NOW, NOT LATER

Parents are often called upon to make great sacrifices in order to get their sons out of prison or to save them from the gallows or the electric chair. So we are reminded by the Houston Post Dispatch. The editor says much when he continues: "The thing for you young parents to do is to start in right now making sacrifices to keep your sons from ever going to prison when they get older. Keep their minds occupied—there are useful and enjoyable toys as well as useful and enjoyable occupations—keep them off the streets, chum with them, set them an example. A son is too wonderful a gift to be ruined either by over-indulgence or by hidebound severity. Make a study of the material God has given you to shape into a man."

"THE OTHER FELLOW"

The outstanding cause of motor car accidents has finally been discovered. It is "the other fellow." The "American Motorist" editor says he has arrived at this momentous conclusion after an exhaustive study of the official records of hundreds of automobile mishaps. Sometimes "the other fellow" dashes out from a curb right in front of your car when you are not looking; he bumps into you from the road; he comes to a sudden stop in front of you and you crash into him. He is a cunning fellow. He is guilty of everything. No matter, if you are asleep at the switch, no matter how inattentive or careless you may be, he is to blame. Where is he? Who is he? Can it be such a thing that you are the other fellow?

Massachusetts, there she stands! The Boston Herald devoted a solid column in its issue of May 3 to a spirited encomium of molasses in baked beans.

"The cornerstone of marriage is good will," says a famed counsellor in heart problems. A tradition among humorists has been that it is the bride's first cake.

Babson predicted the stock market collapse in 1929. Now he predicts early recovery. Let's hope it's possible for an economist to be right in a row.

Young Westinghouse, the experimenter, is taking up that theory that a dash of boracic acid on the breakfast grapefruit is first-rate for the eyes.

When the cavalry horse passes it will be necessary to supplant equestrian statues with representations of war heroes mounted on tanks.

It's got so out in Kansas City, and environs that a householder can't tell whether that was a backfire down the street or a bridge game.

What this country needs, as we understand the doctors, is lower living costs, diminished taxes, lavish expenditure of public and private funds and higher wages, accompanied by thrift. The only trouble with panacea is that the ingredients refuse to mix.

The latest style dictum is that a woman's pocketbook should match her shoes, and one of our co-workers says he has for years been buying shoes to match his pocketbook.

"Where is my wandering boy tonight?" people used to sing but in these times he can usually be depended upon to show up by breakfast time.

The secret of successful crooning seems to lie in the air disinterest, as if the mind, if any, were far away.

That portion of our ancestors who remained in the trees with tails but without taxes were not so dumb after all.

Many marriages fail because there isn't room for two cases of self-pity in the same house.

What's in a name? Jumbo was once an elephant, and now he is a peanut.

If Alfonso reads the newspapers, he is probably busy arranging to get bail when needed.

Those who had put by for a rainy day have had unlimited opportunity for spending last week.

California is suffering from an acute water shortage, but it still has plenty of orange and grape juice.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

Old man sunshine is again on the job.

Many were surprised to find that Prajadhipok, king of Siam, isn't twins.

By far the best poem ever written concerned the simple annals of the poor.

It is easy to break a bad habit, provided you have another in reserve to take its place.

You can't teach a boy health without teaching him temperance dry or liquid measure.

Lima Beane says the woman who makes a man of a monkey has accomplished all evolution could do.

One doesn't have to be broken down with age to recall the time when a lettuce sandwich was not thought of as a drug.

As Hi Slocum says, some of the road supervisors have learned their sorrow that there is no such thing as easy money.

Pointed Paragraphs, probably written by a woman, says: "When a woman loves a man she loves to make him believe she doesn't." Now we know why the cave woman ran.

Though the discerning Akron Beacon-Journal has found this difference between death and taxes, "that death doesn't get worse every time the legislature meets," it has overlooked the increased cost of dying.

BUY A ROLLING PIN, A MAYOR TELLS BRIDE

Paulsboro, N. J. May 18—"Buy a rolling pin" has been the advice Mayor James A. Wert of Paulsboro has given each bride he has married here, and to each he has handed a silver dollar. But now he has been answered.

When he had married John Malda, 28 years old, and Miss Anna McDonald, 24, yesterday and made his customary gift he received an envelop containing a $20 gold piece and this message: "The laborer is worthy of his hire."

COPPER WIRE USED BY PIGEONS

Miami, Ariz., May 18—The Chamber of Commerce here cites the fact that a group of local pigeons used copper wire in building their nests as proof of the effectiveness of a "use of home produced materials" campaign.

Dog Gets Revenge By Eating Book

Omaha, Nebraska, May 18—William J. Hayes has a dog that won't mind. The neighbor complained.

William locked animal up in his automobile in which he left by accident a boog of which he was found. The Dog chewed up the book. Its title was "The Master Revenge."

NO PEERAGE FOR SNOWDEN

London, May 18—Reports that Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, would be given a peerage were termed "pure fabrication" today by Mrs. Snowden.

He is not contemplating resigning, either, the Chancellor's wife declared, "the Chancellor has practically recovered all of his lost ground and I am glad to tell you that he has got back the use of his leg."

The Chancellor, however, is still taking it easy and it is not likely he will resume his full activity for some time yet, it was indicated at 11 Downing Street this morning.

It may be suspected that Charlie Chaplin's observations about England were put out in France for the American export trade.
