THE BREAD QUESTION

The high price of bread in contrast to the slaughter price of wheat has been agitating the United States just as much as it has Canada. The Literary Digest has brought together some interesting bits of the puzzle as set out by the Washington News thus—A farmer can take a bushel of wheat to town and sell it for enough money to buy six ordinary loaves of bread, with a few pennies left to jingle in his pocket. His bushel will grind enough flour to produce sixty-two of those one pound loaves. So somebody else gets the other fifty six loaves and also the shorts, bran and other millfeed by-products. What becomes of it?

The Bakers' Review answers with the costs of a loaf of bread. By percentages these are flour 26.7; other ingredients 14.5; manufacture 25.4; sale, distribution, and administration, 3.4. "From a barrel of flour a baker can turn out 300 one-pound loaves of bread, so that flour should drop $3 a barrel of justify a reduction of one cent in a loaf of bread. The price of wheat dropped from $1.36 a bushel in October, 1929, to around 76 cents a bushel one year later. In other words it dropped one cent a pound, and it takes a pound of wheat, milled into flour, to make a pound of bread. Inasmuch as 300 one pound loaves of bread can be baked from a barrel of flour, these figures would tend to indicate that flour should have been reduced $33 per barrel. However, one must take into consideration that overhead charges of milling the wheat have remained constant, making impossible any such reduction in flour prices."

But what about the overhead charges of the consumer? The Bakers' Review continues with this startling statement—"If the farmer gave his wheat for nothing, if the railroads hauled the wheat to the miller for nothing and then delivered the flour to your door free, it would still cost you $4.85 to make, bake and sell 100 pounds of bread."

RADIO EDUCATION

You will be interested in knowing how much education by radio there really is. The federal radio commission, getting answers to questions from more than 500 stations, learns that out of 34,000 hours, 3,400 hours are devoted to programs of education. These programs include those put on by educators from studios, programs originating in educational institutions, and educational matter of other classifications.

In short, one-tenth of the radio time is put to education. That is not a bad record, or it wouldn't be if we could be sure more people really listened in on such programs. Too many of us spin the dial for entertainment.

A French anchor announces he will write a book a month for twelve months. It is unlikely any one of them will be chosen by a committee of critics as a "book-of-the month." Fast writing is usually not good writing. Extemporaneous speaking is usually bad speaking. Writers and speakers are as unlikely to get something for nothing, over the long run, as are crooks and gamblers.

We understood that another reason why those tribesmen, dwelling high up among the glaciers and crags of the Himalayas, all live to the age of 100, is that they are seldom, if ever, run down by an ice wagon or a hook-and-ladder truck.

While we realize that no record is absolutely secure, the hole-in-one made at 190 yards by an one-armed golfer in England appears to be reasonably.

Campaign expenses in England must be small. A dispatch tells of a candidate who hung across the front of his store the sign "Vote for Pelter." His opponent simply rented the rooms above it and hung out the one word, "Don't."

Claiming a broken heart, a fellow out West sued a girl who had jilted him for $25,000, but received judgment for only $1. That is the kind of love episode that drives a man to risk his money on the stock market instead.

News from the South America front: A new government in Peru came through an inauguration without falling. High officials in Bolivia are now being paid off from day to day.

The old one about the doctor, who says to the prospective parent, "I've brought a thousand babies into the world and never lost a father yet," has been reduced to writing and just sold to the English Weekly, "Punch."

Niagara Falls sings bass, a recent voice test showed. It does this for the purpose of giving honeymooning brides a cheerful little ear full.

Maybe it is desire to keep warm in a land of ice and snow that prompts Russians to be always in a state of feverish excitement.

"UNFAITHFUL"
SPEED KING
HAD A RATHER CLOSE CALL

Brooklands, Eng., April 6—Sir Malcolm Campbell, world's automobile speed champion, had what he described himself as the narrowest "shave" of his life today during a race at the opening meeting of the famous Brooklands Race Track. He escaped death only because of his own superb skill as a driver.

While his car was doing well over 100 miles an hour on the first lap of the opening race of the day, a 12-mile handicap affair, the tie-rod holding the front wheels in position, snapped. The wheels locked and the car zig-zagged madly from side to side on a track slippery from recent rains.

With death threatening Sir Malcolm and the spectators who lined the rail on either side, the pilot managed somehow to get rid of the car under control. He said afterwards that he didn't know how he had done it. But he pulled up the car and got out showing no signs of the ordeal.

MARK EVERY GRAVE

To perpetuate the memory of the dead is the duty of the living. You may discharge that duty by placing a marker at every grave. An individual marker is a permanent record of a name and date of birth and death, and it designates an exact location in the burial lot. The grave marker here shown is twenty inches wide, twelve inches high and nine inches in thickness at the base. It is precast stone made from crushed granite. It weighs over one hundred weight and the lettering is deeply incised and very distinct. The cost is $15.00 boxed and freight prepaid to your station. Write for order forms and booklet of information.
