MURDER TRIAL AT DALHOUSIE NEARING CLOSE

Dalhousie, April 23—The trial of Mrs. Mary Ann Daigle, 29, of Mann's Siding, Restigouche County, charged with the murder of Francois Ouellet, boarder in her home, was continued at the second day's session of the Restigouche County Circuit Court today with the Crown reconstructing events leading up to the night of Sept. 7, 1929, when the accused is alleged to have fatally shot Ouellet in her home. The prosecution resumed its examination of Emile Fournier, the witness who was on the stand yesterday afternoon when court adjourned.

Having previously told of the motor drive from the Daigle house to Kedgwick and the return journey, featuring Ouellet's belligerent attitude toward Mrs. Daigle and subsequent rough tactics with her upon arrival at the latter's house, Fournier continued his testimony. He said he hastened from the scene of the fight to the house of Pat Cameron, a near-by neighbor. He stayed at Cameron's until about 11 p. m., when he left, accompanied by Cameron. In reply to a question, he admitted hearing sounds of wailing but no gun reports. Cross-examined by J. T. Hebert, counsel for the defence, the witness said he thought Ouellet very drunk but Mrs. Daigle had only taken two drinks that day.

SAYS CONVICTS SHOULD HAVE BEEN RELEASED

Fire Chief Says No Lives Would Have Been Lost Had Prison Cells Been Unlocked.

Columbus, Ohio, April 23—A. E. Nice, Columbus Fire Chief, told the board investigating the Ohio prison fire today that he believed none of the 318 prisoners who died would have been lost had they been released from their cells as soon as the fire was discovered.

"I believe every man could have been saved," Nice said.

The fact that the first alarm came from a box outside the prison showed that there was delay on the part of those inside the penitentiary in sounding an alarm, he declared.

The chief said that the thoughts of those within the prison who arrived at the scene first were not primarily concerned with the saving of life.

First Consideration

Life, to a fireman, commands first consideration, he said.

"I would not care if every building in the prison burned so long as I could save the life of one man," he asserted.

Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, heading the inquiry, asked the chief which of the prison officials was in charge on the inside.

"I don't know," he answered. "I don't think anybody had charge. In fact I don't believe anyone could have controlled the prisoners. It was a mad mob, but they were doing the work and doing it right."

Chief Nice said the convicts interfered with the firemen while they were handling the hose and even overpowered them. It was not done with malicious intent, however, for the convicts were doing their best to help, he said.

SONS OF IRISH PRESIDENT CARRY PEAT

PRIEST WITH CROSS QUIETED THE CONVICTS

Columbus, Ohio, April 23—In the midst of the flames and frenzy that swept the Ohio state prison it was a crucifix held high in the hands of a priest, rather than the bayonets of national guardsmen, that stilled the fear of the trapped prisoners.

The story of how Rev. Albert O'Brien, prison chaplain, walked unhesitatingly into the penitentiary yard where some guards, who draw salaries for being brave, faltered, became known today.

In the confusion and the darkness Father O'Brien ran an almost incalculable danger—for he might have been mistaken for an escaping prisoner and bayoneted or might have been struck down by frenzied convicts who believed him to be a guard.

"These men died," he said, "but in losing their lives many of them attained an eternity of happiness. There was a place waiting in heaven for those men. Just before they died I baptized two young fellows who had been studying to enter the Church. Only last Thursday I baptized two others and they received their first communion Easter Sunday.

$4 A BLOCK, LONG BLOCKS, FOR ONE KISS

Chicago, April 21—Robert A. MacNeille, out driving with his girl, was engaged in some long distance kissing. The kiss—this is on the word of the arresting officer—started in Chicago and extended on into Evanston. The Kiss was still going each to each when the motorcycle policeman called time. Police Magistrate Samuel Harrison fined MacNeille $15 and costs running the expense of the osculation to something more than $4 a block. They were however, extra long blocks. MacNeille, a University of Chicago student, explained that the young woman, whom he called Ruth was his real girl, but the court said that didn't lessen the traffic hazard.

WOMEN CENSUS TAKERS EXCEL

New York, April 24—In the wilds of Greater New York city women have proved to be better census enumerators than men. A supervisor in the borough of Queens has found that women persevered, where men failed in the inlets in Jamaica bay and in swampy areas.

It must be pleasant to live to a ripe old age if one retains a wealth of green memories.
