

SOME INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

December 1—The architect's plans for the fine new Knox Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, includes a Boy Scout Troop room.

Kipling's "Jungle Books" provide the psychology and much of the programme of the Wolf Cubs, the junior Boy Scouts.

The French Government has decorated M. Andre Lefevre of the Scouts of France with the insignia of Chevalier of the Legion of Honour.

British Boy Scouts are assisting in the "BUY BRITISH GOODS" campaign, one of England's efforts to restore the balance of exports and imports.

HUNGARIAN PARK

The next world gathering of Boy Scouts in Hungary, in 1933, will be held at Godollo, the former estate of Emperor Francis Joseph I. The park was placed at the service of the Scouts by Admiral Horthy, the Regent of Hungary.

SCOUTS BECOME DOCTORS

Records at Ottawa headquarters show that 50,885 Boy Scouts have taken first aid training, and that 15,631 have qualified for the advanced first aid "Ambulance Man" badge. For a number of boys the training has proven the first step to medicine.

Two Boy Scout Statues appear over a corner window of the new Confederation Block, Ottawa. They commemorate public service rendered by Scouts including location and decoration of the graves of the Fathers of Confederation, for the Diamond Jubilee of 1927.

COWBOY MAKES GOOD

When unable to capture a horse that had been on range all summer a farmer applied at Boy Scout district headquarters, Ottawa, for a Scout roping expert. The boy was taken out to the farm, and promptly lassoed the horse. The farmer had seen an exhibition of Scout lariat work at the Ottawa fair.

Arrangements are being made for an attendance of 25,000 Boy Scouts from some 45 countries at the next World Scout Jamboree, to be held in Hungary in 1933.

LONG DISTANCE SWAP

Probably the prize long distance swap for Canadian boys was that of Fort William Boy Scouts,—a big wolf skin for the skin of a kangaroo. The swap was made with the 1st Granville Scout Troop of Australia.

SANTA CLAUS WORKSHOPS

On Dec. 1st a coast-to-coast chain of some 75 toy repair shops were in operation, preparing to assist Old Saint Nick in his big Christmas eve tour of joy-giving. The shops are manned by Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. By the middle of the month the number of shops will be doubled.

As many as 600 letters have been received at Dominion Boy Scout headquarters from western settlers to whom Welcome-to-Canada toys were sent at Christmas by Scout toy shops. It is expected this Christmas that some 5,000 settlers' kiddies will be visited by the Boy Scout and Girl Guide Santa Claus Junior.

FIRST AID FOR DOGS

While Scout first aid training does not have in mind dog patients, it works just as well. When a Winnipeg Scout's collie was run over by a truck and a leg broken his young owner improvised splints, used a handkerchief and a tie for bandages, and carried the dog to a veterinary, where the leg was placed in a cast.

HER MOTTO NOW IS "DARN IT"

Sobring, Fla., Dec. 3—Mrs. Francis A. Gudger, the former Marjorie Rambeau of the stage and screen, has gone in for darning socks.

She has become "domesticated," she says.

During a shopping tour here she explained:

"I'm looking for some yarn. My husband's golf socks need darning and I'm going to darn them. That ought to be proof that I'm domesticated."

"Stay at home with your cold," says a doctor. That's good advice. You can't check a cold at the theater.

GERMANY AND SWEDEN ONLY TWO NATIONS REPRESENTED IN THIS YEAR'S NOBEL LIST

Stockholm, Dec. 3—Germany and Sweden will be the only nations represented at the annual distribution of Nobel Prizes in Stockholm on December 10, the anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite and other high explosives, who donated the prizes. In comparison with last year, when there were two American winners including Sinclair Lewis, one Hindu, and one German winner, the occasion is expected to be rather commonplace so far as international interest is concerned. For the first time in the history of the awards the literary prize will be given posthumously.

Again the peace prize will be presented in Oslo, the Norwegian capital, since the will of Mr. Nobel directed that the prize should be left in the hands of a committee chosen by the Norwegian National Parliament.

The Stockholm ceremony consists of an afternoon session, usually in the new Concert House, which the royal family and other Stockholm notables attend. This is a solemn and formal affair. First a spokesman for each of the awarding academies, usually the chairman of its Nobel committee, makes a statement as to why the prize winner has been selected and then the King hands him an embossed diploma, a medal and a check. If the winner cannot be present his country's diplomatic representative accepts for him.

