THE PREMIER HONORED.

Premier Baxter was fittingly honored last evening by his colleagues and supporters who met in caucus and presented him with a silver headed cane and a set of pipes. An address, which paid a well deserved tribute to the statesmanship and leadership of the Premier was delivered by Hon. B. Frank Smith, dean of the House. In honoring their gifted leader the Government supporters in the House honored themselves as well.

Hon. Dr. Baxter has held office now a little less than twenty months and his administration has been marked by sound statesmanship and an earnest desire on the part of himself and cabinet colleagues to improve conditions of life in the province and restore its finances to a sound basis. It will be admitted by all fair minded people that wonderful success has crowned their efforts.

Hon. Dr. Baxter's position as head of the government is in some respects unique. He is the only Premier New Brunswick ever had who before taking office had been sworn of the Privy Council, he having served as Minister of Customs in the Federal Cabinet. He is the only Attorney General since Confederation who has filled this high office on two different occasions. He is leader of the New Brunswick bar by virtue of the office he holds, but he is the actual leader of the bar as well. As a parliamentarian we have no hesitation in saying that he has few equals and no superiors in the Dominion of Canada. The value of the service Hon. Dr. Baxter has rendered and is capable of rendering to this province cannot be estimated in dollars and cents. His colleagues and supporters did well to express in a tangible way their high appreciation of his worth as a political leader.

HABIT.

Harry Lauder has an interesting song about going on to the end of the road. It's a great thing to make up your mind as early in life as possible that you are going on to the end of the road, traveling as blithely as you can, not quitting anywhere along the way. An early determination becomes a habit and the habit carries you through.

Speaking of habit, self-control, perhaps the most desirable of all human qualities, is a matter of habit. If you begin to practice self-control, early in life, in little matters, the habit will take care of you automatically when big matters come.

The bill to regulate and control the sale of liquor which will be known as The Intoxicating Liquor Act 1927, yesterday had its third reading in the Legislature. Some minor amendments were made but the principle remains as originally drafted. Premier Baxter announced that the first part of the act providing for the appointment of a Board of Control, would go into effect immediately, and the remainder will be brought into force by proclamation. Organization work will require some little time, but it will likely be completed in time to allow the act to become effective by June 1st.

The Quebec Legislature has been dissolved and polling day has been fixed for May 16th. This means that it will be one of the shortest campaigns on record. The Liberals have held office in Quebec for thirty years without a break and it does not look as if there was any chance of ousting them on this occasion.

"Cravats," says the men's wear page in a 35-cent monthly, "will continue colorful, with futurist patterns in vivid hues predominant." The tie that blinds.

The new Intoxicating Liquor Act seems to have brought Rev. Thomas Marshall out of obscurity and he is now busily engaged writing letters to the Telegraph-Journal in criticism of Premier Baxter. The rev. gentleman admits that while holding a paid office under a non partizan organization he played the role of a partizan at the last provincial election. The election over he shook the dust of dry New Brunswick from his feet and settled down in wet Montreal. As we before pointed out if the rev. gentleman is anxious to promote prohibition he should get busy in the locality where he lives and quit meddling in the affairs of this province.

RECOUNT IN DEVON ELECTION IS DEMANDED

jection to Ald. McAvoy. The demand for a recount between Messrs. Williams and Niles in Ward No. 2 he said would be considered by the Council Thursday night as is provided by law.

Lively Election
The election was the liveliest in the history of Devon. The general result was victory for the whole ticket headed by W. B. Dayton. The personnel of the defeated ticket was largely that of the former Council. Many of the elected members served formerly in the Council or as officials.

The vote as announced after the polling was as follows:
For Mayor, W. Bruce Dayton, 128; Whitman Brewer, 113.

For aldermen:
Ward 1—Ex-Mayor Gilbert Henry, 135; ex-Ald. A. J. McAvoy, 132; Ald. Herbert Estabrooks, 110; Ald. William Saunders, 91.

Ward 2—Ald. H. D. Dobie, 130; Geo. Niles, 122; Ald. A. E. Williams, 121; Joseph McDonald, 95.

Ward 3—Ex-Ald. A. W. Coombes, 133; William Jaffrey (former town clerk and treasurer), 121; Ald. James Monteith, 119; Murray Brewer, 104.

Ward 4—John R. Young, 132; ex-Mayor H. H. Pickard, 131; Thomas Blair, 103; Ald. Charles Dunphy, 100; In ward two, in which only one vote separated George Niles with 122 on the first count and Alfred E. Williams one of the leaders of the defeated administration, with 121, a recount has been ordered of the ballots cast for the aldermanic candidates.
