THE EASIEST WAY

The editor of a small town newspaper whose name is unfortunately unknown to this writer tears down one life policy and sets up another in simple and masterful fashion all in a few lines. One might well paste his essay on a conspicuous wall. He says:

"Too many people are absolutely indifferent to work. They take no interest in doing it exactly right, in doing it quickly, or in getting it out on time. Life to them is just one long-drawn-out dream of 'getting by' in the easiest way, and with as little exertion as possible, of either mind or body. Their idea seems to be to 'let George do it.' Again, there are others, splendid examples of those who know what to do, and have the capacity and willingness to do their part. All such are great factors and forces in making a business go and grow."

THE NEW ORDER

Willacoochee, Ga., a town of 1,200 souls, has adjusted itself to the modern—or night. A new ordinance says young people may stay out after midnight—but not grown-up people, unless they give the village marshal a good reason. The ordinance makes it unlawful for people to loiter on the streets after midnight, although it is stated that the law is not meant to be construed to the effect that young people who have gone away earlier in the evening cannot come home at a large hour. No blue laws here. No old-fashioned severity. Old folks ought to be home early. Why should they be out late? In Willacoochee youth will have its days and nights.

Ottawa Journal: Two years ago Mr. Bennett warned the Government that the executive inflation and stock market speculation of the period were certain to cause the nation immense losses and that the Government should act accordingly. Members of the Administration called him a pessimist, laughed and jeered at him. The other day he reminded the jeers that the stock market crash had cut five billion dollars from the quotations on Canadian securities. Even Mr. Dunning has had to plead the extraordinary financial situation as excuses for lower trade and falling revenue.

Mr. C. N. Vroom, of St. Stephen started in a few months ago as president and organizer for the N. B. Temperance Alliance and editor of the Temperance Bulletin. Now he is out of a job and willing to offer as a candidate for the Legislature in Opposition to the Baxter Government, providing he can secure a nomination. Last week he attended an opposition convention at St. Andrews and all he got according to his own statement was "a slap in the face." This is surely a cruel world.

The announcement that the N. B. Hydro Electric Commission has practically completed arrangements to establish a steam plant at Minto for the distribution of electric light and power to the people of Central New Brunswick will be well received on all sides. Representatives of the counties of York, Sunbury and Queens have been hard at work on this project for months and are deserving of congratulations on the success that has crowned their efforts.

As a result of strong pressure brought to hear on the C. N. R. authorities they have contented to restore a daily train service between Fredericton and St. John. Between Fredericton and Centreville, however a tri weekly service inaugurated on Monday will be continued. On the principle that half half a loaf is better than two bread, we suppose the new arrangements will have to be accepted.

Bootleggers and those who have served jail sentences for violating the Intoxicating Liquor Act seem to be lining up solidly behind the prohibitionists in an effort to oust the Baxter Government from office.

It is now believed that the session of Parliament will end by the 31st. of May, and that dissolution will follow immediately. This means that an election will be take place early in July.

Two souls with, but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one—a prohibitionist and a bootlegger working hand in hand to oust the Baxter Government from office.

In looking over the list of Opposition candidates for York, and the members of the executive chosen for the different parishes, one cannot help agreeing with the old adage that politics makes strange bedfellows.

It is a good thing if that astronomer is right when he says the earth, this planet we live on, is speeding up. Planets are getting pretty hot this spring, and we are likely to get caught in a traffic jam.

Washington scientist has found that half a peanut is sufficient food to keep the brain working intensively for an hour. We'd hate to think of what would happen to a high pressure executive who ate a whole handful.

Explanation of why half-ripe strawberries are sent to the cities is that those who pick them know that somebody will buy them; and it isn't the housewives.

The Baxter government Liquor Control law is not popular with professional prohibitionists and bootleggers because of it having deprived them of their occupations.

Three million dollars for a private yacht sounds like a lot. And yet when you figure it out it's just a $400,000-a-month remittance to the finance company.

Position is relative, says Einstein; but that truth doesn't affect the collar button under the bureau.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

No explanation of a scrape is ever thoroughly explained.

History, when it repeats itself, is not responding to encores.

Dieticians say that we digest raw turnips, but plagued if we can see how.

Great minds run in the same channels and small minds in the same ruts.

Be sure you are as much of a man in character as the one you reprove before you do it.

Those who work all night do not experience the ill effects of those who romp the night away.

City people do talk about their neighbors, whom they usually don't know but it isn't malicious. They don't care.

Now a college girl has been hailed as the hoop rolling champion. Far better than being the whoopee champion.

Plain talk doesn't need to be vulgar, as some fiction writers seem to think. Modern novels have rather suddenly revealed how many coarse literary persons there are.

They are playing baseball at night in the west which brings to mind many an umpire has been accused of playing in darkness in the day-time.

A pastor insists couples must join church before he marries them. Fine, but will the husband later rest in an easy chair on Sunday morning and hear two loud speakers?

A Texas lawyer is running for Senator on the platform of "a cow for every poor man." The chances are, however, the poor man would rather have four dogs.
