GLITTER, GLITTER!

Sequins are in their glory, growing more glorious as the winter season grows more near. Taffeta evening gowns not only go womanly in regard to bustle effects and ruffles, but they also are scattered thickly with glittery sequins. The sequins usually match the color of the gown white sequins on white, black on black and so on.

MY NEIGHBOR SAYS

A large sized dish drainer makes an excellent receptacle in which to keep vegetables in the pantry.

Use a clothespin to untangle a fringed mop. It takes little time and mop will be as fluffy as when new.

Ferns require light and air. They grow best when placed near a window where they do not get a direct sunlight.

Potatoes will be made mealy if allowed to stand 20 minutes in hot water before they are put into the oven to bake.

Salt should not be added to the water in which delicate green vegetables are cooked until they are almost done. To preserve color, greens should be cooked in an uncovered pan.

Have a tall stool in the kitchen and use it whenever possible. It will be most convenient to sit next to the sink, table or to use when ironing. Save energy as much as possible, as that is efficiency in the household.

BRAN BROWN BREAD

1 cup bran
1 cup sour milk
1-2 cup raisins
1 tablespoon molasses
1-2 cup sugar
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon soda
1-4 teaspoon salt
Mix together the bran, sour milk and raisins, then add the molasses, sugar and four which has been sifted with the soda and salt. Put the mixture into a greased can, cover tightly and steam for three hours.

APPLE RINGS

4 red apples
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
Cook the sugar and water together three minutes in a small, shallow pan. Core the apples and slice across making three or four rings out of each apple. Place in syrup. Cook for five minutes, turn and cook for five minutes longer or until apples are tender. Drain and serve around the roast.

DATE AND NUT CAKE

1 package dates (10 oz.)
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup boiling water
4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1-2 cups flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon flavoring
1-2 cup nut meats
Pit and quarter the dates. Add soda and pour over this the boiling water. Let cool. Cream shortening, add the sugar gradually, and continue creaming until well blended. Add the well-beaten eggs. Sift the flour and salt together and add alternately with the date mixture. Add the flavoring and nuts. Pour into a well greased and floured pan and bake forty minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). This cake may be served hot with a sauce for a pudding.

BAKED BANANA CUSTARD

2 cups scalded milk, slightly cooled
2 eggs
3-4 cup sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
4 bananas
Mix sugar, salt and orange rind. Beat in the eggs and slowly stir in the scalded milk. Slice the bananas and place in a lightly buttered baking dish. Stir vanilla into the custard and pour over the bananas. Set in a dish of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until set. Serve with cream, plain or whipped. For a "different" touch, as soon as custard comes from oven drop one of two chocolate buds for each person to be served over the top. Cool, then set in refrigerator to chill before serving.

DEALS WITH 'IRISH OF EAST' IN SEPARATION CONFERENCE

London, Dec. 15—Whether Burma the "Ireland of India," shall be made into a separate dominion of the British empire, or be constituted as an autonomous state within the proposed federation of India is being debated by the Burma conference which has opened here under the chairmanship of Earl Peel.

Twenty-three Burmese, representing all political parties and business, civic and social organizations in their country are participating in the deliberations. Each of the three big British political parties is represented by two delegates.

Because of their lively and joyous dispositions, their wit and gaiety, the Burmese are called "the Irish of the East." But in that respect their similarity to the Irish ends, for they are really a branch of the Chinese race. They worship the spirits of the forest (they are Animists), the men wear skirts and long hair, and the complexion of the people is a few shades lighter than that of the Negro.

Country Has Area of Texas

Situated between Siam and India, Burma is one of the richest and most picturesque countries in the Orient. It is about the size of Texas and has a population of 13,169,099. The Burmese are carefree, somewhat indolent, and have nothing in common with the Hindu or Mohammedan races of India. They are less service and do not share the melancholy and mysticism of the Hindu, nor are they burdened with the caste system which gives India its millions of "untouchables."

The Burmese women enjoy the same freedom and privileges as the men. Unlike their sisters in India they have never known what it is to wear the veil or to be kept in seclusion. They are noted for business acumen and play a part in both the economic and social life of the country.

Those Burmese who are opposed to the separation of their country from India declare that England wants to make of Burma another Singapore, converting it into a great Imperial naval base and exploiting the country's rich treasures of petroleum, timber minerals and other products.

Britain Points to Pledge

The British, on the other hand, argue that separation will make for easier administrative control of the country. They declare, moreover, that since England is pledged to give the Burmese people their independence, and since those people are better prepared for self-government than are their less literate brethren in India, the British government must take the step of separating the country from India.

Acquired by British conquest from the native rulers in the wars of 1826, 1852 and 1886, Burma has had a tumultuous history. A rebellion of native tribesmen against the British last summer was suppressed only recently, and the leader, who called himself "the Golden Crow," was executed. This insurrection had its origin in economic causes rather than in political disaffection.

The snow storm of last night has relieved unemployment to some extent.

HE KNEW THEM

The customer walked into the store with a twinkle in his eye.

"I want half a dozen eggs laid by black hens," he told the grocer.

The other frowned.

"I can't tell which of my eggs have been laid by black hens," he protested. Can you?"

"Sure," replied the customer. "Then pick out half a dozen," offered the grocer.

The buyer did as he was bid, and then turned to pay his money.

"Tell me," said the grocer, "how can you pick out eggs that have been laid by black hens?"

The man waited until he was in the doorway before he replied:

"Well," he said, "that's easy—they are always the biggest."

GYPSY SONG

You offer me content, and peace, and bread

Eaten in quiet underneath a roof
Whose hearth is orderly whose floor is swept,

Where even time sedately walks
aloof.

Rather would I share any berry
snatched

Deep in the wood, with bright-eyed furry things

To watch me eat, and run with them
to hole,

Hearing the grasse stir, the whirl
of wings!
