ON ALL OCCASIONS

Are we not likely to think that what we call small occasions demand small attention while large occasions demand large attention? For example, some public speakers make little preparation when they think they are filling an unimportant engagement. Who can say when an engagement is unimportant? Who can say what kind of minds are out there in front of the speaker? Don't do anything if you are not willing to give the time and devotion to do it as well as you can. Every occasion when you have something distinct and definite to do is a big occasion. Life is too short to waste it in doing "half-baked" jobs.

HEADS AND BRAINS

You may have a big head but you needn't be proud of it. You have just that much more weight to carry around. Dr. Dandy, noted Johns Hopkins surgeon, finds that nearly two-thirds of the brain can be cut away without impairing the intellectual powers. You may have a big brain, as far as measurements go, and it may be just something to hang your hat on. You may have a very little brain, and use it a lot—and be smart. In fact it's a safe plan never to look down on a physically little man. Very likely he carried something in his little head that was left out of your big one.

A very interesting article on the Crown Lands of New Brunswick contributed to the Canada Lumberman by Col. T. G. Loggie of this city, will be found on another page of this issue. The data supplied by Col. Loggie is very interesting and not without historical value. For upwards of fifty years the Colonel was officially connected with the Department of Lands and Mines and knows whereof he speaks. It is quite evident that the Crown Lands were not looked upon as much of an asset to the province fifty or sixty years ago. This is one reason why the government gave away a large tract as a subsidy to a company that build a narrow gauge railway.

Ex Premier King in a course of a speech in Parliament on the tariff resolutions commented on the rise in price, in certain stocks and attributed it to the increased customs duties. He even intimated that somebody had been tipped off to buy the stocks which might benefit from the tariff changes. At the time the ex Premier made his complaint there was a lull in the stock market, but it has since had a slump, and it now almost where it was before the tariff changes were announced.

An answer to an enquiry in Parliament elicited the information that Hon. Rodolph Lemieux, following his appointment to the Senate early in June continued to draw his salary and perquisites as speaker of the House of Commons, although he was not a candidate in the election. The Government not only paid his salary and house rent up to September 8th, but the wages of his chauffeur, cook and even his chambermaid.

A report from Ottawa indicates that J. D. Palmer, president of the Hartt Boot and Shoe Company is slated for the directorate of the Canadian National Railways and that the appointment will be made soon. The St. John Valley district has never been represented on the board and there is a feeling that it should have its turn. Regarding Mr. Palmer's qualifications for the duties of the position there is no question.

His Worship Mayor Salter, of Boston, England who attended the Tercentenary celebration at Boston, Mass., says in an interview that there was plenty of liquor at every public function, and he interprets it to mean that prohibition is a farce.

His Worship Mayor Clark of this city attended the Boston centenary, but it is doubtful if he shares Mayor Salter's views on prohibition.

Announcement of the appointment of Hedley O. Dickson, ex-M. L. A. to the office of High Sheriff of Queens will be well received throughout the province. Mr. Dickson represented Kings County in the Legislature from 1912 until the recent election when he was not a candidate. During the part of five sessions he served as chairman of the agriculture committee. Mr. Dickson was held in high esteem by his colleagues on both sides of the House.

Chicago women, hoping to convince the world that their city is not dangerous, will meet strangers at the railroad station and escort them about the city. Assuming that the women are young and good looking, a great many shy and fearful men should be taking a Chicago journey soon.

After the orgy of realism, romance is tricking back into the war stories. The Kansas City Star illustrates one with a drawing of a canteen worker wearing a short skirt, hanging well above the knee.

Analysis of the air of New York City shows that it is purest at 4.00 a.m. but it is little used, as the majority of New Yorkers do not stay up later than 3.30 a. m.

One of the St. Louis boys who made it says his chief difficulty in driving a car across the continent in reverse was a pain in the neck. It seems then to have been unanimous.

The Boston Transcript says that it adds to the joy of life to watch the progress of a 300 pound man over a pee wee golf course. Tehn if he drives to the place in an Austin car.

The youngster ready to go to college should now make up his mind whether he is going to cut down his ignorance or simply lay on a veneer which will cover it up.

It is a sign of course of extreme youth to think the Maine Stein Song is the most tiresome ever written. It means you were not around during "Dardanella."

The young man should be careful when the girl's mamma asks his advice about something. That is her way of luring him into the family.

Simile. As mediocre as a mediocre omelet.

* THROUGH OUR SIEVE *

"Darned cute" is, after all, about the best description of the Lilliputian motor cars.

We put up the sign, "School—Drive Slow," and then teach the children to say "drive slowly."

Fashion may decree long skirts, but pretty legs are reluctant to surrender their independence.

To vary the monotony of a trite saying it might be remarked that Mussolini didn't build Rome in a day.

There is no repair shop where a man can go to have his faults mended. He must do his own tinkering.

Another mystery of life. If you have an umbrella to mend no umbrella mender ever comes down your street.

Here and there, as developed by the unemployment situation, men are found whose idea of a job is to lean on the handle of a hoe.

If all the people couldn't be fooled all the time in Lincoln's day it certainly can't be done now that we have shorter hours.

According to H. Slocum in his opinion it is hard times that has put the "it all" in installments.

Peru's strong man is pictured in the saddle. For some reason, possibly an historical association of ideas, a leader always looks stronger on a horse than in an automobile.

4000 WOMEN ARE TO BE MEASURED

New York, Sept. 25—Scientific measurements will be made of from 4000 to 6000 women visitors to the exposition of women's arts and industries from Oct. 6 to 11 at the Hotel Astor to obtain first-hand information on how high their kitchen stoves and sinks must be for each to work comfortably in her own kitchen, the exposition sponsors, have announced. The system was originated by Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, an industrial engineer.

The plan was the outcome, it was said, of the first kitchen built on engineering principles and introduced at last year's exposition by Miss Mary E. Dillon, president of the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company. "Made to measure" kitchens, Miss Dillon said, might be manufactured in the future by providing only two or three standard heights, giving the medium, short and tall woman a work surface scientifically correct as to height.
