THE MAISONNEUVE VERDICT

The comments on the Maisonneuve election by the Quebec press, especially those of the French language are interesting. La Patrie, established by the late Hon. J. Israel Tarte as an organ of the Laurier Government says: "In 1930 the Liberal candidate in Maisonneuve was elected by a majority of 5,400 votes, a result which would seem to indicate that after so short an interval, Mr. Joseph Jean, the Liberal candidate in Monday's by-election, would be assured of an easy victory. But such was not the case. What happened was that the Conservatives succeeded in reducing the Liberal majority by three quarters, which result is not to be scorned in the circumstances. What may be regarded as of the nature of a moral victory might, we believe, have been made an actual triumph, giving the Conservative candidate a majority of the votes, if the Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, had found it possible to come into the constituency and had at least on one occasion addressed the electorate. Preparations for the Imperial Economic Conference however, occupied the Premier's attention as it stands, the result of the election is a good augury for the next occasion! It is in accordance with the natural order of things that a strong position cannot be taken on the first assault. The Liberal fortress of Maisonneuve, nevertheless, has been singularly shaken."

THE OLDSTERS

A man by the name of Allman sold over a half a million dollars in life insurance in two months—and Mr. Allman is 80 years old. Colleges and high schools, are retiring teachers at 65 and 70, just when they are doing the most careful, thoughtful teaching. Many men do their best work from 60 years up. There is no general rule which can be laid down to define a man's usefulness or his capacity for production. No matter how old you are there is a fair chance that your best years are to come. Others have found it so.

Ex-King Manuel, of Portugal, who was deprived of his throne twenty-two years ago and who has been living in exile in England, died on Saturday from an attack of throat trouble. He was forty-three years of age. Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary visited the estate at Tuckisham yesterday to express sympathy and dined with the widow and mother of the ex-King.

Calvin Coolidge, wise observer of men and affairs, says: "Successful modern business constantly requires publicity. Formerly it was an axiom that 'competition is the life of trade.' Under the methods of the present day, it would seem to be more appropriate to say advertising is the life of trade—much of it being done co-operatively."

John H. Curtis, boatbuilder of Norfolk, Virginia, was convicted by a jury at Flemington, N.J., on Saturday on the charge of obstructing justice in the Lindbergh kidnapping case. In the meantime the fiends of hell who kidnapped and murdered the baby are still at large and laughing at the efforts of the New Jersey police to catch them.

Governor Roosevelt, nominated as the Democratic candidate for President of the United States on Friday, flew from Albany to Chicago on Saturday and was given a rousing welcome. The nomination was tendered him by Chairman Walsh and formally accepted by Governor Roosevelt in a ringing speech.

The city of Chicago was selected this year for both the Republican and Democratic National Conventions and considered itself in luck. A large sum was appropriated for the entertainment of the delegates, one hotel alone having subscribed $25,000. Something like eleven hundred delegates attended each convention, but newspaper men and camp followers greatly increased the total. After all the attendance in proportion to the population of the city was nothing like that of the Teachers' Institute which met in Fredericton last week. One thousand teachers attended the institute meeting here, which is equal to one eighth of the city's population. Their presence here for three days caused scarcely a ripple.

J. J. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is evidently not elated over the nomination of Governor Roosevelt for the presidency. He was active on behalf of Al. Smith at the Chicago gathering, but disappeared before the arrival of Governor Roosevelt. Before departing he notified the Committee of outstanding obligations totalling $420,000, including a note of $120,000 which he holds. Evidently the party will have some financing to do in the near future and at a time like this the job of raising the wind will not be an easy one.

Al Smith, who lost in the race for the Democratic nomination, may be a good politician but it is quite evident that he is a cheap sport. At the Democratic Convention in 1924 his then friend Franklin D. Roosevelt nominated him for the presidency and precipitated a deadlock which will never be forgotten. Al had a chance to even the score at Chicago last week but failed to avail himself of it.

The continued wet weather of last week while it put an end to the forest fire menace, was not beneficial to growing crops, and resulted in considerable damage to the highways in some sections of the province. The downpour of Saturday afternoon was one of the worst of the season.

A new law in Bengal making it a crime to kill a rhinoceros will operate, we fear, to keep us from Bengal. We shouldn't care to go about all day looking a rhinoceros steadily in the eye.

A woman's college is making much of the fact that recently compiled statistics show that men get mad an average of six times a week and women only three. Yes, but who makes the men mad?

June weather was a pain in the neck to those who enjoy summer sports.

It is pretty hard to be interesting in society without money.

You can never locate a minority until you can tell which side is making the most noise.

What is the profit in talking? And yet one dearly loves to talk. Most men don't care a great deal to be rich. They only want the comforts they like.

One of the bitterest disillusion is to find that you can't depend on somebody you expected to.

Those who have no curiosity to "explore the soul" of a fellow-creature have the most sense.

Young men do not generally clamor for war on general principles, but they fight in it when it arrives.

Where one man suffers from overwork a thousand men grow stale from unemployment.

Of course, there are habits that are more expensive than taxes. But they are our own pets, and we'd like to see anybody try to interfere with them.

What many a girl can't understand is why before marriage her sweetheart acts as if he had a 99-year lease on half of the porch swing, while after the wedding she has to entice one of the neighbor women over if she doesn't want to sit in it alone.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Clara Bridges, who spent the winter and spring in the south of France, was a visitor to the city on Saturday, preparing to open up her summer house at Sheffield.

Miss Greta McNutt of New York, is spending her vacation in the city with her father, L. C. MacNutt.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson of Boston, Mass., are the guests of the Countess of Ashburnham.

Herbert (Pat) Gunter, of Parrsboro, N.S., is spending a few days in the city.

Newspapers Curtailing

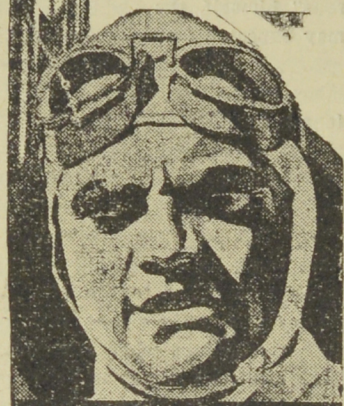

It is quite evident that the newspapers of the province are feeling the effects of the business depression and are curtailing on expenses. Today the St. John Telegraph appeared in ten page form. The Moncton Transcript on Saturday found eight pages sufficient for its requirements.

RAIN AND HAIL FOR ICE CREAM

Lynch, Neb., July 4—Rain and hail storms in this part of the state meant home-made ice cream—indirectly.

Hailstones as large as hen's eggs fell. Washing rains carried the hailstones down the ravines and packed them in drifts three and four feet deep. Mud and trash washed in over the ice kept the stones from melting.

Peter Mulhair, farmer living northeast of here, first discovered the drifts of hailstones. His neighbors then came to his farm to carry home sacks of stones to use in freezing ice cream.
