THE OPPOSITION LEADER CLEARLY STATES POSITION IN THE BEAUHARNOIS MATTER

Ottawa, Ont., July 22—Asserting that he was "horrified" when he learned of the voucher which was placed before the special Committee of the House of Commons on Beauharnois, purporting to cover expenses of a trip to Bermuda taken by himself and Senator W. L. MacDougald, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Opposition leader, today made positive denial that any bills of his were ever paid by Beauharnois. Also he made the declaration that he had never discussed the Beauharnois project, or any matters pertaining to it, with Senator MacDougald, either on the trip to Bermuda or at any other time.

"During the entire trip to Bermuda I never discussed the question of Beauharnois either with Senator Haydon, Senator MacDougald or with anyone else," asserted the Liberal leader in the House of Commons this afternoon. And he added that he had never at any time discussed the project with Senator MacDougald.

Personal Privilege

Rising on a "question of personal privilege" shortly after the House opened this afternoon, Mr. King referred to newspaper reports which, he said, had placed their own interpretation on proceedings before the Committee bearing on the Bermuda voucher. He read the headlines appearing in one newspaper, as follows:

"Beauharnois Paid Bills of ex-Premier King. Mackenzie King's Jaunt to Bermuda Financed by Beauharnois."

"No bills of mine were ever paid by Beauharnois," the Opposition leader asserted. "I had no connection with Beauharnois in any way, with respect to any matter of travel or anything else, and also I did not make the trip to Bermuda with Senator MacDougald, as one might infer by reading the headings of articles appearing in some newspapers of yesterday and today."

"Wholly Erroneous"

A perusal of the evidence which Senator MacDougald had given before the Committee would show, Mr. King stated, that the voucher referred to should never have been put in, and that it was "wholly erroneous."

His first purpose in going to Bermuda was to obtain a needed vacation, said Mr. King. Also he had in mind the fact that under the Dunning budget it was proposed to give the fruits and vegetables from the West Indies an advantage in the Canadian market.

He was anxious to ascertain whether or not Bermuda would be prepared to respond by lowering their duties on certain Canadian commodities. Not a cent of the cost of the trip had been charged against any account of the Government or of any organization or corporation of which I had any knowledge whatever."

The Statement

Following is the text in part of Mr. King's statement:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege. The press of yesterday and today in reporting upon the proceedings before the Select Standing Committee investigating the Beauharnois project has, in certain quarters, placed its own interpretation upon the evidence which was given there. I have in my hand one publication bearing the following heading:

"Beauharnois Paid Bills of Ex-Premier King. Mackenzie King's Jaunt to Bermuda With Senator Financed by Beauharnois."

"I just wish to say, Mr. Speaker, that no bills of mine were ever paid by Beauharnois. I had no connection whatever with Beauharnois in any way, with respect to any matter of travel or anything else, and also I did not make the trip to Bermuda with Senator MacDougald, as one might infer by reading the headings of articles appearing in some newspapers of yesterday and today."

"The statement upon which these articles are based is a voucher presented yesterday to the Committee which reads as follows:

"April 30, 1930—Expenses of trip to Bermuda, Honorable W. L. Mackenzie King and self, Hotel Bermuda $288.53, Fares Montreal to Bermuda and return, $395.04, Hotel, New York $168.75. Total, $852.32."

"If one were to read this voucher without reading the evidence given yesterday by Senator MacDougald there might be some justification for headings, which would seek to place upon the matter the interpretation to which I have referred. Senator MacDougald's evidence given yesterday however, makes perfectly clear the fact that this voucher was one which was put in, if not by himself by someone connected with his office; that it should never have been put in; that it was not a correct statement of his expenses and that it was in fact wholly erroneous."

SMUGGLED BOOZE WAS SEIZED BY CUSTOMS MEN

(National Revenue Review)

Excellent results are being secured by the Customs-Excise Preventive Service in discovering caches of smuggled liquor. The following are two examples of seizures made recently in New Brunswick and Gaspe.

On receipt of information that a certain summer cottage near Buc-touche, Kent County, New Brunswick, was being used as a cache by rum runners, three Preventive Service officers went to investigate. The cottage appeared to be unoccupied, with doors and windows boarded up. Forcing an entrance, the officers found the rooms piled high with cases of liquor. While waiting for trucks to arrive from Buc-touche the officers hit in the building, and succeeded in apprehending two men who approached the cottage shortly afterwards. On the arrival of the trucks the liquor was transferred to them, and was removed to Moncton, where it was handed over to the care of the Collector of National Revenue. The seizure consisted of 1,400 gallons of alcohol, 33 dozen bottles of liquor, 1 barrel of rum.

