RECOVERING FROM BROKEN SHOULDER

San Francisco, Jan. 12—Sam Atkins is recovering from a broken and a fractured shoulder.

His wife rearranged the furniture in their home. Sam returned home late at night. Walking through the bedroom in the dark, he became confused by the new arrangement and crashed through a second floor window to the street.

STEEL MAGNATE IS RESIGNING

New York, Jan. 13—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, announced last night he was resigning as chief executive of the world's largest corporation, effective April 18.

HAD NO HEART TO UNDECEIVE HER MOTHER

(New York Sun)

Last Christmas, when Mary Ellen was only five, her mother had doubts as to the child's belief in Santa Claus, even though Mary Ellen expressed no opinion on the subject, and accepted her filled stockings as a matter of course. But this year before making elaborate preparations for the coming Santa, the mother decided to confirm her suspicions.

"Do you believe in Santa Claus?" she asked Mary Ellen the day before Christmas.

"No, mother," answered the child. "Did you believe in him last year?"

"No," came the answer.

"For goodness sakes, why didn't you tell me so last year?" her mother demanded.

"Well, mother," earnestly replied the six-year-old, "I didn't want to say anything because I thought you believed in him."

CRUISADERS TO VISIT VENICE

Montreal, Que., Jan. 13—Continuing their search for beauty and romance the Musical Crusaders under Alfred Heather, assisted by the Royal York Light Symphony Orchestra, directed by Rex Battle, this week find themselves in Vienna and tell the radio world all about it in the Canadian Pacific Hour of Music between 10 and 11 p.m. Friday next, transmitted over 2 Canadian stations over the railway's Department of Communications' broadcasting transmission service.

The guest artist of the evening is Miss Ethel Luening, well known soprano formerly of the American Opera Company of New York, who sings in von Suppe's "Forget-Me-Not", "Fruehlingstimmen" (Voice of Spring) by Strauss; and some of the well known Thomas Koshat songs.

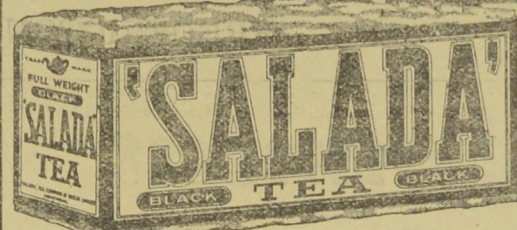

Tenor and orchestra put the audience immediately in touch with the romantic atmosphere of Austria when they give the favorite air by Romberg "You Will Remember Vienna," and the tenor continues with folk songs and the Schubert melodies "Serenade" and "Hark, Hark the Lark." Franz Schubert is the composer most connected with Vienna, whose songs and music most exactly express the city and it is therefore no surprise that his works should figure largely on the programme. Yet another of his compositions to be given is the brilliant "Marche Militaire" by chorus and orchestra.

The "Faschingschwank," or Carnival pranks, is a piano solo played by Rex Battle, who also plays "Soiree de Vienne". Haydn, another Viennese composer, figures in "My Mother Bids me Bind My Hair" and the famous Rosencavalier Waltz by Richard Strauss is on orchestral offering. The Waltz King, Johann Strauss, is not overlooked and one of his best known compositions appears in orchestral and choral selections from "Die Fledermaus," (The Bat). The well chosen programme concludes with the "Merry Widow" by the orchestra.

The broadcast will be heard over a trans-continental network of 26 Canadian stations from Halifax to Victoria, and over CFNB, of Fredericton.

Where there is head, there is headway.
At least it is cheerful to reflect that it is no strain at all to keep down with the Joneses.

Quality has no substitute

Tea "fresh from the gardens"

Probably those Japanese soldiers "Vote in Finland Cheers Wets"—mistook Consul Chamberlain for a headline. The vote that cheers, but not inebrates.
As the boy hears, so the man A half truth is seldom the better talks.
