MY TERRIBLE HACKING AND SPLITTING COUGH WAS ENTIRELY CURED BY DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

Mrs. Clara Jackson, Huntsville, Ont., writes us under date of January 12th, 1915. "I take great pleasure in writing you concerning Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Last winter I contracted a very bad cough which troubled me all through the summer. This winter I started to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after taking three bottles I can truthfully say that I feel like another woman.
The terrible hacking and splitting cough, and the dry sensation in my throat is entirely cured. I would certainly recommend it to anyone troubled with bronchitis or lung trouble. I have not words too grateful to give you."

All obstinate coughs and colds yield quickly to the action of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, combining as it does all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs, roots and barks.
"Dr. Wood's" has been on the market for the past twenty-five years, and we claim that it is the best cure for a cough or cold that you can possibly procure.
The thousands of testimonials we have received prove that our claim is right.
All we ask you is to see that you get "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it, and don't accept some no-account substitute.
Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price, 25c and 50c.
Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A Romance of Monte Carlo

They passed along towards the hotel. Julia did not see in the east why she should enter into the story of her adventure of the night before, and for the first moment or two she blessed the good luck of this meeting; for now there would not be the slightest scandal at the sight of her return—with her husband. Yet, strange to say, this ease of mind, so far from making her indulgent towards the other, acted in a diametrically opposite manner.

His debauched and crumpled appearance disgusted her; her nerves were "frazzled" by the adventure of the night, the keen morning air and the fact that she had eaten nothing since yesterday at noon. Then the remembrance of Fatou Gave came to her, and the thought that as the Bachelry people were the only friends he had in Monte Carlo he had doubtless been with them—or some of them. So it came about that, instead of being brought to book for the adventure of the past night, Julia began the attack.

"It's all very well saying you couldn't get back but you could have walked," she said. "What I want to know is, where have you been?"
"Where have I been?" said the unfortunate.

"Yes, where have you been?"

CHAPTER XII.

You will remember that Jack Revell arrived at the La Turbie platform of the Funicular railway at half past six the evening before. If he had looked up, he would have seen the cloud that engulfed Julia and Carslake forming on the hilltops but he did not look up. He made for the hotel and found to his relief that Julia was out.

His reason for coming home lay in the fact that to enter the Casino in the evening one must be in dress-clothes. The Casino held him like a gin. It was utterly impossible for him to resist the temptation to return there that evening, and, as he put it to himself, "try to do something."

Finding his wife out, Jack Revell got into his evening-clothes with all dispatch and, telling the landlord of the hotel to inform Julia that he was dining with a friend, took the next train down to Monte Carlo.

He had in his pocketbook the hundred and twenty-five pounds in notes and some loose money in his pocket.
He searched in every pocket and marshalled the odd money, which amounted to three or four louis.
Then he began a tour of the tables, glancing at the play and the players, sometimes trying a five-franc piece, as if to test his luck, losing now and now losing.

Then, from irritation more than anything else, he began to play for bigger stakes, won, lost and won again. He obtained a seat and luck came to him; he won fifty pounds in twenty minutes. Growing cautious suddenly, he reduced his stakes to a louis at a time and continued winning; flew into a temper at himself for his caution, increased his stakes and began to lose; lost till a hundred pounds was swept away, caught himself up and, playing for a louis at a time, won five times in succession.

Then he had a succession of small losses and then, without knowing how it came about, he found himself floating on the flood of success, staking and winning largely and feeling that this would never end. He was preparing for a last grand coup that would have landed him out of all his difficulties, when he found that the game was over.

He had not noticed the croupier's words at the last spin of the ball.
The tables had closed for the night and the crowd was breaking up and dispersing.

Jack looked at his possessions. He had a hundred and forty pounds, fifteen pounds more than he had started with. He felt that Fate had intervened to prevent his winning and certain that if she had only held her hand for another five minutes he would have been saved.

He left the Casino and went over to the Cafe de Paris, where presently he met Bachelry, who had just left the theatre. Jack accepted an invitation to supper and after supper adjoined to Bachelry's rooms for a game of cards. Two other men, friends of the actor, joined them and they sat playing until three o'clock in the morning, when, it being too late for Jack to return to La Tur-bie, Bachelry made him up a bed on the sofa in his sitting-room.