Big Haul in Gaspe

Cached in the cellar of an old shed near a private residence in Mont St. Pierre, Gaspe County, Quebec, a large quantity of alcohol was unearthed recently by three officers of the Preventive Service. The officers found 181 wooden boxes each containing two 2½ gallon tins of alcohol. In a near-by field the officers discovered an unusual cellar with fifty more 2½ gallon cans of alcohol. The total seizure amounted to 1,030 gallons.

TEN PER CENT. REDUCTION IN C.N.R. SALARIES

Montreal, July 21—A ten per cent salary cut for all Canadian National Railways employees whose annual salary is in excess of $3,600 was announced today by Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the railway. The salary cuts will be effective August 1st and will be in force for ten months at the end of which time the deduction will be restored unless the Board of Directors otherwise orders.

The paring of salaries was approved in a resolution passed by the Board of Directors today. At the same time, no salary in excess of $3,600 shall by virtue of such a reduction be reduced below $3,600, it was agreed.

The ten per cent cut will not be applicable in cases where the rate of pay and working conditions are governed by scheduled agreements, it was announced.

Money In Tourists

A West-end lady, who opens her home to tourists during the summer months claims to have made a profit of $150 last season from this class of trade.

One of the ailments troubling business is that so many of the debtors have declared their own moratorium.

WISHES RIVAL GOOD LUCK, THEN PULLS THE TRIGGER

Montreal, July 22—"Good luck, Bill; Good luck, Mollie."

The sound of a shot was followed by the crack of a heavy police revolver dropping from nerveless fingers to the floor, and the thud of a heavy body.

Between sobs of grief Mollie, 22-year-old waitress, 227 Des Erables street, told of the attempt of her jealous ex-lover, Constable Lorne Richardson, 24, of the traffic police, made to take his life last night in the hallway of her home before the eyes of his successful rival and herself.

The constable is at present in the Notre Dame Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in the chest, two inches below the heart, and, although in a serious condition, is expected to recover.

Religion, money matters, family troubles, and an almost insane jealousy are interwoven in the story which led up to the shooting last night.

For the past three years Miss Finnegan and Richardson have been close friends, Miss Finnegan told a Star reporter today, in explaining the events which led up to the tragedy. During all this time, she said, Richardson was extremely jealous, in fact, that she was forced to stay at home most of the time in order to avoid his outbreaks.

Many Difficulties

He had asked her to marry him several times, but money matters, religion and family troubles, prevented the fulfillment of Richardson's hopes. "He owed his father a considerable sum of money," she explained, "and would have to pay it before he could have been married, if I had agreed to do so. Then, again, there was the question of religion. I am a Roman Catholic and he is a Protestant. I did not want to give up my religion and neither did he desire to give up his. His family, for some unknown reason, were violently opposed to me and made things difficult for us."

SHARKEY AND WALKER FOUGHT TO A DRAW

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, N. Y. July 22—Jack Sharkey, the erratic sailor-man from Boston, adopted war-like measures a trifle too late tonight and was held to a draw by his under-sized but highly courageous opponent, Mickey Walker, in 15 indecisive rounds of rough house battling.

Outfought for the first ten rounds by an opponent he figured to beat decisively, with every physical advantage in his favor, Sharkey was forced to put on a two-fisted drive in the last four rounds to get so much as an even break.

The outcome was distinctly an upset, for Sharkey crawled into the ring, a three to one favorite to whip the chunky, barrel-chested New Jersey Irishman.

Walker spotted Sharkey exactly 29 pounds, plus big margins in height, reach and strength, but Mickey lashed and harrassed his bigger foe with a courageous determination that frequently had the sympathetic crowd of 35,000 fans in an uproar.

Gallant Rally Saves Gob

Sharkey's stronger finish, however appeared sufficient to balance the scales that were tipping strongly against him and saved what little prestige there was left for the big Bostonian.

None of the three officials voted alike. Referee Arthur Donovan, who repeatedly warned Sharkey for hitting low blows and for otherwise using questionable tactics, cast his ballot for Walker. Of the two judges, George Kelly voted for Sharkey and Charles F. Mathison voted a draw.

Having wondered a lot about Post and Gatty, after the event, we find in an Indianapolis headline that they have "Relaxed."

Lots of people are hoping that this moratorium idea will not extend to meals.
