO DUMB

Medicine Lake, Minn., July 22—To court came A. E. Knutson and a dog he had bought. He said the beast was deaf, and wanted his money back. The judge called in interpreters, had them speak in Greek, French, Scandinavian and Yiddish. The dog gave no sign. Knutson got his money back.

To Open in August.

St. Stephen Courier: E. R. Teed and Frank Murchie of Fredericton were in town yesterday on business in connection with the opening of the Government stores here and in St. Andrews. As yet there is no definite announcement concerning either the opening dates or the personnel of the new staff. It is understood from St. John however that the stores will open very early in August and that the matter of appointments is about ready for official publication.

Soft Ball Game.

A soft ball game was played last evening at the Officer's Square between Team No. 4 and No. 3 of the "Vets", No. 4 won, defeating No. 3, 11 to 6. Spencer pitched and Kitchen caught for Team No. 4. Baristo pitched and Brewer caught for No. 3. Altogether it seems that No. 4 is the star of the Vet soft ball teams.

A Midnight Quarrel

The police were summoned to Chancery Lane the other night between 12 and 1 A. M. to settle an extremely noisy quarrel among colored people. They were finally quieted down, but it is a peculiar fact that colored people will sometimes make a noise like murder, terrifying the whole neighborhood over a family quarrel.

Nature makes few mistakes; if she puts a generous amount of bone in the head it's because there is no other material available.

Mind bets are the most solacing when the horse loses.

An optimist thinks all the payments will be as easy as the first.

Pugilism: Ten weeks of bunk and thirty minutes of fighting.

On an extremely hot day "continued warm" comes near being profanity.

Flying is said to be "comparatively" safe, but there is considerable flexibility in that long word.

There are no perfect women, says a German scientist. That settles it, we read no more wedding reports.

"A little debunking here and there," remarked the Man on the Car, "would improve the world."

There is nothing the matter with a world that moves peacefully forward, unmindful of matrimonial failures in the movie colony.

Though they are presumed to have the right of way it behooves pedestrians to have great care in crossing the streets. Being run down in hot weather would be disagreeable.

Visiting Motorists.

The tourist season is now supposed to be pretty close to high water mark, Fredericton is getting quite a number of visiting motorists but not as many as it should have. The city boasts of two tourist associations but at the present time neither seems to be making very much noise. A little more organized effort would undoubtedly result in a much larger influx of tourists to the city.

St. John Motorists.

Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Corbet and Mr. Gordon Corbet of St. John motored to the city today and registered at the Queen Hotel. Mr. Gordon Cochet who is nearing the completion of the course in medicine at McGill, is spending his holidays at Sand Point where the family have a summer cottage.

The Haying Season.

The farmers in many sections of Central New Brunswick have begun their haying operations. The weather this week has been very favorable and good progress has been made. On the whole the yield is reported ahead of last year.

Likely to Recover.

Frederick Atherton the nine year old boy who was struck and injured by an auto a week ago today, and is being tended at Victoria Hospital is progressing day by day towards what is likely to be a complete recovery.
