President of Brazil Resigns Following Revolt of Garrison

The Revolution Has Evidently Been a Success—
General De Castro Scheduled to Become Provisional President—Will Likely Dismiss
the Entire Cabinet.

(Special to THE DAILY MAIL by the British United Press.)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 24—President Washington Luis Pereira De Housa resigned today. Washington Luis resigned after the garrison of the Copacabana fortress, a strong coast artillery defense post, revolted with the support of the third regiment. The government was taken over by a revolutionary committee headed by General Leite De Castro who had gone over to the revolutionists to save needless bloodshed and fighting between brothers.

General Leite De Castro was scheduled to become provisional president. The first step of the new government was expected to be a dissolution of congress and dismissal of the entire cabinet which would be replaced by a ministry to be named by the revolutionary committee or Junta.

Rioting Breaks Out

Vandalism and rioting broke out in the capital soon after the overthrow of the Government. Mobs stormed the newspapers A. Noite, Vatumurda, O. Pais, A. Noiticia, Cazeta Noticias, Critica and Ordem. At the A. Noite building the mob entered the offices of the publisher, Geraldo Rocha, tearing apart the palatial furnishing and throwing them into the streets where they were made into bonfires. Rocha was not in the building, but it was reported the manager, Ismael Maia, was maltreated and his offices were wrecked. Other newspapers were similarly wrecked.

The government organs and independent newspapers which had favored the government suffered most heavily. Although the actual revolution was accomplished with comparative calm and little or no bloodshed, rioting and banditry began to break out through the city not long afterwards.

BIG SEIZURE OF LIQUOR AT MARBLEHEAD

Marblehead, Mass., Oct. 23—Liquor valued at $150,000 was seized and 17 men arrested early today when police frustrated what they described as one of the biggest rum running operations in the history of prohibition on Massachusetts shore.

Among those arrested was Captain Edward W. Flynn, of the Salem Fire Department.

Patrolman George Kelly, of the local police department, one of the first to reach the scene, was struck by a tear gas bullet. He was painfully burned about the face and temporarily blinded. He fired four shots at his assailants, who escaped the fusillade.

NEW BOARD FOR THE C. N. R. TO BE NAMED SOON

Denial Given to a Report That the Powers of Sir Henry Thornton Will Be Curtailed.

Ottawa, Oct. 23—Emphatic denial is given here to stories or rumors to the effect that, in the reorganization of the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railways, there will also be a serious curtailment to the powers and authority of the president, Sir Henry Thornton. It is learned on excellent authority that any move to disturb the present position of Sir Henry, or to divest him of any powers, has never been contemplated.

The rumors, which were said to have originated in Toronto, were to the following effect:

That Sir Henry Thornton's powers through the appointment of a chairman of the board who would have precedence, and that, associated with the chairman would be a man who would be a vice-president with rather extraordinary powers; that two outstanding men, one from Toronto and one from Montreal had been mentioned in connection with the two new positions; that this story was directly opposed to statements made by Premier Bennett during the federal election campaign; that on a recent visit to Ottawa, Sir Henry was surprised to have some of the details of the plan outlined to him.

A new board of directors will be appointed in about three weeks time and it is known that the intention of the present government is to appoint to the board, men of outstanding business ability, men who have a grasp of the transportation needs of the whole Dominion, and whose paramount consideration will be given to the larger federal aspects of the problems confronting the Canadian National Railways.

U. S. HUNTER SHOT A COW FOR A DEER

(Special to The Daily Mail)

North Sydney, C. B., N. S., Oct. 23—It is bad enough to undergo the humiliation of shooting a cow for a deer but a local hunter had to hand over $25.00 to the owner of the cow in addition. The son of a hunter on hearing a rustle in the underbrush took deliberate aim and then fired. Not awaiting for the smoke to clear away he rushed to the underbrush and found he had shot a cow. Before he had recovered from the shock the infuriated owner of the animal arrived on the scene and demanded that he pay for the animal. The rifle has been put up for sale. Many hunters go into Nova Scotia over the lines of the Canadian National Railways each year for deer and moose.

Returning Home

Mrs. George W. Allen and her daughter, Miss Hazen Allen, who have been on a trip to Europe, are expected home early next week.

In early school days, we recall that it took considerable time to get the difference between transparent and translucent fixed in the mind. Skirts were not translucent in those days.

STUDENTS AT OXFORD BATTLE CO-ED POLICY

Oxford, England, Oct. 24—A campaign of male students of this ancient university against having co-eds at Oxford has been renewed.

For a long time many of the men students have been strongly against the co-ed policy. The student magazine Isis today published an editorial against woman students, inviting them to "make for home, angels."

One of the complaints Isis has against the girls is that they are indecorous—they ride bicycles in the street "with truly shocking display of worsted" and munch belated breakfasts of chocolates and biscuits in lecture rooms.

Aiello, bitter enemy of Scarface Al Capone, was ambushed by gangster enemies who apparently had laid for days or even weeks in an apartment over-looking the gang leader's hide-out awaiting the moment they could open fire.

Aiello who like Capone was called a "public enemy" by the crime commission fell with thirty-seven bullets in his back, through his left eye and his right leg broken in two places by slugs.

BRIAND MAKES PEACE BETWEEN CATS AND DOGS

Paris, Oct. 24—Peace is the dream of France's famous statesman Aristide Briand, not only at the Quai d'Orsay in Paris and at the League of Nations in Geneva, but also at the famous Briand model farm at Cocherel in Normandy.

Briand has succeeded in establishing peace between cats and dogs on his farm, and the proud tenant of the presidential farm takes oath that there never has been so much as a single spat between the myriad cats and the beagles and sheepdogs there.

The Briand farm more than pays its way for this year his oxen and horses won six prizes at the annual Evreux horse fair. The sale of those prize animals permits M. Briand to write his farm accounts in black ink.

Not only does the famed pacifist raise peaceful pups and calm cats, prize oxen and Percheron horses, but his chickens and rabbits command high prices, not because of their pacific tendencies or the fame of their breeder, but because of their quality.

His breeding activities do not stop at land animals, and, as an enthusiastic fisherman, M. Briand has become an active breeder of trout and pike, which he raises in a convenient arm of the Eure river until large enough to rise to the bait. Then he fishes them for his own table.

THEY FLY 5000 MILES AT TOTAL COST OF $1.80

London, England, Oct. 24—Three canaries have flown the 5000 miles from Croydon of India in a British air mail plane.

They were fed en route by an official of the air line, their special food supply being actually heavier than the combined weight of the canaries and their cages. The cost was seven shillings and sixpence (approximately $1.80) for each bird.

Percy Howard, Insurance adjuster, of Saint John, was in the city today.
