CAMPAIGN FICTION

While the government party in York in the late election put up a clean campaign and played the game fairly it is a matter for regret that the same cannot be said of their Liberal—Prohibition opponents. On the day before the election the opposition campaign committee had printed in this city and distributed among householders on both sides of the river five thousand copies of a circular, which was beyond a doubt the most villainous production in the way of campaign literature, that ever disgraced an election in this province. This document naturally aroused great indignation among the electorate and no doubt lost many votes for the candidates who sponsored it. Under the capation "Lest we Forget, Scenes Reminscent of old bar-room days" this precious document started out as follows:

"A few evenings ago a little boy was seen on one of our Fredericton streets—a little boy six years old, an innocent little soul, just like that little fellow in thousands of New Brunswick homes, pleading with his daddy not to enter one of those resorts where commission liquor is being sold by the glass—under protection.

But his daddy went in,
And the little boy went on-alone
For liquor must be sold
That Baxter may carry on.

And they call this liquor control."

It is dollars to doughnuts that the man who penned the lines quoted above either drew on his imagination for his facts or obtained them from the story of "Ten nights in a Barroom" or some kindred work of temperance fiction. If commission liquor is being sold in this city by the glass under protection as alleged then the Police Commission should lose no time in instructing the members of the force to cease chasing dogs and put a stop to it. No doubt Chairman Fulton of the Liquor Control Board would like to have the information which the pius individual who wrote this raseally campaign literature would have the public believe is in his posession. Had the election in York been a boxing contest, instead of a battle of ballots the opposition candidates would have been ruled out as Jack Sharkey was a few nights ago for striking below the belt and fouling their opponents.

Rear Admiral Richard Byrd, the noted Arctic and Antarctic explorer was given a rousing reception on his arrival in New York last week. On Tuesday he will journey up the Hudson to Albany on a U. S. gunboat and receive a medal at the hands of Governor Roosevelt. A great welcome will be extended to him by the different cities and towns along the river. Admiral Byrd is recognized as the greatest explorer of his time.

If the verdict of the people as rendered at the polls last week is the means of detaching the pulpit from politics it will have served a very useful purpose. If our clerical friends, who heat up under the collar over the liquor traffic, would make temperance and sobrietly their goal and leave the question of prohibition for the politicians to settle they would save themselves a lot of trouble, and render the public a service.

Had the opposition members of the Legislature been possessed of horse sense they would have in keeping with their record, supported Premier Baxter when he brought down his Liquor Control bill in 1927. They missed an opportunity but the lesson seems to have been lost upon them, for the late election found them once more angling for the mythical temperance vote.

A campaign circular issued by the opposition candidates in York on the eve of polling day contained this statement: "Remember the history of the past five years does not show one single promise made by the Baxter Government that was carried out." "As a liar the fellow who penned this is in a class with T. Peppers, deceased.

"Vote the opposition ticket on election day," said an Opposition rorebach circular," and strike a blow for honor and decency in public life." The electors of York did strike a blow for honor and decency in public life and it was of the solar plexus type.

"For forms of government let fools contest, that which is best administered is best," wrote the poet Longfellow. The people of New Brunswick appear to have taken this view of the liquor problem.

The New Brunswick Temperance Alliance seems to have shot its bolt and in the new Legislature its friends will be almost as scarce as hen's teeth.

For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain prohibition politicians are in a class by themeslves.

"It Helped All My Troubles"

"I was all run-down and out of spirits before my third baby was born, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had heard so much about it. It helped me with all my troubles and gave me an appetite where before I didn't eat at all and had to stop work and rest every once in a while. I did all of my housework up to the day my baby came, as I am a farmer's wife and could not afford help before. I feel just dandy now and I will answer any letters and I will tell every one how good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is."—Mrs. Ira Arnold, Box 63, Rocklake, North Dakota.
