WATCHING OTHERS PLAY

Speaking of exercise, one learns the able Dr. Buzzard, King George's physician, is also liberal in his ideas. He says:
"We should be well advised not to make a fetish of games as the only means of securing relaxation from work." Talking to the British Medical Association, he says: "As long as people who watch athletic games are interested and spend their time in the open air, conditions of recreation and relaxation are adequately fulfilled. You may get as much benefit by watching a game of golf, if you are interested in watching it, as by playing it, or by reading a book for that matter, if you are more interested in books than in golf."

ABOUT FACTS

Her newspaper experience has proved to Mrs. Ella D. Hochstrasser the value of knowing facts. She discussed the matter in this way in the Monroeville, O., Spectator:
"All educators agree that the mere accumulation of facts does not make education. Learning how to use the mind, getting a perspective on life—these are the important matters. But in addition to the larger aspects of education it would add tremendously to the efficiency of living if students were taught a few more common facts. What young folks do not know about history, geography, literature, everyday living problems, machinery, is all rather appalling."

WHAT YOU NEED

One wonders what the poor layman is to believe when the doctors disagree. We can take comfort in the fact, laid down by the distinguished Havelock Ellis, that life is an art. Each has to adjust himself to life in accordance with his needs and as best he can. There are few general rules. What is good for another may not be good for you. We have too many fears about being different, fears of inconsistency, fears of not being just like the ranks and file in our thinking and doing.

Hon. George G. Foster, of Montreal who represented an Eastern Township district in the Senate, is dead at the age of 71 years. He was a lawyer by profession and a conservative in politics. He was called to the Senate in 1917. The death of Senator Foster makes the third vacancy in the upper house, two other members Senator Turiff, of Saskatchewan and Senator Lessard, of Alberta, having passed away recently. When the vacancies are filled the parties in the Senate will be evenly divided.

An Ottawa dispatch says that the order fixing a duty of six cents per pound on early potatoes from the United States has been rescinded. Up to within a few days ago it is doubtful if many people had an idea that such enormous quantities of New Brunswick potatoes are shipped across the line each year for seed purposes. In fact it is a trade of great importance and one which should not be jeopardized. The government did not well to promptly rescind the order.

A Viennese architect predicts that houses with wall and ceilings of glass will come into fashion soon in the United States. It is to be hoped that those who occupy them will not start in throwing stones.

The latest triumph of the scientists is a food which can be rubbed on the outside of one's body and absorbed through the skin. I have seen boys experiment a little along that line. But the pie or watermelon they got on their cheeks never seemed as satisfying as the part that disappeared into the oral cavity.

Even the most reliable of jokes eventually dies and nowadays one rarely sees the cartoon depicting the difficulties of taking down a stove-pipe.

From the inklings that leak out, the Dempsey marriage seems to have been much like Jim Thornton's as described in his monolog: "In our life together, we've had only one quarrel. It started in '87."

All the fine things Florida has said for her climate, during the winter, have been neutralized now by the foul miscreant who stole Admiral Byrd's overcoat.

Since the raising of the stitches on the base ball seems not to have curbed the home runs, the only alternative seemingly is to raise the outfielders, possibly on stilts.

The consensus in informed circles seems to be that there will be a definite recovery of business before an unspecified winter.

An ex-millionaire is a dishwasher in a hotel. And many a dish that has gone to the dishwasher is now an ex-dish.

With the coming of next fall it will have been demonstrated to us again that nobody ever got up a scarecrow for a moth.

"What," asks a reader of a household editor, "is a good way to eat spinach?" Well, the inquirer might try eating around the sand.

If Mr. Mussolini is writing a play, as reported, will he ever be able to make it wind up to everybody's satisfaction?

It now is announced that "every individual has a soul color." That perhaps explains why some take sasaparilla and some strawberry.

Statistics gather over a long period show that the average after dinner speech would be 31 per cent shorter if Pat and Mike had never met.

A new kind of armor-piercing shell is said to go through heavy battleship armor so easily one would suppose a moth had got into it.

Life in a small town is cheaper, unless it happens to be located near a large town, which sets the style in prices.

In a war between the sexes the women will be at a disadvantage in that the powder puff will add weight to the equipment.

Traffic Violations
A number of traffic violations have been apprehended by police officers in this vicinity recently, and yesterday five appeared in the police court before Magistrate Walter Limerick, and were sentenced. Three were fined $10 for failing to observe the "Stop" signs, one was found guilty and fined for parking his vehicle on the left side of the curb, and one other received a fine for stopping and not driving to the curb.

PUBLIC OPINION

BANE OF LIFE

Editor, Daily Mail,
Sir: I'm not a psychologist, but I am impressed with this fact, that if one were asked to set down man's chief faults, narrowing them to not more than two, the answer would be fear and suspicion. The fault that leads to the greatest unhappiness is fear; the fault that makes our friends the most miserable is suspicion.

The person who is victim of both fear and suspicion is indeed a miserable creature. Either to be afraid of those around you or to be suspicious of their aims and motives is to make yourself wretched. Your life is too short and on the whole too unimportant to torture yourself with either fear or suspicion.

Concerning Funeral Costs

Not infrequently a matter requiring careful consideration is the cost of the funeral. Careful and efficient service is given every funeral entrusted to our care regardless of the amount expended. Recently a careful study was made of costs and it was found that for $95.00 we could furnish a very suitable casket and case, making delivery anywhere and giving the required professional mortuary services, and attend the funeral with a first-class modern funeral coach. Telephone calls responded to at any hour, city or country. No lack of reverence ever mars our closing of the book of life.
