The Fawcett Circulator

This wood burning Circulator is practically a warm air furnace. It does not merely throw out heat but by its peculiar construction it draws all the cool air from the floor level, heats it and throws the heated air out from the top, causing a perpetual circulation, without draughts. It gets every atom of warmth out of the fuel, is very Economical to Operate and is an ornament to any room.

We have Coal Burning Circulators also, as well as the Dominion line with the exclusive "Rotor Grate."

CANADIAN TRADE LIKELY TO BE GIVEN A BOOST BY ANTI- DUMPING DUTIES OF BRITAIN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22—Experts found out today Canadian trade might, very considerably benefit from the anti-dumping duties in the United Kingdom. Increased exports from Canada of typewriters, accounting machines, safety razor blades and vacuum cleaners in value running into hundreds of thousands of dollars were anticipated.

The duties, effective Wednesday, will virtually prohibit United States exports to the United Kingdom in the sum of $14,000,000 annually. Following are some figures for 1930: Typewriters, $3,500,000; calculating machines $1,500,000; razors, $1,300,000; vacuum cleaners, $1,000,000. Save for vacuum cleaners, which Canada ships to England to a value of $2,000,000, Canadian exports of these articles are small. For example typewriter exports have amounted to $3,000. The Dominion is prepared to immediately supply some of these devices in quantity.

Washington was so upset Saturday by the suddenness of the British action that one official hastily announced countervailing provisions of the Smoot-Hawley Act would be invoked against Great Britain. In fact countervailing provisions do not apply on the articles made dutiable, and even if they did United States imports on the "manufactured and partly manufactured" list turned over to the Board of Trade amount to only $14,000,000, whereas a re-check of United States exports on the same basis shows an annual value of $275,000,000.

In Better Position

While the anti-dumping duties strike perhaps as heavily against European exporters as against those in the United States, experts here believe France and Germany are in a better position to make tariff reciprocations than in the United States. Washington spent Sunday worrying not so much about the general British tariff, which is expected in the long run, as about the possibility of further immediate action by the Board of Trade in extending prohibitive duties on the list under its control.

No Official Comment

London, Eng., Nov. 22—News from Washington that Britain's new emergency tariff might be answered by the imposition of retaliatory United States duties found no official comment today because Government offices were closed for the weekend, but the threat of a possible Anglo-American "tariff war" was spoken of in Sunday newspapers.

Countervailing United States tariff regulations already are effective on automobiles.

The United States tariff on imported automobiles is 25 per cent. When the British tariff was raised to 33 1-3 per cent, the United States duty against British cars automatically was increased to the same level. This increase has been effective for a long time.

Of the 23 classes of imports upon which Britain will levy 50 per cent, duty few are exported to the United States in any great quantities and so would not be seriously hit by countervailing tariffs.

British woolen exporters will be the most affected, and exporters of certain classes of linen tissues, cutlery and gloves also will be touched.

If a general tariff is imposed it is believed the six months' experience with the new duties will serve the Government as a guide and that some duties will be raised above 50 per cent, and other lowered.

Most Heavily Hit

Britain's anti-dumping measure will principally affect imports from France, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Belgium and Poland. According to business observers only 5 per cent of the goods imported from the United States in the class of manufactured and partially manufactured goods last year will be hit by the new duty provisions. That percentage, it is estimated, had an approximate value of $14,000,000, while the total value of imports in that class from the United States over the same period mounted to around $275,000,000. It is pointed out, however, that the anti-dumping legislation enabled the Government to extend the dutiable list to include all articles in the class.

The tariff on silk stockings is now 83 1-3 per cent and it is expected that this heavy levy may induce some United States manufacturers to build plants in Canada or to expand those already operating there, since goods manufactured within the Empire still are duty free.

Similarly other industries may find it to their advantage to establish branch plants in Britain rather than lose a profitable market. There already are a number of these, notably in the automobile industry.

NOT SO ROUGH WHEN GIVING MR. X HIS BATH

(New York Sun)

Mr. and Mrs. X have a cook named Martha who has been with them for years. On her day off the conscientious woman invariably goes "over home" to spend the day with her sister to help her in the care of the children, and always she returns full of tales of the doings of the "youngest." Martha always describes her position as "taking care" of her employers, and doubtless the children have put their own interpretation upon the expression.

Last week Martha came back with a story which Mr. X, a portly but extremely active man of 50, considers the best of the lot.

She had given the youngest his bath, which went off without mishap, but when it came to the drying, Martha, who is a very thorough individual, was a little too vigorous with a very rough towel. The child protested so audibly that she was forced to be gentler. But she had obviously lost caste with her nephew for the time being, and the problem of how so inefficient a person could successfully earn a living seemed to trouble him. "Aunt Martha," he finally asked her in a tone that was still disapproving, "is that the way you do to Mr. X when you're giving him his bath?"
