LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

The birthday of Abraham Lincoln, the martyred president of the United States, is being fittingly observed in Uncle Sam's domain today as a public holiday. Mr. Lincoln was born in Kentucky in 1809, a year which also produced another outstanding statesman in the person of Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, who held office for many years as Prime Minister of Great Britain. The future president was born in a log cabin and experienced poverty and no end of hard, manual labor during the days of his young manhood. It was at Springfield, Illinois, where he studied law that he began the great career which ultimately landed him in the White House. It is claimed that he ran nine elections for the Legislature, before success crowned his efforts. This experience should offer some encouragement to budding politicians of the present day who often become discouraged over failure to secure a majority of votes and hesitate to try it a second time.

Mr. Lincoln was twice elected President of the United States and carried on with great courage and ability during the most trying period in the country's history. He was a great orator as well as a great statesman and some of his speeches particularly one delivered at Gettysburg have become classics. His death at the hand of an assassin near the close of the civil war plunged the whole world into mourning. In view of the great service he rendered his country it is not surprising that Abraham Lincoln should rank second only to George Washington in the estimation of the people of the great republic to the South.

EXCURSIONS TO OTTAWA

For years past, if our information is correct, says the Ottawa Journal, United States railways have made a practice of running cheap excursions to Washington. They have found it to be good business. It has taught people the habit of travelling; it has made money for the railways; and it has shown people their Capital. Millions of Americans journey every year on a pilgrimage to Washington.

Why not something of the same sort here in Canada?

Three thousand persons took advantage of the cheap week-end excursion to Montreal by the Canadian National Railways. Thousands of others took advantage of a similar excursion by the Canadian Pacific from Quebec to Montreal.

This shows what might be done. There are tens of thousands of people in Quebec and Ontario, not to mention the other provinces, who have never seen the Capital of Canada. Isn't it reasonable to suppose that they would like to do so, that they would particularly like to come here when Parliament is in session?

It is difficult to think otherwise. The Journal feels confident that cheap excursions to Ottawa from Quebec and Ontario points—to go no farther afield—would bring thousands here; that it would be good business for the railways; a fine thing for the excursionists; and a fine thing for Canada.

The Ottawa Journal advocates cheap excursions to Ottawa from various parts of Canada. The idea is a good one but the Federal Government might object on the ground that it might prove expensive for the taxpayers of the country in the long run.

Why should we be down hearted? The advent of Lent means the near approach of the ham and egg season and with both selling at record low prices there is surely nothing to worry about.

You can always tell a Chinaman from a Jap—the Chinaman is the one running ahead.

EDIT . . . . . ti-Chomli rt —
The technical war between Japan and China seems to have put Mahatma Gandhi off the front page for the time being.

When Richard III referred to "the winner of our discontent," Shakespeare, of course, had no idea how things would be around here in 1931-'32.

Our language, says a well known etymologist, is a living thing. Which doesn't at all deny that in the months of some of our youngsters it's perfectly killing.

With so many "observers" present the participants in the Geneva Arms Conference must feel like a lot of gold fish.

Gandhi's son, with the option of getting married and obeying the law or resisting and going to jail has elected jail. But don't some people do both?

Many of nature's lesser oversights could be forgiven if she had but made woman with a talcum nose in the first place.

Years ago women didn't offer to marry for money. They just married men for money. But now they've got to advertise to find out who has it.

Some men are born patient, and others blow their horns in traffic jams.

Because a man is fit up it does not follow that he has been consuming light wines.

This modern Age Society does not seem to care what it has belonging to it.

History repeats itself. Tradition doesn't have to.

Anyway, living from hand to mouth is exciting.

"There are no pickpockets in Russia." Probably no pockets.

Lima Beane says the way of the transgressor makes a first-page story.

Children are happier than adults because they can "make believe."

We can think of nothing so lonesome as being the sole survivor of an extinct race.

"Naivete" is now the world having a big run among writers wanting to appear highbrow.

Electing a man chairman of a committee is the equivalent of the old slogan, "Let George do it."

One thing depression did was to break a lot of people of the habit of counting their chickens before they were hatched.

"In times of unrust," remarked the Man on the Car, "one must restrain the outward semblance of joys within or be suspected of insanity."

It's clear now. If life began in a pool of warm water, man's ambition to be the biggest toad in the puddle is no more than natural.

ICE BREAKER ON THE STRAITS SATISFACTORY

Moncton, N. B., Feb. 12—The new icebreaking car ferry S. S. Charlotte-town, in operation across Northumberland Strait between Cape Tormentine, N. B., and Borden, P. E. I., is performing in a most satisfactory manner declared H. T. Hazen assistant chief engineer of the railway at Montreal when passing through Moncton today, after an inspection of the ferry. Her first tryout under ice conditions yesterday was successful in ice from two to ten feet thick. She is an oil burner having tank capacity for 470 gallons of oil, built by the Davies shipbuilding and repairing company at Lauzon, Que., by Lamber and Germain of Montreal. She has capacity for from forty to forty-five motor cars which enter and leave the ship under their own power. The entrance of the Charlotte-town into this service has given tourist trade of Prince Edward Island a decided impetus and a greater increase of this trade is looked for during the coming season.

It must have been a great disappointment to that man who stole 118 bathtubs in order to get his son into college that he succeeded only in getting himself into hot water.

As Miss Constance Van Quentin, discussing things in general, so well says, things may not actually be any better but they always seem to look more promising in leap years.

SEAWEED NOW GIVES MUCH TO COMMERCE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12— You probably wouldn't suspect it, but seaweed, the kind that swimmers and boat propellers get tangled with, is a valuable commercial product that yields everything from sandwiches to cosmetics.

The National Geographic Society has prepared data on this strange plant. Japan, the society finds, harvests 450,000,000 pounds of seaweed a year. The United States has a seaweed industry on both coasts, but this does not furnish enough of the sea grass and it imports 5,000 tons annually. In Hawaii and Japan it is a chief source of food, the plant being eaten in 70 varieties in Hawaii. "In one form or another seaweed has appeared on nearly every American table," the society reports. "Agar-agar, a dried, partially bleached gelatinous extract of seaweed is eaten in ice cream, jellies, candies and pastries. Cosmetics may contain agaragar, and at the drug store one may buy it in adhesive tape and soap."

As we understand it, Germany would manage to get along if she could borrow from Peter to pay Paul without paying Paul.
