England the U. S. and Japan Considering the Situation

Will Decide What Attitude Will be Adopted Toward the Chinese Nationalists With Respect to Violent Incidents at Nanking — Report That England Had Decided to Send an Ultimatum is Said to be Incorrect.

(Special to the Daily Mail by the British United Press)

LONDON, April 1 — Negotiations between England, the United States, and Japan were proceeding today, the United Press was authoritatively informed, regarding the attitude to be adopted toward the Nationalist armies in China with respect to last week's violent incidents at Nanking in which Nationals of three powers were killed.

The negotiations concerned the following:

(1) Whether a time limit should be fixed with the Nationalists having to comply with such demands as may be made.

(2) Whether the proposed ultimatum should specifically state the measures contemplated in event of non-compliance.

(3) Whether the ultimatum should be addressed to Eugene Chen, Nationalist Foreign Minister at Hankow, or to Marshall Chiang Kian Shik, Nationalist, commander-in-chief.

(4) The nature of the measures which eventually should be taken in the event of non-compliance with such demands as may be made.

Report is Incorrect

The United Press was informed that it would be incorrect to say, as a morning paper did today, that England decided to send an ultimatum independent of the other countries since discussion the powers still was in progress.

It was learned that blockade of the Yangtze River was among a dozen measures suggested for the coercion of the Nationalists, but none had been selected. British commercial circles argued that such a blockade would greatly injure Britain's trade.

MR. HANSON ASKS QUESTIONS IN THE HOUSE

Told That Premier Baxter Has Made Representations on Export of Power From N. B.

Ottawa, March 31—The government has under consideration an application by the Maine and New Brunswick Power Company for renewal of its license to export hydro electric power to the United States it was stated in the House of Commons today in reply to a question by R. B. Hanson, Conservative, York-Sunbury.

Mr. Hanson had enquired whether the government was aware that the Company, or interests closely allied was "promoting opposition to a measure in the Maine legislature looking to the creation of storage facilities for hydro electric development in the province of New Brunswick." In reply to this, it was stated that representations had been received from the Prime Minister of New Brunswick, relative to the renewal of the export license of Maine and New Brunswick Power Company, but that it had been requested these representations be treated confidentially.

NEW LIQUOR ACT IS EXPECTED SOON BY SOME

Premier Baxter Has No Information to Give Concerning the Measure—Pressure is Continued.

In some quarters it is expected that the new Liquor Act of the Provincial Government will be introduced in the House of Assembly late next week. Premier Baxter before the House adjourned last evening for the visit to Saint John and the week-end, was asked concerning the bill and the time that it would be presented but his answer that there was nothing to say.

The campaign conducted for the purpose of bringing pressure to bear on the Government supporters in the House to prevent alteration in the so-called Prohibition Act, is being continued steadily. Letters from constituents are employed chiefly for the purpose with some personal interviews about the House and at the homes of the members during the week-end. Letters and replies make a heavy mail from the House.

Ice Still Solid.

The ice in the Saint John River at this point is still solid although the weather has been mild for some time and the snow has wasted rapidly. The river is reported to be open as far up as Carter's Point. The Kennebecasis River also is open. There is no sign of the river rising here.

DR. EDWARDS FLAYS BOURASSA IN THE HOUSE

Ottawa, March 31—C. H. Cahan, Conservative, St. Lawrence-St. George, Montreal, today continued his attack on Premier King.

In the House of Wednesday, Mr. Cahan drew a parallel between Premier King, Mussolini and Pilsudski. Mr. Cahan, declared of the Prime Minister: "He now seeks by the tacit approval of this House, not having the courage to present the report of his own work for approval and consideration to proceed to disrupt every one of those ties which bind and connect us with Great Britain and Ireland and with the Dominions beyond the seas."

"And while he is endorsing and proposes to carry out a policy of disruption and destruction he has not one single positive idea to present to this House as to the formation of the new connection and to the new alignments, if the position of Canada is to be maintained in the world."

Assails Bourassa.

Hon. Dr. Edwards, Conservative of Frontenac-Addington, attacked Mr. Bourassa, whom he charged with having done all he could to give encouragement to his "friends in Germany."