At dawn Jack awoke with a headache and the remembrance that he had lost over ten pounds at cards.
This small loss seemed to him worse than all his other doings.

He determined to leave the hotel at once, fly to La Turbie and confess all to the unfortunate Julia.

He could hear Bachelry snoring in the next room. That happy man, who had won two louis at cards and had drunk nothing but sau sucre, was sleeping the sleep of the just and he heard nothing of the departure of his guest.

Jack was approaching the Hotel de France when he heard Julia's voice behind him and the tone of it gave the first chill to his repentance and desire for confession.

"You could, and what I want to know is, where have you been?"
fortunate.

"Yes, where have you been? You never thought, apparently, of what I might be suffering whilst you were enjoying yourself."

Use a Good Receipt For Plum Pudding

Christmas plum puddings need special attention. The making of the pudding is of the utmost importance and requires not only a good cook but a fine recipe. The recipes given below are for different kinds of plum pudding and the anxious housewife can take her choice.

Australian Plum Pudding

One-half pound of beef suet, three-quarters cupful of sugar, one half cupful of molasses, apinch of salt, one cupful of currants, one cupful of raisins, one egg, one teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of allspice, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half nutmeg, a little citron, cut fine, three cupfuls of flour. One cupful of sweet milk with one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in it. Mix all well and boil on gas range for three hours in a tube pail. If boiled in an ordinary double boiler it requires one-half hour longer.

English Plum Pudding

One pound of currants, one pound of raisins, one-half pound of citron, one-half pound of brown sugar, three eggs, one pound of flour and one pound of suet chopped fine.
Mix flour and sugar with a teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful baking powder, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one nutmeg grated. Add water to make a stiff dough, boil in a bag four hours.

White Plum Pudding

Mix one cupful of sugar, one cupful of sweet milk, one cupful of finely chopped suet, and one cupful of white raisins, one-half cupful of chopped nuts, two and one-half cupfuls flour (sifted three times) with a tablespoonful baking powder and a half teaspoonful salt.
Place in mould and steam for two hours. Do not open until ready to serve. Must be kept boiling.

BEAUTY HINTS

There is no excuse for a sallow complexion if one has the desire to cure the defect. Exercise and diet are the two things necessary.
Eat only the simplest of foods and walk as much as you can in the open air. Four good rules for health and beauty are to eat enough, drink only water, walk two or three miles a day, and sleep eight hours.

The average individual does not drink enough water to keep in good condition. Perhaps a glass or two is taken with meals, but one seldom remembers to take a drink of water between eating times. Cut down the water drinking at the table and increase the amount you take between meals.

To keep the skin of the neck in good condition there should be a complexion scrub at least once a week. Make a suds of hot water and some mild soothing soap and scrub the neck with a complexion brush. After the scrub the neck should be well splashed with cold water to harden the tissues and prevent flabbiness.

One can remove the lines in the forehead by massaging carefully with a good skin food. Use a strong pressure and a rotary motion of fingers. Then pinch out the lines, pinching them in the opposite direction from which they run. Do not pinch the flesh too hard.

COULD NOT BEND DOWN COULD NOT WALK STRAIGHT BACK WAS SO BAD.

The bad back comes from the kidneys, and unless the kidneys are carefully watched and properly regulated many serious troubles may follow.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure all kinds of kidney trouble, and cure the kidneys so that they will stay cured.

Mr. J. A. Lubinski, Dauphin, Man., writes: "It is my pleasure to write you in regard to Doan's Kidney Pills which I have been using for some time for kidney trouble, which used to affect my back so that at times I could not bend down nor could I walk straight. I learned about your pills from your almanac, and I bless the happy hour I thought of buying this medicine. One time a druggist persuaded me to buy 's Kidney Pills, saying they were just as good, in fact he guaranteed they were.
I yielded to his advice, and what was the result? I had been down pains in my back for two days, so I took the balance of the pills unused to the druggist and told him to give me Doan's Kidney Pills as they would stop the pain in twelve hours at the outside. He told me he was sorry I did not use more of the pills, and lengthen the time to await results. I told him there was no need of waiting with Doan's Pills; they go right to the spot. No substitute for me."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c per box, 3 boxes for $1.25. See that our trade mark, "The Maple Leaf," is printed on both the label and wrapper.

"Doan's" are manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto,
