THE LATE R. B. SMITH

The death at Saint John this morning of Robert R. Smith of Oromocto, former M. L. A. for Sunbury and one of the industrial leaders of the county, will be sincerely deplored by all classes of people. The passing of so worthy, so loveable and so useful a man as R. B. Smith at the comparative early age of 53 years is very apt to recall to many of his friends the question asked with much force by the immortal Burns, and which has never been satisfactorily answered: "Oh, Why has worth so short a date

While villains ripen gray with time;

Must thou, the noble generous great, Fall in bold manhoods hardy prime."

Many men who have been prominent in political, educational, and professional life first saw the light of day in Sunbury, but it is doubtful of the historic county ever raised a nobler son than Robert B. Smith. Practically his whole life was spent in the county of his birth. He employed a large number of men in the lumber woods in the winter and in his mills during the summer months, and was undoubtedly the county's greatest captain of industry. The demands upon his time by the large industry which he so successfully managed were great, but he did not neglect his duty to the public, so the county had the benefit of his services in the Legislature for nine years. It was during his legislative career that Sunbury got its first modern highway roads. A stalwart Liberal, who rendered valuable services to his party, Mr. Smith, long ago earned a senatorship, but he never complained when he saw the prize go to another far less deserving of it.

A worthy son of the soil, a real captain of industry, a loving husband and father and a big hearted, whole souled citizen has been lost to the province in the death of R. B. Smith. The Mail joins heartily with Mr. Smith's many friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved widow and family. May He who does all things will comfort them in the hour of their great sorrow.

NOT A MERE SHOW

The British government, seeking to erase memories of the World War, suggests to other nations that the practice of laying wreaths on the tomb of the unknown soldier or other memorials be discontinued.

"These things, if they have any meaning, are too sacred to degenerate into mere ceremonies," says Wickham Steed, former editor of the London Times.

Armistice Day comes and goes. Ceremonies of that day must not be mere performances mere shows. Let the bitter memories of the Great War be eradicated but let not the sacrifice of brave and loyal men be forgotten. A ceremony is a worthless performance if the heart and mind are not lifted into thoughtfulness and gratitude.

Some say artists and geniuses are men; they say women do not have creative minds. But the now Peace School was inaugurated by a newspaper which was created and is edited by a woman. In France she has made a place for herself in the political world. Her name is Louise Weiss.

This getting up in the cold at 2 A. M. for an extra blanket rather reconciles us to the Great Shires' notion of setting fire to the bed.

No one knows exactly why the fruit fly disappeared suddenly from Florida. As we understand it, the appropriation has never been cut off.

Briand, great peace advocate of Europe, knows something about practical harmony. He has a farm. On his farm he has succeeded in establishing peace between dogs and cats. No wonder he thinks he can build a united Europe.

Today we have softer foods than our ancestors had. We chew less, swallow more easily. Thus the human jaw becomes smaller. It shrinks and is less powerful. On the other hand, the jaw gets more exercise of a different sort.

It brings the story closer to the child if you modernize it as you go along, and say the bad fairy went out and sprinkled ashes where the little boys were coasting.

One statistic that is seen bobbing up impartially on both sides of the prohibition controversy is the enormous increase in ginger ale popularity.

Strange animals, "with bodies like lions and feet like myenas," are reported near Albi, Grance a place heretofore not famed for its local wines.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

Conscience is our best friend. It never tells anybody else.

Character is the best superstructure upon which to build a reputation.

A resolution we're still keeping inviolate is that of dialing out all crooners.

To argue a man into changing his mind is not impossible. But the change is likely to be gradual and secret.

Nothing is gained by abolishing hell as a remote superheated region and adopting it as a home institution.

Hope for 1931 is now going through its severest test. There are signs that it will grow in strength as the year advances.

Lima Beane says the gossips may say anything they wish about him, and see if he cares, provided they don't tell the truth.

"He is self-made," says the bride, "but there are some needed finishing touches that will receive my attention as soon as the honeymoon is over."

Mrs. Albert Einstein also has a theory. Hers is simple: "I believe that a woman who is busy in her home making it a real one has no time for what you call a career."

Stepping on the heels of the news, Clyde Moore remarks in the Ohio State Journal: "As a last resort to get their names in the papers, some of the movie actresses have been driven to have babies."

ENGLAND IS FASTIDIOUS ABOUT GAS STA.

London, Jan. 29—Great effort is being made in Britain to prevent disfigurement by filling stations in town and country. A large map of England and Wales is thickly dotted with flags indicating where by-laws are being strictly enforced. Some councils, notably those in the beautiful county of Herefordshire, have been quicker than others to realize the necessity of protecting their natural assets. Requirements usually imposed on filling station owners are that no advertisements except trade-marks on the pumps themselves shall be displayed; that there shall be uniform coloring at each station for all pumps and visible apparatus, except for brands; that there shall be no galvanized or corrugated iron in any visible position on new stations, while on existing stations it must be painted; and that tidiness and order shall be maintained in all stations and garages.

GOVERNMENT SUPPORTERS MEET FEB. 4

Bathurst, Jan. 28—A convention of Government supporters will be held in Carleton Place on Feb. 4—to select a candidate to contest Gloucester county in a by-election to be held to fill the vacancy in the N. B. Legislature caused by the death of John P. Lordon, of Bathurst. No date has yet been set for the elections. An Opposition convention will also be held, but no date is fixed. The electors are showing little interest in the matter at present.

MARK EVERY GRAVE

To perpetuate the memory of the dead is the duty of the living. You may discharge that duty by placing a marker at every grave. An individual marker is a permanent record of a name and date of birth and death, and it designates an exact location in the burial lot. The grave marker here shown is twenty inches wide, twelve inches high and nine inches in thickness at the base. It is precast stone made from crushed granite. It weighs over one hundred weight and the lettering is deeply incised and very distinct. The cost is $15.00 boxed and freight prepaid to your station. Write for order forms and booklet of information.
