AS NEW YORK VIEWS LOAN

A tribute to Canada's strength is paid by the New York Evening Post in an editorial comment on the coming Domestic Loan. In a discussion of the offering that will be made on Monday next, the New York paper says:

"Bankers here are awaiting with much interest announcement of this loan, particularly in view of the improvement in the Canadian situation which is being manifested now.

"It goes without saying that demand for the issue will be keen, principally within the Dominion itself, for many evidences of improvement in Canada's business outlook have greatly stimulated the internal demand for new security issues.

"Besides the strength in Canadian funds in New York, the most important factor in Canada's present situation—a factor which is bound to aid internal sentiment towards Dominion security issues—is the huge export of wheat now under way from Canadian ports as a result of the largest wheat crop since 1928 and the country's highly favorable position in the export markets.

"In response to the many evidences of improvement, Canadian investors have shown increased willingness in recent months to subscribe for internal loans. The excellent demand for Canadian internal flotations, bankers here point out, is also a tribute to the strength of Canada's banking and political position, and the firm faith of Canadians in the future of their country."

HAS A MONOPOLY

The Millerton, Ontario Sun publishes the following paragraph which should be of interest to Merchant's everywhere:

"The post office department of Canada has a monopoly in one thing and that is the 'exclusive privilege of conveying, collecting and delivering letters' and no one else has such right. In Winnipeg business firms which have been delivering their own letters are threatened with prosecution. According to a ruling of the Postal Department bills enclosed in envelopes become letters and as such must go through the post office for delivery. The Postmaster-General sometime ago issued a warning to merchants and others undertaking to deliver their own bills, etc., enclosed in envelopes, through their own delivery men, that they are liable to a fine of $20 for each and every such letter. The reduction in revenue is causing the department to check up and stop the leaks."

It seems to be fashionable in the United States for governors of states to take part in political campaigns on behalf of presidential candidates. Of course being holders of elective offices it is necessary for them to play the game of politics, and there can be no objection to their taking the stump. In Canada governors being appointees of the Crown are not permitted to actively engage in politics, and they are only allowed to attend sessions of the Legislature when opening and closing the same as the representative of the king.

It is reported that the office of Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, recently accepted by Col. Herbert A. Bruce, has been made a part time job. He is said to have accepted the position on certain conditions, one of which is that he shall only occupy Government House six months out of the year and another that he shall continue the practice of his profession as a physician.

A New Jersey woman has discovered a way to solve the tax problem. Tired of paying taxes a seventy-year old baring house keeper is having her home torn down and plans to convert the lot into a cemetery, as cemeteries are not taxed in New Jersey.

President Hoover spoke at Indianapolis last night and was given great welcome. He spoke with considerable vigor and not only ably defended his administration, but carried the war into Africa. Roosevelt's recent announcement that he did not intend to reduce the tariff on farm products, furnished a theme for the president which he put to good use. "He has rewritten the Democratic platform," said the president and must withdraw one half of his speeches in which he denounced the Hawley-Smoot tariff as the origin of the world calamity. The president made no reference to the Volstead Act, one of the chief issues of the campaign.

It is now understood that the vote on the Empire trade agreements will be taken in Parliament on Monday. The trade agreements represent weeks of hard work on the part of the leading statesmen of the Empire and will undoubtedly prove of great benefit to Canada. A lot of the discussion carried on in Parliament has been useless and will get the Liberal party nowhere. The agreements should be made effective at the earliest possible date so that the country will reap the benefit from the increased trade that is certain to be the outcome. By prolonging the debate in Parliament the Liberals are merely sparing for word.

A man, laailing from the North of Ireland, who posed as a priest and professor of theology at the University of Ottawa, is now in jail in Montreal, on a charge of passing phoney checks on business concerns in that city. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was remanded for sentence. When caught he was negotiating for the purchase of $45,000 worth of bearer bonds.

Governor Alfred C. Ritchie of New Maryland, who is campaigning for Governor Roosevelt, pointed out in a recent speech that President Hoover received the appointment as food commissioner some years ago at the hands of the late President Wilson, and that he was then a supporter of the Democratic party.

The political heckler, so common in England, and not unknown in Canada, does not appear to be in evidence at major political gatherings in the United States. The chief object of those who arrange political meetings in the great republic is to arouse enthusiasm for the respective candidates and a heckler would probably get a short shrift.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, a large American concern, doing business in Canada has made application for $2,000,000 of the Dominion Service loan which is to be floated next week. This company has its Canadian head office at Ottawa and carries on business in every province. It evidently has faith in the Dominion.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is to open the new parliament building at Belfast, Ireland, on November 16th. Following the opening he will be tendered the freedom of the city.

DR. G. A. INCH GIVES PRAISE TO MRS. SANSOM Is Not Surprised That His Former Pupil Has Achieved Success In Poultry Culture.

278 Church St.
Fredericton, N. B.
Oct. 28, 1932.

To the Editor of the Mail,
Dear Sir:

In your issue of Oct. 22nd, you report that Prof. F. C. Elford, when here recently paid a well deserved tribute to the Poultry Plant of Wm. A. Sansom at Durham Bridge. He warmly complimented Mr. Sansom on his splendid outfit, and declared he had the best laying strain of Barred Plymouth Rock hens in the Dominion.

Now, Mr. Editor, while I welcome and sanction this praise of the Sansom flock by a man great enough to be chosen as President of the World's Poultry Congress, I am impelled to express by disapproval of the leaving of Mrs. Sansom out of this picture of splendid achievement. While Mr. Sansom is probably worthy of Mr. Elford's praise, I do not know Mr. Sansom intimately, but I do know Mrs. Sansom, for she was a student in my classes at the P.N.S. years ago, under the maiden name of Miss Jean Woodworth, and I then knew that her native intelligence and energy would carry her far in some direction, and I then hoped it would be in teaching. But I now see that it was to be in chicken-culture.

It is praise enough for Mr. Sansom from me that he was keen enough to select a life-partner such as he did.

Yours Truly
GEORGE A. INCH

INDUSTRY IN RUSSIA LAGS BEHIND QUOTA

Moscow, U. S. R., Oct. 29—With the end of the first five year plan only a little more than two months off, official figures published, Wednesday, showed that Russia's industry as a whole accomplished less than half the increase planned for 1932, but still is running considerably ahead of last year.

The country's entire industrial production for the first eight months of this year reacted a combined average of 14.9 per cent. above the same period of 1931, as compared with a scheduled increase of 36 per cent. for the whole year of 1932.

DIAMOND GONE UP IN PRICE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29—Diamonds have gone up in price, partly because many art turning their cash into gems, the National Geographic Society in a survey today.

It estimated that if the diamond holdings of the United States were divided equally each family "would own between $150 and $200 worth of diamonds."

"In times of depression there is a tendency among certain peoples to condense and stabilize accumulated wealth by putting it into gems," the society reported in giving reasons for the present high price of diamonds.

MANY YEARS OF SUNSHINE

Evanston, Illinois, Oct. 29—The sun, Dr. W. D. Macmillan, professor of astronomy at the University of Chicago believes will go on shining for 15,000,000,000,000 years.

"It seems," he said, "that the sun is deriving its energy at the expense of its mass, so that it is gradually wasting away, but so slowly that its present resources are sufficient to last 15,000 billion years."

His belief was expressed in an address last night at North-western University.
