A TRUE BRITISHER

The big Cunard liner Mauretania, which rescued the crew of the Swedish steamer Ovidia Wednesday after she had sprung a leak at sea, docked at New York yesterday. Her captain, Sandy McNeill, was asked to report at the office of Mayor Walker to receive congratulations on his act of heroism. "His reply, 'What am I to be congratulated for?' was typically British. He went on to say that he had been helping shipwrecked crews for twenty five years and regarded it as a part of the day's work. During the Great War Capt. McNeill assisted in rescuing the crew of the British battleship Majestic which had been torpedoed by a German submarine. The whole English speaking race is proud of men of the type of Capt. McNeill, 'who go down to the sea in ships that do business in great waters.'

It will be recalled that when the Ovidia sent out an S.O.S. call, five steamers responded but the Mauretania, the sister ship of the Lusitania sunk by a German submarine during the Great War was the first to reach her and rescued twenty six men and one woman after they had taken to the life boats.

CONCERNING LUCK

Max O'Rell used to say that "luck means the hardships and privations that you have not hesitated to endure; the long nights you have devoted to work. Luck means the opportunities you have never failed to grasp; the trains you have never failed to catch."

Sounds inspiring but somehow as we get older we realize, and if we are honest we admit to ourselves, that we are pretty largely the creatures of luck. If you who read this paragraph have a good home and a job, how much is it due to the fancied fact that you are smarter than your fellow man and how much is it due to luck? Who decided you should be born when and where you were, have the parents you have, the inheritance you have inherited, the chance at a job which came to you—perhaps because somebody in the job ahead of you fell sick or died. Don't get the idea you are the Duke of Wellington or a Theodore Roosevelt. You are probably little smarter than the man hunting for a job. Besides, the Duke of Wellington and Roosevelt were lucky.

During the plebiscite campaign in Nova Scotia a year ago temperance orators declared that the jails of New Brunswick were "crammed" under Government Control. The jail at Houlton, Maine, is now so congested under prohibition that a judge has announced that he will send it no more prisoners. Built to accommodate 50 prisoners. This jail now has more than one hundred guests.

Canada will as usual be well represented at the great International Live Stock show, which opens at the Union Stock Yards in Chicago on November 29th and continues until December 6th. Many of the prize winning animals at the Royal Winter Fair, will be placed on exhibition at Chicago and will undoubtedly give a good account of themselves.

Eiffel, builder of the famous Paris tower, was once asked how long his tower would stand: "Just so long as they keep it from getting rusty," he said. Most of us who have acquired some facts or even go so far as to think we have a little education get rusty. We fall behind because we do not keep up in our reading and thinking.

A Rumanian asserts he has shined shoes for 100 years. We can't quite match that but we have Pullman porters who have been shining shoes for sixty years with the same box of blacking.

It has been said that the serene look that one sometimes sees on the faces of ministers, country doctors mothers, comes from the habit of thinking in terms of others' happiness. No one can measure the rewards of the spirit—and no one can rob you of them.

While the buy at home campaign has much to commend it there are two sides to the question. Bricks sold in the State of Maine for new hotels at Houlton and Presque Isle kept a Fredericton manufacturing plant going this season several weeks longer than other-wise would have been the case.

You never can tell when Hollywood is ringing in trick photography. But when you see Bobby Jones in pictures you will know his birdies are not stuffed.

After putting your autograph to the bottom of a blank sheet of paper, he next dangerous thing is saying "Yes" to a question by phone that isn't quite clear.

In case anyone cares to complain about the service in a certain new restaurant in Los Angeles, the manager is a Mr. Jess Willard and he weighs 272 pounds.

That disappointed Brooklyn baker who tried unsuccessfully to give away a thousand loaves of bread should remember that "man cannot live by bread alone."

Names of patrons found in speak-easy raids in New Jersey are to be listed; from which it may be inferred that there are going to be large additions to the Smith family.

Since air service will bring New York and Chicago within eight hours of each other December 1, it wouldn't be surprising to hear of one of them annexing the other.

Columbia University professor says trial marriages are here to stay. Well, we must have some form of permanence in matrimony.

The simplest and surest safety rule for pedestrians is to take their exercise in the back yard.

The red flag of revolution was raised in Spain. Everyone responded but the bulls.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

One way to have good neighbors is to be a good neighbor.

Football will never be abolished because the followers of the defeated team feel downcast. Such sores heal quickly.

Among absurdities that some people get into their heads is that there are no opportunities for being wicked in a small town.

There is satisfaction in accomplishment. Ever observe the happy look on the dog's face after he has finished scratching his ear?

Walter Winchell releases this rather snappy epigram, which he credits to a speakeasy sign: "Nobody has to take a tonic to create an appetite for flattery."

In 1888 Queen Victoria wrote of her grandson, the German kaiser: "Such a hot-headed, conceited, wrong-headed young man." Queen Vic was a keen-minded woman.

"To see the universal and all-pervading spirit of truth face to face," says Mahatma Gandhi, "one must be able to love the meanest of creatures as one's self." Off hand, we'd consider that some chore.

Hi Slocum says that the number of charitable institutions willing to provide employment for those willing to act as collectors seems to be on the increase.

A MOTHER'S ANXIETY

About Her Delicate Daughter

"She seems to be fading away," said an anxious mother recently about her daughter. Thousands of mothers could say the same thing. Their daughters endure a trying life robbed of all vitality and brightness. Their cheeks are pale; their eyes dull; their step languid and every movement tells of shattered health. If neglected their suffering grows more acute till decline sets in.

If your daughter complains of weariness; pains in the side; weakness; headache or backache; her appetite is uncertain and her spirits low—anaemia is the cause. She needs new blood. Give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once for these pills actually renew and enrich the blood. They make sickly girls well and happy; improve the appetite and bring back all the charm and brightness of perfect health.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
