NEWSPAPER-CHURCH

Charles Francis Potter, modern religionist—or humanist—tells us sermons in editorials and Sunday School lessons in funny sheets make the modern newspaper a rival for the place formerly held by the Bible.
“The newspaper is to the man today, what the Bible was to the man yesterday,” says Mr. Potter. “It furnishes him not only with reading matter but gives him an education and a philosophy of life. There are so many departments in a modern newspaper that it really is a vehicle for the dissemination of adult education.”

It is announced from Ottawa that New Brunswick will back up the claims of the province of Quebec for provincial control of radio broadcasting. During the course of a debate in the Legislature last year, Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, Premier and Attorney General, expressed his views very forcibly in regard to the rights of the province in this matter. He even went so far as to state that he did not believe the Federal authorities had any right to collect a license fee. A test case is to be argued before the Supreme Court of Canada in the near future.

Deputy Speaker Armand Lavegne has a bill before Parliament which proposes important changes in the Criminal Code. Following the admission of evidence the bill proposes that counsel for the prosecution address the jury, to be followed by the counsel for the Defence, which would be a reversal of the present order of procedure. As for the presiding judge, it is proposed that he confine himself to questions of law and offer no comment on the facts. It is scarcely likely that the bill will pass this session.

The speeches in connection with the swearing-in ceremony of the new Governor-General at Halifax on Saturday were broadcast by radio to all parts of Canada and the United States. This means that the name of His Excellency has already become a household word all over the continent. The broadcast, the first of the kind ever attempted, is said to have been listened to with great interest by the Americans. It was certainly a good object lesson for them on the way things are done in Canada.

What the average man working for wages, need is a “cushion against the loss of his job. White collar men, on salaries, need it just as much. One of the best cushions is a piece of ground, some chickens, a garden,—even a cow. Farm produce won't bring you much but it will give you plenty to eat. Perhaps there is something better about it than the provision of food. It's the sense of independence. It's getting out from under.

The people of Newcastle was honored yesterday by a visit from the Earl and Countess of Bessborough, who stopped off their train while en route to Ottawa and attended divine service at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. It was certainly a great honor for the north shore town.

It is claimed that the Earl of Bessborough is the wealthiest Governor-General who ever held office in Canada. He was long connected with the DeBeers Mining Company, one of the greatest mining concerns in the world. Grattan O'Leary, in the course of an article in McLean's Magazine, suggests that Premier Bennett may borrow from the new Governor-General in order to pay last year's deficit.

If Canadians were asked the question, “What is the matter with the Earl and Countess of Bessborough?” The answer would come in chorus, “They're all right.”

Once there as a young fellow, quite unknown to fame, who reviewed for a high-brow magazine a book by an eminent authority, and didn't intimate that he knew about 10 times as much about the subject as the author.

It is difficult, as Paul Whiteman says, for people in the show business to marry happily, but we notice that many of the brave fellows just keep trying and trying.

One may hand it to the man who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before, but he who does that to wheat comes pretty near to being a public enemy.

It will not be long now before dirigibles that makes ocean flights safely will cease to be news. They'll have to crash to get on page one.

Prosperity is like happiness—not something to hunt for, but something that just happens when you go to work and forget it.

When the stork begins to ride in an airplane, it's pretty hard to judge whether he has the speed mania or is just plain lazy.

Equal rights will have arrived and settled down when the pre-Easter sales in the men's departments equal those in the women's.

It's her beauty that makes a man keep his eyes on a woman, but it's his faults that make a wife keep her eyes on her lesser half.

New York laundries are circularizing customers in the interest of water conversation. Is this public spirit, or business initiative?

It takes a clever woman to boss her husband without letting him know it.

With silver around twenty cents, it might be a good time to reline a few clouds.

People who overwork themselves trying to have a good time never have a good time.

If the day of crime film is over, as Will Hays says, a lot of exhibitors must be behind the times.

When checks are drawn to the order of “Cash” they are either a convenience or a cover.

It's the crow that's sacred in India; not the bull.

Thanks for the April showers.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE
One way to do well is to do better.

Life is a stage and many of us are bad actors.

Utopia is a dream place, so far distant that you wake up before you get there.

“A farmer in Oregon has raised a ten-pound turnip.” Another case of over-production.

First families in a town are the ones who got possession of the corner lots when they were cheap.

Albeit spring has her blandishments, it really begins to look as if depression had reached the saturation point.

Dr. Copeland says “there is nothing in the world as good as fresh air for man, woman and child.” And, happily, it is within the reach of all.

There are sixty stars for every man, woman and child. Then that old exclamation, “My stars!” is not really as presumptuous as it sounds.

Time was when yellow-backed literature was forbidden fruit to youth. Now the gun play and killer stuff is put on the air with as much realism as possible. When television advances us another step forward the picture can be presented still more vividly.

MICHIGAN CONVICTS HEAVY READERS

Jackson, Michigan, April 6—Books of adventure and outdoor life are the favorite reading of Jackson state prison convicts, according to Byron Ballard, prison librarian.

Prisoners, Ballard said, are reading five times as many as are free citizens. The total books drawn in the prison is as great as that of a city of 50,000 population, he revealed.
Next to outdoor books the prisoners like books written by convict authors—men who have become authors while serving time in institutions.

Stromberg-Carlson
George Frank, baritone, and Eugene Lowenthal, bass, will be featured on the Stromberg-Carlson program to be broadcast over an NBC network, Monday night, April 6, at 11.00 P. M.

MARK EVERY GRAVE
To perpetuate the memory of the dead is the duty of the living. You may discharge that duty by placing a marker at every grave. An individual marker is a permanent record of a name and date of birth and death, and it designates an exact location in the burial lot.
The grave marker here shown is twenty inches wide, twelve inches high and nine inches in thickness at the base. It is precast stone made from crushed granite. It weighs over one hundred weight and the lettering is deeply incised and very distinct. The cost is $15.00 boxed and freight prepaid to your station. Write for order forms and booklet of information.
PRICE $15.00
