NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH AT HARVEY DEDICATED; LARGE NUMBER ATTENDED SERVICES

Harvey Station, June 19—Today was a read letter day for Harvey Continuing Presbyterian Church when, in the presence of some 600 people, Knox Presbyterian church, lately finished, was formally dedicated by the congregation. St. Stephen Presbyterian and McAdam United Baptist churches closed for the morning and afternoon to enable their people to attend here and many of their people and others from McAdam, Fredericton, Stanley and other places were present. Rev. George E. Knight, the pastor, presided at all meetings.

Besides marking the dedication of the new church, today was the beginning of the Old Home Week for Harvey in connection with which hundreds of written invitations had been sent far and wide to former residents of the place, many of whom are now residents of the United States.

Many Arrive by Auto.

In the morning some 50 automobiles came from McAdam alone, there being by actual count 111 cars on the church grounds. In the afternoon there were 168 cars and 93 at night. The morning's congregation was over 400; in the afternoon 300 seats were filled, also all the aisles and over 100 could not gain admittance; some even sat in the basement. In the evening there was also a large audience filling the auditorium.

Miss Flossie Coburn presided at the organ. At all services, too, the McEachern quartette, of Douglas Avenue Christian church, Saint John, delighted the audience. Mrs. Kenneth Travis, of McAdam, sang a solo very beautifully.

Rev. G. E. Gosline, McAdam United Baptist pastor, assisted at the morning and afternoon services. A large choir ably assisted the organist. In the morning Rev. Dr. J. A. Morrison, of Saint John, read scripture and Rev. Mr. Gosline offered prayer.

Chief Speaker.

Rev. F. G. McIntosh, of New Glasgow, synodical superintendent for the Maritime Provinces, was chief speaker, preaching from 1st Samuel 4-5. His theme was the ark of the covenant and its significance in its application to the Presbyterian church. He traced its history for 1,000 years in Israel's history. During that period it occupied a central sovereign position in the nation. It providentially led them in their pilgrimages; when they left it out of reckoning they met defeat.

Harvey Presbyterians were to be congratulated, he said, on their beautiful church, aesthetically conceived and acoustically perfect. They should make it central in their lives. Presbyterians believed in the providence of God and His leading, he said, and their slogan was "Guide me, O Thou Great Jehovah." The ark was regarded with awe and only approached through difficulties. This principle, too, was Presbyterian. Presbyterians should make Christ and His Church their mainstay when passing through difficulties. They should follow God's way and make no deviations, for instance, in rationalization of religion and modernizing of the church by man-made means. The Presbyterians should carry their ark on the shoulders of their Levites. Family religion was most vital; it had been the strength of Presbyterianism in the past. There are modern monarchs who would attempt to substitute something for God's Ark. Be not carried away with every wind of doctrine, he said, but hold fast to Presbyterian practice.

HOLLYWOOD STUDENTS DO NOT ENTER MOVIES

Hollywood, Cal., June 14—Boys and girls who go to high school in Hollywood are not eager to enter the movies.

William H. Snyder says so and he should know. He has been principal of the Hollywood high school for 19 years and has seen the studios here grow from cheap experiments in barns to great picture plants covering many acres and costing many millions.

Yet in all that time he has never seen his students get excited over a chance to break into the movies; even though some of them take the chance when it is offered.

Questionnaires filled out by members of the past graduating class revealed 31 per cent planned to go on to college.

"There is no distance here," explained the veteran schoolman "to lend enchantment to the thought of Hollywood and motion pictures. Our students live in Hollywood and they see screen celebrities as often as they see policemen or firemen.

"Talk of fabulous film salaries does not impress these boys and girls. They know a little of the other side of film life. Perhaps the actor next door cannot pay his rent or the girl acquaintance who was headed for stardom a few months ago has had to give up her automobile. They know that real screen success usually means a long upward climb with many hardships and pitfalls."

Hollywood high school graduates are easy to find in the motion picture studios Snyder observed but the percentage is no greater than it would be if the studios were wagon factories or any other industries.

Not long ago a producer was looking for a girl with a face of the Madonna. He thought the type he sought might be among the girls of Hollywood high school. Snyder and his assistants cooperated in the search but there was no stampede. It was just a chance to act in the movies.

Some of the undergraduate students already work in pictures. They are absent from school several weeks at a time but they come back when the picture is finished and go on with their school work.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION AT GAIETY THEATRE

"Rough House Rosie" is the photo play at the Gaiety for Monday and Tuesday. Clara Bow seems to be winning in the race of flappers.

Every time the flapper flutters by Clara's eyes seem to be more noticeably ahead of her rivals. Her hair gets wilder and wilder in the breeze and she loses more and more harness.

In "Rough-House Rosie" she is down to running tugs and she goes like lightning. Her role of Rosie demands that she dress like a prize fighter, don white kid boxing gloves and sock her little chorus girl playmates right and left inside the satin ropes of a night club. In such a costume and role Clara is herself. She can romp more irresistibly, flirt more convincingly and tease more impishly than any other of those film girls who practice these arts and "Rough-House Rosie" gives her full play.
