WHAT MUSIC CAN DO

Music can make better citizens and better neighbors. So says a New York woman engaged in social service. Says Mrs. Frances McFarland: "In my experience of New York settlement workers, music is bridging the gap between children and parents that have nothing else in common. It is making friends of people from all parts of the world, who, though they have been living next door to each other, have not even been neighbors in the real sense of the word; and it is helping to make better citizens of not only the rising generation, but of their parents."

Perhaps the kind of music will have something to do with it. This radio next door may not make you feel more friendly or more neighborly. Music hath charms to soothe; it can also play on the nerves, not like a fiddle bow but like a saw.

YOUNG CYNICS

Because they think it is smart, because they think they are wiser than the old folks, or because they wish to pose—nobody knows just why—the average youngster with an education seems to be a cynic. He is strangely tired of the world. Nothing is quite right and he has quickly given up the idea that things can be any better. Not being able to understand what life is all about, he bitterly concludes it hasn't any meaning at all. It doesn't occur to him that the trouble is not with the universe but with himself. Cynicism is not a mark of wisdom. It is a mark of the lack of wisdom. Age is better than youth because the experience of life has displaced guess work and ignorance with at least a few realities.

The radio has been put to good use by both parties during the campaign which closes tonight. The leaders of both parties several cabinet ministers and Premier Ferguson of Ontario, have been heard through station CFNB of this city in national hook-ups. In the case of the average owner of a receiving set the broadcast of a political meeting by either party usually gets first place. Whatever the verdict of the people may be today it cannot very well be said that is not based on adequate information regarding the issues.

The following paragraph was clipped from a Philadelphia paper:

There are not many corners of the world that do not buy fish in one form or another. During the calendar year 1929, Canadian fish and fish products found markets virtually all over the world, and accounted for nearly $36,000,000 of the export totals in the Dominion's trade returns. Putting the facts in another way, Canada's exports of fisheries products in 1929 amounted in value to more than nine times the imports.

The polls on today's election will close at six o'clock this evening, and the result in the eastern provinces should be known before ten o'clock. There is four hours difference in the time between the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia, to which means that it will be ten o'clock here when the polls close on the Pacific Coast. The people of Victoria and Vancouver will be getting returns from the east before the polls close in their own cities.

If we think a crash in the value of stocks makes bad business, hard times, depression, we haven't seen anything in comparison with what would happen if advertising ceased. The discontinuance of normal buying which would follow a sharp decrease in the volume of advertising would bring on a depression in business the like of which we have never known.

Election forecasting is rather dangerous business but it is a safe gamble that Hon. R. B. Bennett's native province will today present him with seven supporters and possibly eight or nine.

The Potato Growers Association of Prince Edward Island handled 1,633,964 bushels of potatoes through its exchange during 1929, at a value of $2,713,674 or an increase of $600,000 over its 1928 sales.

As the Mail has frequently pointed out bad provincial leadership is mainly responsible for the deplorable condition of the Liberal party in York-Sunbury.

One safe prediction can be made in connection with today's election—the return of R. B. Hanson for York-Sunbury by a large majority.

Next to easy money and ants in the pantry, few things are as elusive as raspberry seeds amongst the molars.

"Short index fingers indicate weak characters." Not always. They may indicate a previous career in a sawmill.

"Nevada reports caterpillars with 30 legs and saw sails that mow as they go." And what would be their rate for a 40 by 30 lawn?

The coach dog has disappeared, it is true it is thought the midge automobile can be trained in time to run along under the rear axle.

We never rated the mosquito a gentleman, but here is an entomologist, after exhaustive and painful researches, reporting that it prefers blonds.

"The absence of sugar in the diet is one cause of fear." Possibly. We were just trying to visualize Richard the Lion-Hearted with a bag of peppermints.

With the dogs of St. Leonard carrying hot coffee in their little casks, instead of the traditional brandy, a lost mountaineer may become as rare as late cases of snake-bite.

A summer song hit last year was "Button Up Your Overcoat," and this year in July it is "Springtime in the Rockies". But of course Mountain Standard Time is different from ours.

When the woman is a young mother and it's safety pins she's after, and not something made out of platinum her demands for pin money should always be granted.

After a careful reading of the golf stories from Minneapolis, a local amateur believes he has detected the secret of Bobby Jones' success. Jones takes fewer strokes between the tee and the hole.

What a great thing it would be if women, somehow, with this new freedom, could teach men a new lesson of vision, of imagination, of idealism. They seem to prefer, however, to use their freedom very much as men do.

Returned Home

Miss Myrna Brody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Brody, and Miss Margaret Ross daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Ross, both of this city returned from New Maryland where they have been visiting Miss Dorothy Kirk.

Up Around

J. P. Farrell, who has been confined to his bed for the past number of weeks, is able to be up and around again, though using a cane. His many friends in this city will be glad to learn of his convalescence and wish him a rapid and thorough recovery.

To Broadcast Returns

The returns of the Federal election will be broadcast this evening over station CFNB of this city. The first reports will go on the air at eight o'clock.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

One problem of life is to get out of civilization a fraction of what it has cost.

Lima Beane thinks the result is practically the same, whether they kiss and make up or cuss and make up.

Beautiful weather, with just the right temperature and every element of desirability gets no publicity.

There is no sensation quite delightful as that of being overtaken by a cool wave while trying to escape the heat.

Robert Quillen may have hit up on the correct definition in this: "A quiet wedding is one where money doesn't talk."

Scientists say the human jawbone is growing smaller. Scientists are too solemn to attribute the cause to lack of exercise.

One way and the only way, to keep from skidding in our work tomorrow is to strive to do better today than we did yesterday.

If there is a hell worse than that to which people are accustomed it means simply that inhabitants thereof will have to become acclimated.

Hi Slocum says that at last the bakers have discovered that there was a drop in the price of flour last winter.

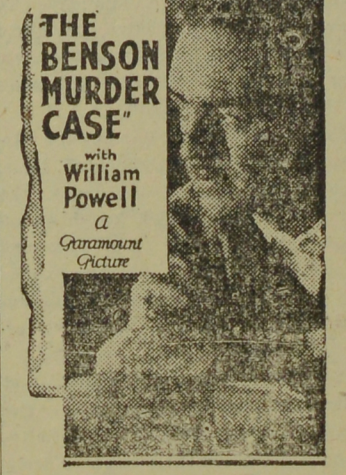

Rochester Concert

The overture to "The Bohemian Girl" will be played by the Rochester Civic Orchestra as the opening selection on the Stromberg-Carlson program to be broadcast even an NBC network from the studios of WHAM, Rochester, on Monday night, July 28, at 10 o'clock.

Was In Bed All Summer

"I have to work in the store and do my own housework, too, and I got nervous and run-down and was in bed nearly all summer. The least noise would make me nervous. I was told to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken seven bottles. It has made me stronger and put more color into my face. I am looking after my store and housework and my four children and I am getting along nicely now."

Fire Insurance Enough?

You have some fire insurance, of course; few householders tempt fate by going without any fire insurance. But enough—that's the point. If a destructive fire does attack your home and you find you are but partially insured, you will never forgive yourself for not taking out sufficient protection when it could so easily have been done. We suggest that you phone 291-21.
