THE FISHERY REGULATIONS

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Fisheries announces some modifications in the salmon fishery regulations promulgated by order-in-council at Ottawa a few weeks ago. The license fee under the amended regulations, has been fixed at $1 for all nets instead of three cents per fathom. The general netting season is to begin on May 15th, excepting on the Saint John, where it will start on May 1st. Drift netting in the Gulf sections will start on June 1st, and end on August 30th. On the Miramichi River the regulations require that stake nets be taken up during the first two weeks in July. The weekly closing period in future will be from eight A. M. on Saturday until 8 A. M., on Monday, or forty eight hours. Under the old regulations it was from 6 P. M., on Saturday until 6 A. M. on Monday. For Saint John Harbor the weekly closing period will be 36 hours.

The regulations adopted in March followed a conference at Ottawa of fishery officers, riparian owners and representatives of the New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association. They were decidedly in the interests of Conservation, so much so that net fishermen entered a vigorous protest and were able to enlist in their behalf the active support of members of Parliament from this province. There does not appear to have been any organized effort put forth in support of the new regulations.

Friends of Conservation have the satisfaction of knowing however, that their cause has made some headways. The midsummer close season of two weeks on the Miramichi for net fishermen will be appreciated, but it would be of such greater value were it to include a cessation of drifting operations in the bay. The extension of the weekly close period by twelve hours will not do the salmon any harm.

It is to be hoped, now that the regulations having been definitely fixed for the coming season, a determined effort will be made by the authorities at Ottawa to put a stop to the illegal fishing of salmon, particularly on the Miramichi. The sale of undersized salmon should also be prohibited. New Brunswick wants tourists and it has no better drawing card for them than salmon angling.

CONCERNING LUCK

One does not have to be lucky to be successful is the conclusion of Miss Constance Hopkins. In her Facts and Fancies column in the Postoria, O., Daily Review, she says:

"Some one made the remark: 'Take all the luck there is in the world and you couldn't make a half dozen genuine successes out of it.'"

"I figure that those people who are always harping: 'O, well, he was lucky—or got the breaks' are just cover-conscious of except the individual himing up weaknesses that everybody is self. Lady Luck smiles often, but it takes brains and go-get-itiveness to use breaks; they don't just naturally walk up to you and inflict themselves upon you. No, indeed."

ABOUT SYMPTOMS

If you care about long life and good health, watch your symptoms. Don't talk about them; don't be frightened about them; but know about them. For example, Dr. Ellis Fischel, St. Louis, who knows about cancer—if anybody knows much about it—says cancer need not be serious if you do something in its early stages. See a doctor about any lump that does not soon go away, any sore that does not heal. A splinter in the finger is not serious but do not leave the splinter there. It takes common sense to do something about symptoms and of course common sense is not common.

The Old Country by election in Ashion-under-Lyne, Lord Beaverbrook's old constituency, yesterday resulted in the return of a Conservative. The Liberals did not contest the seat, but the nomination of a candidate by Sir Oswald Mosley's new party made it a three cornered fight and incidentally split the Labor vote and gave the seat to the Conservatives. Sir Oswald's independent group does not stand to win many seats but it is likely to prove a menace to the Labor Government.

MORE GASOLINE STATIONS, LESS UNDERTAKERS

Boston, Mass., May 1—"Business is coming along first rate," Roger W. Babson, the statistician, told the members of the Wellesley board of selectmen last night, "and what Wellesley and all other cities and towns need is more gasoline stations and less undertakers."

He spoke at the Wellesley town hall, where a public hearing was held on a petition of the Babson interests to open a gasoline filling station at Forest and Washington streets. Chairman Patrick J. Fitzgerald presided over the hearing. Paul T. Babson, cousin of the statistician, was the only speaker who favored the granting of the permit. A dozen citizens including Miss Alice L. Phillips, for 40 years a school teacher in Wellesley, who is known as the "Grand Old Lady of Wellesley," and for whom a school is named, voiced objections to the granting of the petition.

Roger W. Babson said that just before he left home for the hearing the board of health telephoned him that a Natick undertaker, Freedom Wentworth, had applied for a permit to open an undertaking establishment in a building on Prescott streets adjoining the Babson office. The building is owned by the Wellesley Trust Company, of which Robert L. Studley, a wool merchant of Boston, is president.
