WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

Had Frederick, Prince of Wales, not died in 1751, there might never have been a World War, the American colonies would still have been part of the British Commonwealth of Nations, no large navies other than the British would have been constructed and armies would have been much smaller. So reasons Norwood Young, British biographer of George Washington, the father of his country.

Frederick was the father of George III and, had he lived, Mr. Young contends would have come to the throne in calm middle age rather than as a heady youth; Pitt would have remained as Prime Minister; there would have been no Stamp Act and no oppressive administration measures. The colonies would have remained under British suzerainty until after Napoleon, and by that time would have been too powerful for England to antagonize; America would today be a dominion in the same status as Canada.

Mr. Young's life of Washington, the first full-length biography by a British writer in a century, insists that Washington would have become King had the demand come from the masses as well as from the army, that he would have taken a third presidential term had the voters not turned against him and that Washington's reputation for modesty has been overrated. He doubts the stories that four bullets passed through Washington's coat and that two bullets pierced the young officers' hat, but thinks the story, as spread by Washington, gave the basis for Washington's subsequent reputation and for his appointment as commander-in-chief.

A SOUND COMPANY

The New Brunswick Telephone Co., Limited, which has been in existence for 42 years, is holding its annual meeting here today. While the report of the directors shows that the company in the matter of improvements has kept well abreast of the times, it also shows that this excellently managed corporation has not escaped the world-wide business depression. The earnings have fallen off and it may be necessary for the incoming board of directors to reduce the dividend. The company has been a consistent dividend payer for many years—no New Brunswick corporation has a better record—and there will be no reduction unless the directors deem it to be absolutely necessary. The company by cutting salaries and in other ways has made every effort to reduce expenses during the year, but the efficiency of the service has been well maintained. The fact that the company recently joined in a coast-to-coast hookup through all-Canadian territory demonstrates its faith in the future of the Dominion.

Although the estimates for national defence, brought down in Parliament on Monday show a decrease of a round million dollars, there is still a large sum to be expended on this service. In the good old days when Fredericton was the military headquarters of the province, between $60,000 and $70,000 was annually expended here by the Federal government on a military school. Today the regular expenditure has simmered down to $1975, which is the combined salaries of two caretakers. This city is badly in need of a new drill hall and armoury, but will probably have to wait until conditions improve.

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police, who have been trailing Albert Johnson, a mad trapper of the Arctic for two months, have got their man, but until one valuable life had been sacrificed, Johnson was rounded up by a posse yesterday and riddled with bullets. Before this happened, N. Marks, St. Stephen; Burchill, G. P., however, he shot and seriously wounded Staff Sergeant Earl Hersey, formerly of this city. Just before Christmas he shot and killed Constable Millen and wounded Constable A. W. King, of both the Mounties. Johnson was a real desperado and the people of the Northern Country will breathe easier now that the man hunt has ended.

It was stated in Parliament recently by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor that the Federal Government had during the year made loans to the Government of British Columbia totalling $3,371,644 to enable it to meet obligations maturing in New York. He also stated that $2,525,000 had been advanced to the western provinces, pending approval of accounts relating to unemployment relief. These advances are secured by treasury notes of the province.

Premier Bennett announced in Parliament yesterday that Newfoundland's portion of Laborador was offered for sale to the Canadian Government last October for the sum of $110,000,000. The government wisely rejected the offer because of serious financial and economic condition. It is not necessary for Canada to take in any additional frozen assets at a time like this.

and official salaries and wages.
During the most trying period the assistance and co-operation of the staff and employees has been most satisfactory and has been greatly appreciated by your Board.

Since the year has ended we have heard with sincere regret of the death of Mr. Paul Blanchet, who has been your Company's auditor for many years. It is with deep appreciation that we refer to the good work he has done for your Company.

The Financial Statement for the year 1931, is attached hereto.

VOLCANO TO GENERATE POWER

Athens, Jan. 18—Thrifty Greece is going to put a volcano to work.

A concession has been given to Rear Admiral Theodore Bakopoulos to utilize the natural heat generated by the volcano Thera, on the island of that name, and by the hot springs which gave their name to the historic pass of Thermopylae ("the hot gates").

He also plans to use the baths of Aedipsos, on the island of Euboea. He expects to produce motor power of at least 50 horsepower rating which will be available for manufacturing purposes without the necessity of employing any fuel.

COFFEE COKE IS FOUND A SUCCESS IN BRAZIL

Washington, Feb. 17—Conversion of surplus coffee into coke for the production of gas has been an experimental success in Brazil, according to reports received by the department of commerce from Rio de Janeiro.

Large surpluses of coffee are expected to be disposed of through this process.

Tests taken indicate that gas can successfully be produced from a mixture of 50 per cent. coal coke and 50 per cent. coffee charcoal, which is given the name "coke." The gas produced in this manner registered 4351 calories, which is said to be equal to the requirement of the Light and Power Company of Rio de Janeiro.

AN OLD CITY
ORDINANCE CALLS FOR BELLRINGER

San Francisco, Feb. 17—Consider the sad plight of San Francisco. With only 13,500 city employees and an annual payroll of $46,000,000 the city still neglects to provide all the jobs required by statute.

For, according to law, San Francisco should have a bellringer. The bellringer should draw a salary of $150 a month to ring a bell and shout, "Hear ye, hear ye," from the City Hall steps every time the mayor wants to make an announcement.

John S. Dunnigan, chief clerk for the board of supervisors, discovered the bellringer business.
