Hammond, Ind., Oct. 21—Now there are two reasons for dredging the Grand Calumet river, and perhaps the most important is not the fact that the work is necessary from a shipping viewpoint.

An "oldest citizen," who returned to Hammond recently, recalled that a quarter of a century ago a tugboat, carrying six cases of bonded whiskey lost the liquor cargo as it passed near where the Nickel Plate railroad bridge now stands. According to the "oldest citizen," the liquor is resting in 10 feet of mud.

One of the obstacles to getting an education nowadays is finding a place to park.

Springdale, Ark., Oct. 21—Arkansas' apple crop will be nearly two million bushels larger than the crop harvested last year, if the estimate of 2,634,000 bushels is correct.

Udine, Italy, Oct. 21—Emilia Martino of this town suffered from stomachaches of a violent nature. The doctors operated and extracted 25 nails and tacks.

LIBERAL LEADER WANTS A ROYAL COMMISSION TO FURTHER PROBE BEAUHARNOIS

London, Ont., Oct. 20—A defence of the former Dominion's Government's position in relation to Beauharnois featured the address of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader here tonight before the Ontario Liberal Association. He dwelt with the campaign fund contributions to party war chests, repeating his demand made in Parliament for a Royal Commission to go into the whole question of such contributions, and asking the fullest publicity as to sources. He vigorously attacked the manner in which the Parliamentary inquiry had been terminated.

The Liberal leader laid bare the needs of the Liberal Party for more funds to provide for a proper functioning organization. He called upon his fellow Liberals throughout Canada to provide ways and means for party organization and education and appealed to them to begin at once to organize in the provincial and federal fields. He saw little chance for success in the next Dominion election unless steps were taken to maintain a properly-equipped organization and educational offices.

It is only fair, he said, to inform the Liberal Party that his physical endurance was not "what it was as a younger man. If I had to contemplate a further period of leadership under conditions of lack of organization and education in the party's work such as that of which I have been speaking, I question if I should be able to do what is expected of me by the party in the advocacy of its causes."

Score Procedure

Dealing with the Beauharnois investigation, Mr. King charged that the inquiry had concluded so as to preclude further investigation into sources of Conservative campaign contributions. He stressed the point that the Conservatives had a majority on the Parliamentary Committee and, he claimed could do as they pleased. Further investigation should have taken place into the gift of $125,000 by R. O. Sweezy, of the Beauharnois Corporation, to John Aird, Jr., he said.

Other features of the industry were left up in the air. For instance some inquiry should have been made as to just what were the circumstances which led the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission to make possible the financing of the Beauharnois corporation by placing with that company a contract for 250,000 horsepower of Beauharnois power when the people of Ontario were very much for public ownership of electrical power, and must have been desirous of seeing power developed within their own province.

Vital Discussion

"There are several reasons apart altogether from its bearing upon the subject I have chosen for this evening why the Beauharnois affair should be fully discussed and understood, and why I should refer to it before all else tonight," said the Opposition leader.

"One reason is that it raises for consideration some questions which go to the very root of what we mean by self-government. Another reason is that, with the problems of the day what they are, in all parts of the world, but more particularly what they have become in our own country, no greater misfortune could befall this land than that any one incident, however important it may be, should be permitted to blind the public to the gravity and distressing aspects of some of the national problems with which, for some time past, our country has been faced, and with which it is confronted at the present time.

Lack of Publicity

In concluding his address the Liberal leader said:

"I regret to have to say it, but if we except the reprint of speeches made by members of Parliament, there has not been issued by the National Liberal Informant Office from the time of the Liberal convention of 1919, a single political pamphlet, except at time of general elections, all prepared after a general election had been announced and very little indeed at election times."

Since the National Convention of 1919, he said, the Federal Liberal Party had never had anyone filling the position of organizer who was giving his whole time and attention to this work. Headquarters at Ottawa were kept in existence by the generosity of a few personal friends. At the present time all that existed by way of staff and accommodation "is one stenographer whose salary is in arrears and an empty office, the rent of which is overdue." Even this must go if contributions were not forthcoming.

Need Best Brains

"Let me say on behalf of those who are the party's representatives in Parliament that the problems with which our country is faced are too great and too serious for any single group of men to be left to wrestle with alone. The best brains that the country can afford should be at the disposal, not only of a Government in office, but of a political party whose policies are essential to the nation's prosperity. If the policies of the Liberal Party are again to prevail in Canadian affairs it will only be by the party's work of political organization and political education being in Canada at least equal in some particulars to that of its political opponents, and comparable in some of its essentials with that of political parties in Britain and in other lands."

Being Touched Up

One of Sir Joshua Reynolds' famous "replica" portraits, which hangs on the right of the throne in the Legislative Assembly is being given a "touching-up" by Percy N. Woodley, Saint John artist. The portrait is one of Queen Charlotte, wife of King George III., which has shown signs of wear. It is not the first time that a bit of color has been added to the cheeks of the queen, for some time the same artist worked over the Queen and brought renewed sparkle to her cheeks. The work is at the request of the government, who also have suggested that the artist look over other paintings in the Assembly and suggest means of preserving them and restore those which need attention. Mr. Woodley is a capable artist and has spent some time in gathering knowledge on this phase of his art. It was about 1780 that King George presented a set of these "replicas" to the Province of New Brunswick.

Got "Jack Lighters"

Game Wardens Moxon and Merrean proved again on the alert last night by the capture they made of two youthful "jack lighters", who were operating their nefarious trade on the Mauderville road. The game wardens made a seizure of the entire outfit used by the men, residents of this city and the two were arrested and brought here. They will face charges of violation of the Game Act this afternoon or tomorrow. The offence has been reported to Chief Game Warden, H. H. Ritchie.

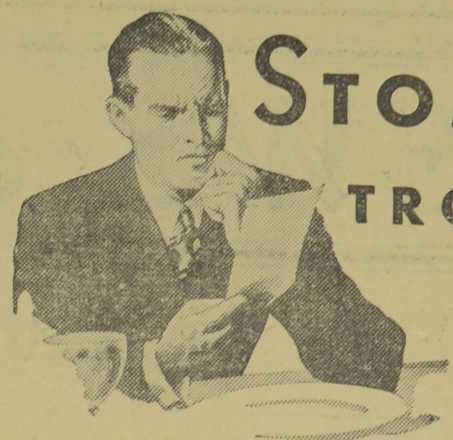

An Assault Case

The case of Curtis Leslie vs. Billy Scott, an assault case, will be before the local Police Magistrate tomorrow morning. The case is from Dumfries and the two parties were involved in the case some time ago, Leslie laying information against the other for an alleged row said to have occurred between the two in a store at Dumfries sometime ago. Both parties will appear tomorrow.

STOMACH TROUBLES

How frequently we hear people complain of "indigestion." And how seldom there is actually anything wrong with the digestive organs!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali to neutralize the acids. But don't use any crude helps. Use what most doctors would advise; use what your own doctor prescribes in his daily practice for just that condition.

The very best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. You will find nothing else so quick in effect, so harmless, so efficient. One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Results are immediate, with no harmful after effects to follow your relief.

This pleasant way to alkalize your system is so much better—so much quicker—than attempting to accomplish the same thing by a diet! But you cannot do this with any form of magnesia. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is the formula; it is the one preparation that gives you magnesia in perfect suspension. It is alkaline, its action is thorough, and there is nothing more soothing to an ailing stomach or more helpful to sluggish bowels. Druggists throughout the Dominion have Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in 50-cent bottles.
