A GREAT ASSET

It is very gratifying to note that notwithstanding business depression in the United States the number of non-residents who fished the waters of New Brunswick last year was eight per cent. in excess of the year 1930. York County lead the province in the number of licenses sold the total being 395. In Northumberland 295 licenses were sold, mostly to fishermen who passed through Fredericton. The number of non-resident anglers who visit the province has shown a marked increase since 1925. In that year 215 salmon angling licenses were sold and 32 three day licenses, while last year the number was 597 salmon licenses and 680 three day licenses. The latter class are sold only for open water fishing such as the Southwest Miramichi and St. John rivers.

The fighting Atlantic salmon is undoubtedly a great asset to central New Brunswick, particularly to Fredericton, where hundreds of non-residents do their outfitting and it is of great importance that the law against illegal fishing should be rigidly enforced.

Non residents who come here, contribute to the revenue and spend money liberally, are certainly deserving of a chance to hook a salmon or two.

BLAMING THE REPORTER

Says the Toronto Globe: Newspaper reporters, who receive more kicks than compliments, will be astonished to receive high tribute from a clergyman. During his sermon in Eastwood Park United Church on Sunday evening, Rev. A. H. Ferry said: "Often we hear of men complaining that they have been misrepresented in the newspapers, but in the majority of cases the reverse is true."

That has been the reporters' view all along. It is a good thing that many public speakers cannot listen quietly to their own addresses. If so, they probably would marvel next morning at the good job the reporter made in setting forth their views. Clergymen, as a rule, are careful of speech and rarely complain of the reporter's work. It is the public man, the politician, who makes most of the trouble. When recorded in cold type, many flights of political oratory appear ridiculous, provoking only the reader's amusements; and, even then, in the brief time at his disposal, the reporter has done his best to make a disjointed speech hang together. "Misquoted!" exclaims the speaker when he sees the report. Then the reporter smiles; and generally the public understands. This tribute carries all the more weight when made by a clergyman who formerly was a news gatherer, and therefore knows what he is talking about. Praise from such a quarter is praise indeed.

Says an Ottawa despatch:—"No provincial Lieutenant Governors or Judges, have so far followed the example of the Governor-General of Canada in voluntarily sharing in the proposed 10 per cent. salary cut in salaries of the public service. Hon. Edgar N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, answered this question today in the negative when asked by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Opposition." One would almost expect some college professors and school teachers, usually men of lofty ideals to follow the splendid example set by His Excellency.

"Civilization is a slow process," rather tritely says a philosopher. And every additional college hastens it, we may observe, tritely or not. Though every young student may not pursue the best of the intellectual and spiritual within his reach, it is borne in on him what "the best" is. And civilization takes its longest stride right there. Ignorance is at least overcome.

How to induce the youthful mind to absorb culture is another step and slower. In individual cases, it seems a hopeless one.

Our esteemed contemporary the Moncton Transcript which is usually fair when dealing with political matters, made a break a few days ago when it stated that the Provincial Police force was costing the province upwards of a quarter of a million dollars a year. The actual cost of the force last year according to an official statement was $194,833.75, and it turned in a revenue of $19,091.81. This would make the net cost to the province of $175,741.94.

Robert Burns, the Scottish bard, after reading Milton's Paradise Lost, remarked that he was sorry Paradise had not won.

Then there is the doctor who had to get rid of his pretty blonde office assistant because patients found her smiles too invigorating.

What is called "skyrocketing" now in Wall Street circles means some security has nearly reached the top of the well.

No one attended the recent burial of a notorious bad man in Texas except his wife. And maybe she was confirming it.

There are always strangers to be seen everywhere, but the automobile moves them around so much more.

Whoever is going "to tell you something for your own good," never let him get any farther than that statement.

Leading a double life is always dangerous and precarious, but leading a single life can be a bore.

A professor says, "The depression belongs to the field of neuropsychiatry." For heaven's sake leave it there.

PERSONAL MENTION

After you have thoroughly fathomed a man, he is less interesting.

Man wants but little here below, perhaps, but nations are more greedy.

A lot of men give up just when success is in sight, because they don't care very much for success.

Winter is getting along toward the place where cold waves leave off and cool waves begin.

A fashionable breed of dogs soon goes out of style when permitted to run at large.

