SHIP BY RAIL

Miramichi Division No. 4, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees with headquarters at Newcastle, says the Chatham Commercial, have decided to join up with the "Ship-by-Rail" Associations being formed among the brotherhoods of railway workers in Canada to combat the competition of motor trucks by persuading merchants to have their goods hauled by railways where possible in preference to motor trucks and by urging the public authorities to take measures to place motor transportation by highways upon an equitable basis with railway transportation.

The Ship-by-Rail Associations have decided on three lines of action. One will be to encourage the railway workers to co-operate with the officials to the fullest extent in providing shippers a service which will be more attractive to them than they are now getting from the motor truck companies. Another will be to direct the attention of politicians to the need of correcting what we believe to be the unfair competition of the motor trucks.

Another activity of the members of the Ship-by-Rail Associations will be to induce merchants to use railway transport where possible for the haulage of their goods.

EMOTIONAL INSTABILITY

Psychologists, nerve specialists, and others have much to say about "emotional instability". It is given as the reason for misbehavior. It is spoken of almost as an alibi — as though one were to be pitted because he suffered from emotional instability. It is true one who does not inherit a sound constitution or is born with a morose brain is in a bad way and deserves sympathy, but a great many who show they have little emotional stability are simply too lazy or too malicious to control their emotions. They like to do what they like to do without regard for others. They never practice self-control in small matters; hence they have acquired no ability to control themselves in big matters. They produce and practice their own emotional instability. They are to blame for it. This does not include all but it includes many who like to think of themselves as special laboratory cases.

SLEEP

Let nothing interfere with your sleep. Lack of sleep causes a large part of the most distressing mistakes humans make. Sleeplessness comes when you haven't solved your problems. Look your problems in the face; don't try to avoid or escape them. If they can not be solved, check them off as a total loss, forgetting them; if they can be solved, do as well as you can quickly, and be done with them.

Toronto Telegram: The farm is not what it was. The automobile, the radio and industrial depression, combined with the introduction of business methods and scientific principles, have made the old homestead more attractive than it ever was. So many farmers' lads, who have set out to secure the pot of gold at the rainbow's end in city or town, have found that the weary city streets offer not even employment, let alone fortune, that the myth has been pretty well shattered. These adventurers are coming back now with the knowledge that even through prices for farm produce be low, the farmer has the most economically independent job there is. He may not make a great deal of money, but he is generally sure of three square meals a day.

Toronto Star: Roadbuilders probably know that the deeper the ditch the better for the roadway, as the best of drainage is given. But after all, the preservation of the road is not a superior consideration to the preservation of the lives of those who travel upon it. One may find fault with the roadmaker who in the interests of the road makes his ditches too wide and deep, but the authorities interested in the safety of the travelling public should check up the road engineers as to whether they are not making these artificial gulches unnecessarily dangerous hazards to traffic.

In 1897 on the occasion of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee, the people of Fredericton, on the initiative of the late Hon. A. F. Randolph and others, raised by subscription the sum of $15,000 in aid of Victoria Hospital. There were no automobiles in those days but the lumbering industry was flourishing and provided employment for hundreds of men in this city, at Marysville and Devon, and at the Douglas and Mitchell booms. Today nobody considers it worth while to try to raise money for the hospital by popular subscription, so the buck is passed to the City Council.

According to census returns given out at Ottawa, Dalhousie is the only town in New Brunswick to show a worth while increase in population during the last decade. Its population rose from 1958 to 3964. Other towns to show an increase were St. Leonard 90; Sackville 46, Sussex 49. Bathurst, the home of Hon. P. J. Veniot, a former Premier and an ex-Federal Cabinet Minister, failed to hold its own by 21 souls. It was the policy of the Baxter Government that brought about the increase in Dalhousie.

It is announced from Ottawa that the Federal Government in order to provide employment will be prepared to co-operate with provincial and Municipal authorities in the erection of public buildings. Possibly some assistance might be available for the nurses home here for which a contract has been let out by the hospital trustees. It can be classified as a public building and the Municipal authorities are certainly co-operating in financing the undertaking.

The sum of $72,624, was voted by Parliament at its recent session for the support of the Indians of New Brunswick, and the salaries of officials. The Indian population of New Brunswick is in the vicinity of 2,500.

Many tart things are said about weather men, but perhaps they know more about their business than most people think. The difficulty is that they have to predict ahead. If they could make aftercasts instead of forecasts, their guesses for the past 24 hours would undoubtedly be uncannily accurate.
