KENT COUNTY ALSO BOASTS OF SOME STRONG MEN

A Richibucto reader of The Moncton Times writes as follows:

Your story of the strong men of York County and the feats they performed, reminds me of an incident that happened at the store of the late firm of J. & T. Jardine, of Jardineville, Kent County. A band of Micmic Indians were encamped on the bank of the Richibucto River and while engaged in loading deals in vessels for the old country one of them Frank Francis, a typical Indian, real copper color, fine physique, erect, lithe and supple and very quick in action, a fine specimen of physical manhood, about 6 feet in height and weight about 190 pounds, came to the store one morning and gave his order for a barrel of flour a side of pork and a can of molasses. When Mr. John Jardine put these goods on the store platform, he jokingly said: "Frank, if you can carry the lot home they are yours." Frank smiled and at once put the barrel of flour on his shoulder, took the side of pork under his arm and the can of molasses in his hand and said: "Johnnie, guess its mine all right," and he carried the lot to his camp, a distance of about three hundred yards. As for shouldering a barrel of pork this was quite an easy feat for Frank.

MRS. MILLER FORCED DOWN ON AN ISLAND

Australian Air Woman Missing Four Days, Turns Up Safely in the Bahamas.

Nassau, Bahamas, Dec. 1—The lonely island of Andros, largest in the Great Bahama bank, saved the life of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller after she had virtually been given up for dead for four days.

Mrs. Keith-Miller, a widely known Australian airwoman, left Havana at 9.11 o'clock Friday morning with the announced intention of going to Miami. She flew a small and much used monoplane which had no radio, bank dial, or blind-flying instruments, and took off in the face of expert advice that the weather was too bad for such a venture.

After that nothing was heard until she arrived here today, saying she had been caught in a terrific gale Friday and was forced to land on Andros. She immediately sent cablegrams to her mother, Mrs. S. C. Beverage, of New York, and Mrs. John Liggett, Jr., of Pittsburgh, advising them of her safety. Mrs. Liggett was one of the sponsors of Mrs. Keith-Miller's Pittsburgh-Havana flight.

Message To Mother

New York, Dec. 1—Mrs. C. S. Beveridge told the Associated Press tonight that she had a cablegram from her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, sent from Nassau, The Bahamas, saying was safe after being missing four days in an attempted flight from Havana to Miami, Fla.

The cablegram said: "Safe—notify friends—love." It was received by Mrs. Keith-Miller's mother at 5.20 p.m. E.S.T.

WINTRY BLUSTER

Telegraph and telephone service interrupted by blizzard striking—Citizens surprised into real wintry weather, following mild spring weather of yesterday.

The chill blasts of winter blew here last night and today in the form of a real Arctic blizzard, and interfered with telephone and telegraph service, as well as causing inconvenience other ways. Citizens, muffled to the ears in their heavy wraps, hustled to and fro from work, taking care not to spend too much time in the open.

A minimum temperature of 8 above zero was registered at the coldest point this morning. Later this afternoon the thermometers again took a dip into the colder regions. The blizzard here was preceded by a three inch snowfall, which deluged the vicinity of Fredericton and cast the curtain of winter over this little hamlet. There was in indication of a letup this afternoon. Other portions of the province suffered equally from the blizzard, and there were reports of disrupted telephone and wire service of all kinds.

Hockey Team Away

The Millionaires battled through a real blizzard, much worse opposition probably, than they will meet this winter on ice, to get to Moncton this morning. This evening the team under Coach Louis Berlinquette will practice at the Forum in that city—their second practice. The boys are in fairly good position.

Hoover Says That U. S. will Lead Way Back to Prosperity

Chief Executive of the Great Republic in an Optimistic Mood—Message to Congress Delivered Today—Program of Relief Legislation Submitted—Large Sum to be Appropriated.

(Special to THE DAILY MAIL by the British United Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 2—The United States will overcome depressing world influences and lead the march of prosperity as it always has done, President Hoover told Congress today in his message laying down an already known program of relief legislation. The President urged an immediate appropriation of $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 to accelerate government building during the next six months and thus to stimulate employment.

