THE HUMAN RACE

Utopia can never exist where multitudes of people are just a mite mentally and temperamentally aberrant in one way or another; or perhaps we should not use a phrase that has so many shades of meaning. Let us substitute eccentricities for anything more absolute. All the rosy sociological devices which are going to make groups of people, or even nations, perfectly happy fail because the people are not perfect.

They all have spiritual or psychological (same thing) angles that suffer bumps and contusions from any system of rules for the control of the human herd; and in order to carry on any scheme of economic or political organization, there have to be bosses. You like them or you don't; and if you don't, your gorge rises at everything they do—exen at the shape of their noses or at the presentation of their odious backs. You, gentle reader, know how it is. As O Henry says of two of his characters thrown into juxtaposition, that they were enemies by the law written when the rocks were molten."

Their dislikes may be without reason. This is what we mean by multitudes being a mite queer. After the human race has been made over (in millions of years), then, and not until then, will the lion lie down with the lamb and the man with the irritating laugh not make furious the one who shakes hands limply and vice versa. Then can we have a happy communal life—perhaps.

The Democrats refused to accept ex-Governor "Al" Smith as a quad-perennial loser, and switched to the traditional good name of Roosevelt. Their experience with William J. Bryan stood them in good stead, for the "Crown of Gold" man was not only a steady loser, but he was not a sportsmanlike loser, for when the judgment of the people went against him Bryan resigned in a fit of stubbornness or pique. With a great chance of winning in a year of distress, the Democrats not only showed good sense, but they attached the only strong candidate, Garner, to their political wagon as the Vice-Presidential candidate.—Sherbrooke Record.

Over in Westmorland County a boy was shot and killed yesterday in mistake for a deer. This is a brand new stunt to pull off during the closed season.

The York Municipal Councillors are at least having favorable weather for their semi-annual meeting.

"A man dat refuses to worry," says Philander Johns Uncle Eben, "is liable to wake up some day wif a whole lifetime o' worry on his hands, dat has to be 'fended to all at once."

Yet after all, that sequence is not without its attractiveness.

We need more solid citizens of a new type, declares a college president in his baccalaureate address. Surely, we do. The ones we've been having seem to have been thick in the wrong place.

Brazil is sending 300,000 bags of coffee to Ja pan as free samples. If it is true that Tokios militarists are sitting up nights, the favor is beautifully timed.

"Match Your Bathing Suit With Your Conscience" is the slogan of a New Jersey beach. A good conscience, perhaps it should be explained, has very little on it, either.

An explorer of an island off New Guinea finds that no native thereon has ever worked. And yet shooting pool 16 hours a day must have a certain monotony.

The first new potatoes have appeared in the local grocery stores and are being offered for sale at seven cents a pound. This is at the rate of $11.55 a barrel. Should this price continue depression among the potato growers of York, Carleton and Victoria counties will disappear like frost before the morning sun. The only difficulty is that many sensible people will continue to buy old potatoes at the rate of fifty cents a barrel.

A Chicago despatch today states that there has been an advance of fifty seven per cent in hog prices, which means from $200 to $300 more to the farmers on a carload. Other commodity prices such as corn are expected to advance in the future.

 THROUGH OUR SIEVE

We find no pleasure in sitting before a magician and wondering how he does it.

Womens hints carry farther than men's because more attention is paid to them.

 However, the old-fashioned turnip of a watch fastened with a chain did keep good time.

 If one didn't care much, he would keep out of a great deal of trouble. Should he try cultivating apathy?

 There are men who hate to boss as violently as they hate to be bossed; but they have to choose.

 A man won't let his feet hurt him; but he will stand toothache for a long time before doing anything.

 Every time we see a wilted collar on a man we think that after all women appear to have more rights than men.

 Since diamonds for mens wear passed out, a man has to establish his financial and social standing with the splendor of his motor car.

 A meteorologist says opening the windows of a house helps it to withstand a tornado. It's going to take courage to say "come in" to a tornado.

 Possibly there may have been other contributing causes, but most of the world's troubles today came from people who wouldnt let well enough alone.

 How many men and women join an organization for what they can put into it? Pelase raise your hands . . . How many join for what they can get out of the organization Same sign. There—that's more concusive.

DEER'S JUMP PROVED FATAL; DRIVER OF CAR ESCAPES MIRACULOUSLY

Lloyd Hoben, local garage employee, miraculously escaped death, when a dazen and frightened deer in jumping, crashed through the windshield of the Hoben Coupe, returning from Harvey Station on Tuesday night.

The deer died instantly. A party of American tourists witnessing the accident went to Hoben's aid, and expected to find Hoben in a serious condition. But beyond bruising and lameness he was unhurt. The Coupe struck the deer as it was in mid-air. Hoben, shocked by the hurtling deer, let go going through a fence, and bushes some 80 feet off the main road.

Mr. Hoben today though bruised and lamed, is able to be at his work. He is being congratulated on his narrow escape from death. The accident occurred about five miles from Harvey. Hoben drove the machine back to within a few miles of this city, then because the lights had gone out, had to call a wrecking truck to bring him in the remaining distance. The car was badly battered but not beyond repair.

SHEEPMEN WORRIED
 Sydney, N.S.W., July 7—Australian sheepmen are worried about the Alsatian wolfhounds. They want their importation barred. They fear the wolfhounds may become crossed with the Australian wild dog and are fearful that such a resultant breed would be a creature most dangerous to the flocks.

Chicago, July 7—As official candy taster for a chain of candy stores, William H. Beirer eats candy all day and gets paid for it. He estimates in nine years at this work he has eaten more than a half a ton of candy. He is obliged to follow a special diet, eating plenty of protein, vegetables and non-starch and carbohydrate foods to keep his weight down. He also walks two miles daily for exercise to check his averdupois.

IN LOVING MEMORY

As time goes on the memory fades and in a few short years the exact location of the graves in the burial lot will not be remembered. The marker pictured is inexpensive and appropriate. It is a permanent record of name and dates and designates an exact location.
