Chinese Civil War Recently Ended May Soon be Renewed

Governor of Shansi Province Who Retired as Head of the Rebel Government Says That His Regime Will Be Established—Bavarian Field Marshal Passes Away.

(Special to THE DAILY MAIL by the British United Press.)

PEIPING, China, Sept. 29—The Chinese civil war, which appeared to have been ended last week by the intervention of Manchurian forces in behalf of the National government of Nanking, threatened a renewal of hostilities today.

Governor Yen Hsi-Shan of Shansi Province, who retired as head of the rebel northern government when the Manchurians occupied Peiping, announced at Taiyuan-Fu that the northern regime would be re-established and Shansi troops would oppose the nationalists.

CLARA BOW IS TOLD TO WATCH STEP

Hollywood, Sept. 29—Clara Bow, warned by moving picture studio officials to "watch her step," was ready to go back to work today and forget all about the affair of the stopped checks at a Calneva, (Nev.) gambling place.

The next move, if any, is the collecting of the $13,900 in checks the actress refused to pay, must come from the Calneva resort owners, Miss Bow said.

Miss Bow was not officially reprimanded for the affair, but considerable advice was given her, with the warning that her new contract might be jeopardized if she inspired more publicity of a like nature.

Informed that Calneva owners planned suit to collect on the checks, W. I. Gilbert, attorney for the actress, said, "They're reaching for air."

Will Rogers, host to Miss Bow and Rex Bell at the dinner party which ended in the "It" girl's losses, made it plain today that he wasn't a "house man."

"There is a rumor I would like to nip in the bud," the cowboy humorist remarked: "I want to make it clear to all folks everywhere that I was not working for the house when Clara got nicked."

Plans Were Made

Plans have been made for the unveiling of the Bliss Carman memorial shrine in Forest Hill Cemetery on October 18th, at a meeting of the local memorial committee in the city hall. The plans were not definite and will have subject to revision. No definite announcement as to the program will be made until the end of this week. Dr. C. C. Jones, chancellor of the University of New Brunswick is chairman of the local committee.

They've had snow and freezing weather in the Northwest. We can begin to look for it soon, but any delays will be gratefully accepted.

JONES SUPREME IN REALM OF GOLFDOM

Ardmore Pa., Sept. 28—When Gene Homan's ball grazed the side of the cup on the twenty-ninth hole at the Merion Cricket Club yesterday, Bob by Jones not only became the national amateur champion for 1930 but the holder of a record that probably will survive through the ages.

At 28, this rarely-gifted golfer from Atlanta, who defeated Homan 8 up and 7 to play in Saturday's final, and who has come closer to mastering the intricacies of the game than any one else, has performed a feat that no one hitherto had considered possible.

Within the short span of five months Bobby has played in the four major events—the British Amateur and open championships and the American open and amateur—and won them all outscoring the professionals at their own game in the two open tournaments and outstripping all his fellow amateurs in the others.

$150,000 FARM NFTS NEW YORK CHILDREN $400

New York, Sept. 29—A group of young agrarians on New York's lower East side reaped a $400 harvest of peanuts, tobacco and corn Wednesday from a $150,000 farm.

The reapers were East Side children who have been tilling plots this summer in the great open spaces of Seward Park where the farms are six by four feet.

The farming, superintended by the Educational Alliance, was designed to show the youngsters what a goober, a leaf of tobacco and a stalk of corn looks like in its native state, but it earned each of them a few cents in spending money and kept them reasonably busy through the summer.

IRISH TONGUE TOO MUCH FOR IRISH JUDGE

London, Eng., Sept. 29—Is an Irishman entitled to damages from a fellow Irish hotelman who refuses to give him a room unless the name is given in English?

This great principle has not been decided by a Dublin court because the plaintiff, Michael Obolquidhir (Bolger, in English has sued Daniel Murphy, instead of the Clarence Hotel Company, in whose name the inn is owned.

Michael's lawyer, rejoiced in the name Sean Oluadhagh, insisted on arguing the case in Irish, though the Free State judge embarrassedly confessed that he was unable to understand the tongue and his interpreter was absent. Sean produced another, but his eloquence must have suffered in translation, for the judge dismissed the case.

LOCAL PERSONS INJURED SUNDAY BETTER TODAY

Three of the four local people who were injured last night when the car in which they were returning from Saint John went over the bridge at Salamanca were able to leave the Victoria Public Hospital and return to their homes today. They were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Farrell and T. V. Monahan. Both men are well known in this city being proprietors of a dry goods store and hotel respectively.

Mrs. Monahan the fourth member of the party received a broken arm in the accident and will probably be confined in the hospital for several weeks. Her condition this afternoon was quite favorable. Mr. Farrell, who received nasty cuts to his head, was able to leave this afternoon, following an x-ray examination. The other two left the hospital this morning.

The accident occurred at the Salamanca Bridge a short distance below this city at about nine o'clock last night. Mr. Monahan's car collided sideways with a car driven by Louis Timms local mail driver. The result was that the Monahan car was forced over the bank—a drop of fifteen feet.

The four were extricated from the car and taken to the hospital where their injuries were attended to.

Bank officials, who originally stated that $1,500 had been taken by the robbers in the hold-up, now believe that the recovered notes will cover the entire loss.

Good Show at Gaiety

The talking photoplay at the Gaiety for Monday and Tuesday is "The Divorcee" with Norma Shearer the featured player. Miss Shearer is always delightful. She makes her ex-wife a lovable, regular girl. Chester Morris plays her husband and for the first time in his film career, is allowed to win the heroine, live, and keep out of jail, although he is both hero and villain. His work is excellent. Conrad Nagel and Robert Montgomery appear to advantage from time to time. It is Miss Shearer's picture, however, from beginning to end. She dominates every scene and makes "The Divorcee" something worthwhile seeing.

Not the First

Miss Isabell Carr, is not the first woman to be placed on trial in the County of York on the charge of murder. Twenty-five years ago Mrs. George Marsten of Meductic, was tried before the late Judge Gregory here on a charge of poisoning her husband. The trial lasted a week and resulted in a verdict of acquittal. Hon. H. A. McKeown, then Solicitor-General, conducted the prosecution and the accused was defended by the late Dr. L. A. Currey of St. John and J. C. Hartley of Woodstock.

A member of parliament from Glasgow, recently entered a lion's cage. Even for a Scotchman, it seemed an odd way to avoid paying rent.
