Fifty thousand Indians joined in the funeral procession for a congress volunteer who was killed when he leaped to far from the footboard of a fast suburban electric train.

Another Wanderer

The little animal, which showed no signs of fear, was left unmolested until Thursday, in the hope that the mother would come seeking her offspring. As she did not put in an appearance, Russel Wallace, Crown land scaler, and game warden, took the baby moose in charge, and, it is on his premises in this village, where it is being tenderly cared for.

ANDERSON WAS HANGED EARLY TODAY

Murderer of Hotel Clerk
Pays the Extreme
Penalty of the Law—
Kept His Nerve to the Last.

Sydney, N. S., May 20—Ingvald "Bing" Anderson paid the extreme penalty for the murder of Dublois Rehberg on Feb. 8 last, when he was hanged this morning by Hangman Rioux. The execution took place at 1.12 a. m. and 20 minutes later the body was cut down. Anderson kept his composure throughout, and walked steadily to the gallows without assistance.

Following the coroner's inquest, which was held immediately after the hanging, the remains were turned over to local clergymen and burial took place at a nearby hour this morning at a local cemetery.

With the same composure that he has maintained since his trial and conviction, Anderson went to the gallows. The hanging was carried out out a hitch, the condemned man by his calmness alleviating the gruesome task of the authorities.

Clergymen Present

Anderson began his short walk to the gallows unassisted by anyone, but accompanied by two local clergymen Dr. A. H. Campbell, his spiritual advisor ever since his incarceration, and Rev. A. D. Reid, by his cousin, Alfred Halverson, of Berlin, N. H., president of the Nansen Ski Club, and by his jailers.

Keeping his nerve to the last, he walked the length of the corridor from his cell to a window at the side of the jail, where the scaffold was erected yesterday, climbed unassisted up the three steps to the window sill and stood on the gallows.

Bids Farewell

He eyed the hundred odd spectators who lined the corridors, and extended his hand to the clergymen, the sheriff, the jailer, and to his cousin before the noose was placed around his neck. "Good-bye, everybody," were his only words. The clergymen were repeating the Lord's Prayer as the trap was sprung and Anderson took the fatal drop, falling a distance of 12 feet.

The proceedings were carried out without a hitch, Rioux officiating in the absence of Hangman Ellis. Not even the legs quivered as the handcuffs were placed about his wrists, the black cap fitted over his head and the noose adjusted. A lapse of a few seconds and the trap was sprung. The scaffold shook slightly and the light danced as Anderson fell.

In Good Spirits

All evening Anderson was apparently in good spirits, chatting freely and joking with newspaper men. The last two hours of waiting were spent with his two spiritual advisors and with his cousin, Alfred Halverson, and when his time came, he arose from his cot and walked with a firm step to the scaffold.

WAS A BELL HOP AT THE BARKER HOUSE OVER 50 YEARS AGO

Patrick Carlin, a well known resident of Lower Dumfries was among the visitors to the city today. In conversation with friends, Mr. Carlin recalled the days, upwards of fifty years ago when he did duty as a bell hop at the Barker House here. The late Spafford Barker, from whom the hotel takes its name, was then the proprietor, but his son, Thomas Barker, acted as manager. The late Robert Orr was in charge of the livery stable. Mr. Carlin made the acquaintance of many old time politicians who then made their headquarters at the Barker House, which was the leading hostelry of the city. Mr. Carlin is getting along in years, but is still husky and able to do a good days work. He is a real old sport and his circle of friends is a very large one. He makes his home with his brother Andrew Carlin, who operates one of the finest farms in the Parish of Dumfries.

WHOLESALE JAIL BREAK AT DALHOUSIE

Dalhousie, May 19—Up to a late hour tonight none of the six men who broke out of the Restigouche county jail here on Thursday had been re-captured, although a statement was given out at the Provincial police office here this evening that the whereabouts of one man was known, and he would be taken into custody again. They escaped by digging a whole through the floor of their cell, getting into the basement and then wriggling out of a small basement window through which coal, etc., was delivered.

Two of the six who escaped, Joseph Carrier and Thomas Carrier, both of Lorine Settlement, Restigouche county, were in the jail at the result of convictions on theft charges. This made Thomas' second successful break for liberty and Joseph's second of third. The other four men were serving sentences for violations of the New Brunswick Liquor Control Act—Louis Ouellette, residing north of Campbellton; Fred Bourque, said to be from Quebec; Vincent Leighton, of Campbellton and Atholville, and Edward smearer, of Sunnyside, Restigouche county.

GOVERNMENT CANDIDATES ARE CHOSEN

Hon. C. D. Richards,
James M. Scott, Dr.
B. H. Doughan and
Dr. M. L. Jewett Chosen at Monster Convention.

Hon. C. D. Richards, Minister of Lands and Mines and James M. Scott, M. L. A. of Fredericton, Dr. B. H. Doughan, M. L. A. of Manners-Sutton and Dr. M. L. Jewett of Millville, were nominated at a government convention this afternoon to contest the constituency of York. Dr. Jewett takes the place on the government ticket vacated by the death of Gordon C. Grant.

A heavy downpour of rain which set in early this morning utterly failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the supporters of the Baxter administration who gathered in large numbers and jammed the County Court House to the doors. A number of lady electors were conspicuous among those present. The nomination of the four candidates above named was unanimous and they accepted the honor amidst a scene of great enthusiasm.

A pleasing feature of the occasion was the presence of Premier Baxter, who was tendered a great ovation. The Premier delivered a spirited address in the course of which he dealt in vigorous fashion with the diatribes of Leader Jones and some of his co-workers.

Hon. B. Frank Smith, government organizer also addressed the convention.

William J. Scott, president of the government executive for York, occupied the chair and practically every polling district in the County was well represented.