The debate was adjourned by Hon. R. B. Bennett Conservative, West Calgary, to be resumed Tuesday of next week.

Dr. Edwards spoke of Mr. Bourassa's speech the other day as being "characteristically offensive." He spoke, too, of its "flood-tide of bombast accompanied with facial contortions and acrobatics." Mr. Bourassa's cultivated smile was only the grizzly skeleton of what it had been. "His affected urbanity does not conceal the bitterness seething within" added Mr. Edwards. Mr. Bourassa had advertised himself across the country as an apostle of unity, but it was a unity built on separatism.

Loyalty Questioned.

On what occasion asked Dr. Edwards, had Mr. Bourassa "been loyal to any party or any leader?"

"When had ever Mr. Bourassa?" continued Dr. Edwards, "done anything to promote peace and harmony in this country?"

"What was back of his insinuation—this gentleman who talks of Canadian national unity—that Great Britain was responsible for the war?" continued Dr. Edwards still referring to Mr. Bourassa.

"I repeat that the honorable gentleman, on every occasion when our Empire has been threatened has been found by voice and pen giving such aid and comfort and encouragement as he could do the enemies of our Empire."

BIG INDUSTRY FOR AROOSTOOK COUNTY LIKELY

Augusta, Me., March 31—A proposition that a million dollar industry be established immediately in Aroostook County is contained in the amendment to the Fish River Storage and Power Bill, which has been offered by the International Paper Company, it was said today.

This proposed amendment is under consideration by the Aroostook delegation, it is stated, and the opinion is that the decision of the delegation will determine the ultimate fate of the bill.

The amendment makes further provision, it is said, that ample power to operate this $1,000,000 plant, a pulp and paper mill, shall be provided so that it shall be a going concern.

Aroostook objection to the Fish River Bill, in its present form, has been that the county was giving away valuable rights and that nothing was coming back. Just when definite action will be taken on the bill is uncertain.

CAPT. J. A. READ OBSERVES HIS 85TH BIRTHDAY

Veteran Navigator Began Going to Sea Before Outbreak of the American Civil War.

Capt. J. A. Read, retired sea captain of this city, today entered upon his eighty-sixth year and is receiving the hearty congratulations of friends. He is in the enjoyment of excellent health and is very active for one of his years.

Capt. Read is a native of Bay Verte Westmorland County, and began his nautical career before the mast in 1860, one year before the outbreak of the American Civil War. Upon his retirement in 1918 he had completed fifty-eight years of sea-faring life. He was engaged in the West Indian and South American trade for many years, sailing out of the ports of Halifax, St. John, Dorchester and Hopewell Cape. His last vessel was the tern schooner Silver Leaf which sailed from St. John for East Africa, lumber laden in the summer of 1918, while the great war was still in progress. This vessel sprang a leak off the Coast of Brazil and was wrecked while entering the harbor of Barbadoes. The captain made a voyage to the Cape Verde Islands while the war was going on in 1916.

Capt. Read handled ships at different times for Sir Albert Smith, J. Willard Smith, R. C. Elkin and J. Nelson Smith. The latter who is the father of Hon. Lewis Smith, Minister of Agriculture, is the only one still in the land of the living. He was the owner of New Brunswick's last square rigger, named after his daughter, and Capt. Read commanded it.

Since his retirement from the sea Capt. Read made a trip in the capacity of a passenger on a freight steamer through the Panama Canal and up the Pacific Coast.

On the Trail

Fishery Overseer McNally is investigating the report that a number of salmon were illegally caught in the river at Kingsclear a few days ago. He interviewed Basil Goodine, but he had no information to give out, and a search along the shore revealed only solid ice and a few tracks. As before stated in the Mail the fish were supposed to have been taken from a bog on Sugar Island near the eastern side of the river.

Carried Firearms

A drunk arrested last night with a loaded revolver on his person was given a fine or thirty days for being drunk and a fine of $25 or three months for carrying a loaded weapon when he faced Magistrate Limerick this morning. Another drunk was given $8 or thirty days.