What is known as the "lame duck" session of the congress elected in 1928 convened yesterday and the President's message was awaited with considerable interest. Leaders of the rival parties in the House have agreed to work in harmony on all legislation having to do with unemployment.

KIND WORDS FOR WELL KNOWN EDUCATIONIST

Halifax Chronicle—The alumni and alumnae societies of Mount Allison have done wisely in devoting an entire number of the Mount Allison Record to record appreciation of the work of Dr. J. M. Palmer, Principal of Mount Allison Academy, who this year retires after thirty-six years of service from this position. In all he has given fifty years of teaching service, a service marked by conspicuous success.

After graduating with a distinguished record from the University of New Brunswick, Dr. Palmer taught for two years in Campbellton, for five years in Chatham and for seven years in the Fredericton High School. In 1894 he became Principal of the Mount Allison Academy which at that time had but eighteen boys in residence. Through the years he has watched it grow in every way until at the present time there are 80 in residence while the school has a total enrolment of 250.

Dr. Palmer's work is known throughout the Provinces. Under his direction the school has prospered, the buildings being enlarged, greater accommodation provided, new schemes are under way and in process of completion, and he leaves the school in a vital and healthy condition. Perhaps no man touches life so nearly as the schoolmaster who has the care of the boy during the impressionable and formative period of his life. The great schoolmaster is an Old Country tradition, which this country might well emulate. Dr. Palmer's work has been of such a character as to commend itself widely. May he enjoy the well deserved rest from his arduous duties.

The death occurred this morning at an early hour of Teresa M. J. Hughes following a weeks' illness at the age of 86 years. Deceased was respected by a large number of people, and her passing will be regretted by all who knew her. P. J. Hughes, K. C., local attorney, is a nephew of the deceased. The funeral of the aged lady will be held on Thursday morning from the home of P. J. Hughes, 622 George St., with High Mass celebrated at the St. Dunstan's church at nine o'clock. Rt. Rev. Monsignor Carney will officiate, and interment will be made in the Hermitage.

SPUD MARKET HAS STRONGER UNDERTONE

Hartland, Carleton Co., Dec. 1—Today's potato market had a better feeling and stronger undertone, which may be reflected later in the week. Wire inquiry and demand were nominal, but no great increase in carlot sales was noticeable during the day. Rain Sunday and Sunday night stopped haulings somewhat and the weather has turned warmer. Farmers are anxious to move stock. Prices show no change, 50 cents for Irish Cobblers and 70 cents per barrel for Green Mountains, Canada grade one. Car load shipments of New Brunswick potatoes arriving on the principal Canadian consuming centres for period ending Nov. 28 showed a decline and were as follows: Quebec City, two; Montreal, 33, and Toronto, five.

Presque Isle, Maine, Dec. 1—The month in the Aroostook potato market opened with a slight advance in prices to growers for best stock, $1.90 a barrel at some points on a firm market, but with moderate enquiry and demand. Haulings were light and there was but little trading, the price apparently not being enough to suit the growers.

Shipments from Maine to date are about 17,500 carloads, compared with 21,500 carloads last year at this date, when the price was from $3 to $3.10.

Fate in Balance

Though the work of erecting a gallows for the hanging of Harvey Dunlop, 53-year-old Campbell Settlement recluse, who is sentenced to die on December 17, has not yet been commenced, it is expected that the work will be started shortly, unless a long awaited reprieve is sent from the Department of Justice at Ottawa. Pleas sent by the jury and private citizens for a commutation of Dunlop's sentence to life imprisonment, have not yet met with any response. Unless the word comes within a very short time, the course of the law will be carried out Dunlop was convicted by a jury of the murder of Erbon Dickenson, 15 years, of Campbell Settlement on May 24 and sentenced to be hanged on Dec. 17th.

A lot of those unnecessary noises come in over the radio.
