THE CONSERVATIVE VICTORY

The Montreal Daily Star, an independent paper, with Conservative leanings in commenting editorially on Monday's election has this to say:—

"After a campaign of unusual length and intensity in which the issues were presented to the electorate so amply and clearly as to be unmistakable, the Canadian people decided yesterday to 'give Canada a chance' and to put to the test the policies and promises of Mr. Bennett and his colleagues.

"These gentlemen now have an opportunity to make good—an opportunity which brings its obligations and its dangers. Things are not well with Canadians. It would be idle to repeat the fact and figures which played so great a part in the campaign. The King Government was condemned for not having taken the right steps to meet what is undoubtedly an industrial and a financial crisis. The Bennett Government will be expected to implement its pledges and work a cure. If he does not make a sincere effort to do so, his punishment is a sure as was that of Mackenzie King and his Ministers on Monday.

"The mandate delivered yesterday was decisive. The Conservatives are not left dependent upon the uncertain support of varied groups. They have an abundant majority over all. They will have full power to do exactly what they please. No alibis for failure will be possible. They must achieve success.

"That is what gives to their victory the stern aspect of an imposed duty. The Canadian people, distressed, disquieted, almost disheartened, have done their part. They have put complete and unrestricted power into the hands of the incoming Ministry. It now remains for that Ministry to do its part, to grapple with the pressing problems with courage and insight and to deserve the confidence which the people have given in advance in such generous measure."

As Hon. Mr. Bennett said frequently in the course of his public addresses during the late campaign, he is fully aware of the tremendous responsibility he took upon himself when he accepted the Conservative leadership. He can be counted upon to devote all of the energy and ability he possesses to the service of Canada, and he will strive earnestly to implement every pre election promise.

Premier King announces that no appointments will be made by the outgoing cabinet. This information should be rather disquieting to Hon. W. P. Jones, who it is generally understood was prevailed upon to take the leadership of the opposition in the recent provincial election with the promise of a Supreme court judgeship. Mr. Jones is probably finding out what others found out long ago, that little dependence can be put on the word of those who have been directing the affairs of the Liberal party in the province for some years past.

It is a matter of regret to his friends on both side of politics that J. J. F. Winslow, K.C., the Liberal candidate in Yory-Sunbury in the late election should have forfeited his deposit. The blame cannot be laid at the door of Mr. Winslow as he is one of the most capable men the Liberals have placed in the field here for many years, and it must therefore rest upon the shoulders of the ghostmaster-General and the other great men who have been disorganizing the party in this province of late years.

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King has been Prime Minister of Canada since January, 1921, with a brief interval in 1926. The job of first minister in a Federal Government is not a sinecure and we are inclined to think that Premier King will appreciate the opportunity now given him by the people to take a holiday. Only three Prime Ministers of Canada have held office for a longer period than Mr. King, Sir John Macdonald Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Robert Borden.

The great surprise of the late election was the generous measure of support which Quebec gave to the Conservative party. In this connection it may be said that all forecasts were sadly astray. The Liberals claimed 60 sure seats while some optimistic Conservatives predicted that their party might get 15. Ontario did not do as well as was expected. The forecast was 70 seats and the party got 59. All of the four Cabinet Ministers in Ontario were re-elected.

An Ottawa despatch says that the members of Harbor Commissions are expected to tender their resignations to the government. Peter Jack who ran as a Liberal Candidate in Halifax has already quit. The St. John Harbor Board is composed of W. E. Scully, R. T. Hayes and B. M. Hill, Hon. W. E. Foster was the first chairman, but was transferred to the senate.

The Mackenzie King Government could have remained in office until October of next year, but Premier King and his colleagues saw the clouds looming up in the horizon and decided while the going looked good to make a try for a renewal of public confidence. Unemployment and New Zealand butter helped defeat the administration.

There will be an open season for partridge in New Brunswick this year, extending from October 1st to October 15th. The present season has been an exceptionally favorable one for young partridge, and the birds are reported plentiful in different sections of the province.

In that fashionable New York butcher shops which has expensive rugs on the floor and pictures on the wall, I understand the butcher will don white gloves before putting his thumb on the scales.

Having assisted in putting the Liberals on the rocks in ten of the eleven counties of this province, it has been suggested that Dr. Foster should now go to Gloucester.

"Probably the biggest dunce in existence is the knocker. Especially the home town knocker. Granted that no community is perfect, why knock? Boost instead. It doesn't cost a thing.

"I wonder what kind of a Boy Scout you are," remarked father to little Willy the other evening. "Let's see you tie a square knot in this five cent cigar."

"Russia is to have a new alphabet," says a despatch. We should like to have some figures now on what this will cost the alphabet soup makers, in new stamps and dies.

A large number of electors who voted the Liberals' prohibition ticket in the provincial election seem to have availed themselves of the first opportunity to get back into the Conservative fold.
