THEY KNEW THEIR CAPES IN A WAY OF SPEAKING

(New York Sun)

"The vice-preisdent of a wellknown steamship line which spends thousands of dollars a year to advertise a short cut route," said hte advertising man, "was coming down from Boston on one of his company's ships when overheard this conversation between two women and a boy who were standing at the rail, manifestly interested in the approach to the short cut.

" 'I wonder what this canal is for?' asked one of the women.

" 'That's so we don't have to go all the way around the Cape,' answered the boy.

" 'Cape? What Cape is that?'

" 'Cape Hatteras, of course,' replied the other woman.

" 'Don't be silly. We passed Cape Hatteras coming up from Jacksonville.'

" 'All right, smarty, what Cape is it, then'

" 'Why, a school child would know. Besides, it's advertised in all the papers. That's Cape Horn.'

"And that," continued the big world-and-space-man, "seemed to settle the problem for them. But my trouuubules had just began. When the v. p. got back. I was the target for a lot of half serious sarcasms about the futility of spending so much money in exploiting Cape Cod Canal if it didn't have any more educational influence on passengers than that. He gave it to me thick and heavy until I was pretty well fed up."

"Well, what did you do?" asked the audience.

The advertsing man grinned wickedly before he answered.

"First I said—'Maybe you ought to spend more money!'—and then I grabbed my hat and ran for my life."

ALEXANDER ALMOST LAST OF IRON MEN

New York, June 19—Baseball has lost another Iron Man in Grover Cleveland Alexander, who was released outright by the Phlilies the other day after twenty-one years of continuous service in the National League. In fast company today there are few pitchers who can show the endurance that kept Alexander on the firing line since 1911. Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Joe McGinnity, Ed Walsh, Jack Chesbro, Eddie Plank, Chief Bender, Jack Coombs, Rube Waddell, Kid Nichols, John Clarkson, Tim Keefe, Mickey Welch and Charley Radbourne possesses durability that seldom is seen in major league games of the present time.

Old Cy Young was hte king of Iron Men. His record never will be equaled. He was the only pitcher who won more than 500 games. Starting with Cleveland of the National League in 1890, he remained in that circuit until 1900, during which period he won 291 games and lost 173. Signed by the Boston Red Sox in 1901 Young pitched in the American League until Father Time called out in 1911 with a new record of 220 victories and 142 defeats.

In twenty-two consecutive seasons he won 511 games and lost 315 for a grand winning percentage of .619. Young won thirty-six games in 1892, thirty- five in 1895 and thirty-two in 1902. Those were his most successful years. When he pitched for the Cleveland Nationals under the management of Pat Tebeau, Young worked in every third game, his alternates being George Cuppy and Rhody Wallace.

Imagine one of the modern pitchers delivering sixty complete games in a single pennant race, a task that didn't bother the Iron Men of long ago!