Campbell has actually attained a motor speed almost equal to that which some Fredericton drivers claim to make in their trips to St. John.

Farmers don't get all the bad breaks. Reports from Europe says the price of diamonds is away down.

Rather than get married, Gandhi's son elected to go to jail. Probably preferred the shorter sentence.

"Blue shoes for men are to be the fashion." Oh, yeah! For all except 4,000,000 Canadian men that you can't budge.

Lima Beane thinks the way of avoid future wars would be for every nation to agree not to fight until it is out of debt.

Regardless of the outcome it will have to be admitted that the disarmament conference has put on a pretty good show.

Johnson, "women would like to create a new world." Well, why don't they get together and adopt a resolution? "If they had leadership," says Edith.

A local merchant seems to have gone off the golf (fish) standard.

Lima Beane says, There's a Nut Society Started and all the old Relics are joining it and digging up all the other old Relics.

EGG TRAVELS UNDATED IN BAG OF SPUDS

Pekin, Ill., March 5—Maintaining a firm outer shell, despite the fact that it remained in the middle of a sack of potatoes during a trip from Peoria to Pekin, an egg was discovered by Mrs. R. H. Allison, Perin, recently when she picked up a supply of potatoes to prepare for a meal.

Mrs. Allison found the egg in the potato bin. It had been coated with dust and dirt during its journey until it resembled one of the tubers, except for the fact that it was perfectly smooth.

After washing the egg, Mrs. Allison discovered that it was undamaged.

Report Not Verified

The report over the private wire of S. Douglas & Sons today, that the Lindbergh child, held for ransom, had been recovered this morning, was not verified this afternoon by press services. The British United Press stated that Charles Lindbergh, Jr., had not yet been recovered by his illustrious parents, and the host of state troopers and others engaged in the search.

Cantata Repeated Last Night

The cantata, "Queen Esther," was repeated last night before a good audience in the Fraser Memorial Hall. The splendid singing and acting that characterized the first performance was in evidence again last night. The presentation was given by the St. Paul's choir, under the direction of Rev. George Telford.

MUSSOLINI'S CURE SIMPLE

Rome, March 5—Mussolini's slogan for putting the world crisis under six feet of sod is simply: "Where there's a will there's a way."

His words, set before the public on posters throughout the country, are:

"The world crisis, which is no longer only economic but is now above all spiritual and moral, should not bring about a stage of inertia. The greater the obstacles, the greater must be our will to overcome them."

HOCKEY RESULTS

Wolves in Finals

Halifax, N. S., March 4—Halifax Wolverines were crowned 1932 senior hockey champions of Nova Scotia here tonight after they defeated New Glasgow Panthers, 5 goals to 1, in the second game of a home-and-home series for the provincial title. The rival teams entered the battle on an even footing, having been tied 1-1 in the first game of the series, at New Glasgow. The round score was 6-2. Wolverines are now qualified to meet Dalhousie Rangers, champions of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, in a two-game series for the Maritime Provinces championship and the right to enter the Allen Cup play-downs.

Yellow, Black Lost

Sussex, N. B., March 4—After a long drawn-out contest Sussex High School demonstrated their superiority over their heavier opponents from Fredericton High School here tonight, 2-1. They notched the odd goal in three after four minutes and 52 seconds in the third overtime period and won the right to play Campbellton High next week for the interscholastic championship of New Brunswick.

Mt. Allison Champs

Truro, N. S., March 4—For the second consecutive year, Mount Allison University returns to Sackville with the Maritime intercollegiate championship, and at the expense of the St. Francis Xavier aggregation, by virtue of a 3-0 win in the Truro Arena tonight. The soft ice seemed to offer difficulties to the champions, and they held the edge in play throughout the 60 minutes. It was one of the most thrilling encounters the Mounties have presented this season. The hero of the evening was Don Boyd. To him goes the honor of making every score of the night in one of the best exhibitions he has ever given.

NOTED SPECIALIST WARNS MOTHERS

Chicago, March 4—Mothers were warned not to put pins between their lips while dressing their children.

The warning was given by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, noted lung specialist, of Philadelphia, in addressing the American Laryngological, Rhinological and Otolological Society yesterday.

"Children," he said, "ape their mothers and as a result swallow pins, buttons and other impediments, leading to serious trouble."