In the evening comes a less solemn meeting, a banquet at the Grand Hotel, at which speeches are made by the chairman of the Nobel Foundation, usually on some phase of Mr. Nobel's life or writing, and by representatives of the academies and the recipients themselves. On a following day the winners are expected to deliver more technical addresses before their own colleagues in Stockholm. It was on this occasion last year that Sinclair Lewis gave his controversial review of the American literary scene.

Poet's Family to Get Prize

This year there will be no literary address. The prize winner, the Swedish poet Erik Axel Karlfeldt, died last April after having been nominated for the award in January. The money this year, 173,206 kroner, will go to his family. The medicine prize will be accepted by Professor Otto Warburg, of Berlin, nominated for his studies of the fermentation process involved in respiration, and the chemistry prize will be divided between two German industrial consultants, Carl Bosch and Friedrich Bergius, for their practical work in making previous scientific discoveries available to industry.

Professor Bosch, head of the German dye industry, decided a method of making ammonia from the air under a formula found by Dr. Fritz Haber, who received the Nobel Prize in Chemistry in 1918, and Professor Bergius has specialized in making gasoline from coal and sugar from wood. In each case this work has been somewhat similar to that of Alfred Nobel himself, who built up a large industry on the basis of previous scientific discoveries, particularly that of nitroglycerine by an Italian chemist, Ascanio Sobrero.

The physics award will be deferred until next year.

CARDS' SUCCESS CHAIN SYSTEM AWAKENS 'EM

St. Louis, December 3—Evidently the big league magnates are gradually realizing that the St. Louis Cardinals' chain store system is the best way to develop championship teams. Since Branch Rickey, vice-president of the Cardinals, conceived the idea of taking over various minor league clubs, the St. Louis team has won four pennants and a world championship.

The Cardinals' system this year embraced eight clubs,—the pennant-winning Rochester of the International League, the champion Houstons of the Texas League, the victorious Springfield of the Western Association, together with Columbus of the American Association, Danville of the Three I League, Elmira of the New York and Pennsylvania League, Greensboro of the Piedmont League and Scottsdale of the Middle Atlantic League.

The Cardinals therefore, own two clubs in Class AA, one in Class A, three in Class B and two in Class C. Under that arrangement they can start green youngsters on their Class C teams and promote them as rapidly as they improve until some of them are ready for National League company.

Other big league clubs have entered the minor league field. In addition to Newark, the Yankees have a drag with the St. Paul club, the Giants own Bridgeport of the Eastern League and the Brooklyn club, the Philadelphia Athletics are believed to be financially interested in Portland of the Coast League and Chattanooga of the Southern Association is said to be owned by the Washingtons.

The St. Louis Browns own Milwaukee of the American Association and Wichita Falls of the Texas League club, Barney Dreyfuss, proprietor of the Pirates, is said to be the biggest stockholder in the Wichita Western League club. The Chicago Cubs own Los Angeles of the Coast League.

Secretary Stimson has a telephone where ten people listen while two talk. It may be a great invention, but we still have it on the rural party line.

GIVES DON'T'S FOR PARENTS

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

"Don't encourage—if possible, prevent—a college education for your son merely to promote athletic interests."

This is one of ten college "Don'ts" issued for the benefit of parents by Dean Milton E. Loomis, of New York University. The remainder of the list is as follows:

Don't encourage or insist upon a college education for your children merely as a matter of social prestige or as a result of social pressure.

Don't encourage attendance upon a particular college merely because it is a choice of your children's chums.

Don't insist upon or take blindly for granted your own college as logical choice.

Don't insist upon college education merely because you had it.

Don't insist upon a college near at hand merely to maintain contact and supervision.

Don't encourage college merely as an avenue to membership in a fraternity or a sorority.

Don't treat your son or daughter as a total loss merely because he or she did not go to college.

Don't discourage college merely for financial reasons.

WHENEVER she travelled, one of her luxuries was having breakfast in her room—with the suave hotel service, the crisp toast and the delicious coffee. Today her own breakfast table is magically changed, and a host of waiters could not better the service, nor chefs prepare more appetizing dishes.

Of course, Manning-Bowman were originally silversmiths and have lavished their art upon these things electric, while the Northern Electric Company guarantees their mechanical perfection.
