INTERESTING DISCUSSIONS AT THE CONVENTION OF THE UNION OF MUNICIPALITIES

Woodstock, N. B. Aug. 26—Discussion of resolutions occupied much of the afternoon session of the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Union of New Brunswick Municipalities which opened here today.

A motion urging the Provincial Government to permit liquor stores to be taxed by the municipalities was passed after considerable debate, while another calling for the preparation of voters' lists and mode of balloting in provincial elections to be made uniform with the practice in federal elections was set over for one year.

A resolution asking Government aid in maintaining roads through towns already constructed with Government aid was passed practically without discussion.

A delegation from the New Brunswick committee of the Canadian Engineering Standards Association was heard regarding uniform standard inspection of inside electrical construction. The delegation consisted of G. A. Vandervoort, Saint John, superintendent of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission; A. F. Baird, Fredericton, Professor of Electrical Engineering at the University of New Brunswick, and H. H. McLellan, Provincial Fire Marshal, Saint John, who displayed several defective pieces of small electrical apparatus which had caused serious fires or endangered human lives in the province.

An interesting address was delivered by Harry Bragg, of Montreal, editor of the Municipal Review of Canada, and a delegate from the Union of Canadian Municipalities.

This evening the delegates were the guests of the Town of Woodstock and the County of Carleton at a dinner in the Carlisle Hotel.

At the opening session this morning reports were given by Mayor W. G. Clark, president, and J. B. McNair, secretary-treasurer, both of Fredericton. The retiring executive were appointed a resolution committee and met to decide resolutions to be presented to the convention later in the day.

An interesting address on collection of taxes in rural municipalities was given by H. S. Farquhar, Windsor, N. S., municipal clerk for West Hants.

Mr. Vandervoort presented the case for the electrical delegation. He said that electricity had created a menace to life and property unless properly supervised and safeguarded. A Canadian Engineering Standards Association had been created in order that properly arranged standards might be adopted and maintained in engineering. A committee from this body had been appointed to prepare an electrical code. This had been adopted in several provinces. A committee formed in New Brunswick had studied the code and approved of it.

The committee would wait on the Legislature next year in an attempt to have conditions cleared up which, in some cases, particularly in smaller communities, were appalling.

For Radio Sets

Professor Baird said that the National Safety Code had been adopted to save both life and property. For many years Canadians had followed the code. Within recent years a Canadian code had been formulated. As uses for electricity multiplied, the subject had required more and more careful thought, for example, modern radio sets had pieces of equipment not safe for the amateur to tamper with.

It was proposed to have these sets contain a switch by which current could be shut off before the sets were tampered with. The whole purpose was to bring electrical equipment in New Brunswick up to the standard in vogue elsewhere.

Mr. McLellan said that electricity stood in fifth place as a cause of fire from known causes in New Brunswick. He believed that if unknown causes could be fathomed, electricity would stand first. He requested that a resolution, which would be presented to the Provincial Government, should be endorsed by the Union. He showed a piece of electrical equipment that had caused a serious fire in a Saint John hotel; also a form of switch which was very apt to cause fire. He had seen cases where soda fountain equipment had given severe shocks. Inspection, Mr. McLellan concluded, was necessary.

The matter was referred to the resolution committee.

A group picture of the delegates was then taken in front of the court house.

Canadian Union

Mr. Bragg was the next speaker. He briefly reviewed the history of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, which, he said, has been in existence more than 25 years. During that time it had done much profitable work.

He related instances of what had been accomplished in the early days.

Resolutions

Several resolutions were then presented by L. P. Rouleau, chairman of the resolution committee.

The convention reaffirmed its stand of last year, asking for aid from the Provincial Government for roads through cities, towns or villages already constructed with Government assistance, and also that the resolution should apply to cities.

It was also decided to endorse the action taken last year with the aim of securing from the Provincial Government part of the taxes paid by the Canadian National Railways for the municipalities.

Another resolution was presented asking that preparation of provincial voters' lists, form of ballot and method of voting be made uniform with the Dominion Elections Act.

J. B. McNair, speaking on this question, said the present provincial system of allowing ballots prepared by the parties to be used in and around the polls did much to interfere.

An amendment was moved by G. H. Simpson, Saint John, that the motion be tabled for a year.

This was followed by considerable discussion, several speakers taking the view that there should be a uniform ballot but that the Dominion method of preparing lists was no improvement over the provincial.

The amendment was then carried.

Liquor Stores

The next resolution called for municipalities to be allowed to impose a tax on liquor stores.

Mr. Simpson said that such a tax would make all municipal governments participants in the liquor business.

N. C. Cochrane Marysville, said that if the resolution was passed, hydro and other government property should also be included. He moved an amendment that the resolution be referred to the towns and cities where liquor stores were located, and that they could approach the Government if they saw fit.

This was followed by a brisk discussion.

F. O. Cheighton said the matter was one for all the delegates to consider although they might not have stores in their own communities. The public services of the town were being taxed to keep up the liquor stores. These stores were doing a big cash business while other stores had to carry accounts on their books and pay a tax.

Mr. Robichaud said that the resolution called merely for a tax on property and not a tax on profits. It made no difference in the principle that the property sought to be taxed was liquor. The principle would be the same if it were grape juice that was sold.

G. A. Taylor, Dorchester, objected that the liquor business was not a competitive one. Mayor Clark said that allowing the stores to do business free of taxation amounted to giving them a subsidy.

Mr. Teed, Northumberland, said that the Union had moved first at the request of municipalities affected.

Resolution Passes

After several more speakers had been heard the amendment was voted on and defeated. The original resolution was then carried with several voices dissenting.

The following nominating committee was appointed: Thos. Murray, Coun. G. W. Perry, Mayor A. H. McKay, L. P. A. Robichaud, W. G. Quinn, Coun. F. O. Creighton, Warden W. B. Ebbett, T. D. Herbert.

A committee to frame votes of thanks was named, consisting of Mayor Cormier, G. A. Taylor, J. S. Scott and H. W. Dickinson.

Nantasket bathers are urged to keep away from the water and the sun is not as warm as it was awhile ago either.
