THE COOL EVENING

When is the refrigerator to be perfected so that you can open the refrigerator door and cool the whole flat in a few minutes? Something like that is certain to come about, although the refrigerator may not be at the bottom of it. That is, the cooling of the home is in the near future; not the cooling of the sentiment toward the home which has been so much complained of.

Perhaps it is a temperature of 96 in the living room and the bedroom that sends the small flatter family out in their motor car every summer evening, that has been as detrimental to "the home" as anything else. How can you love your home as you should when you can't stay in it?

But refrigeration will come. It will lower the temperature and raise the rent. But as this blessed coolness will not have been achieved until hard times have flown, we will probably be able to pay for this newest and next "modern convenience."

MAKING OF NEWS

A simple settlement of a knotty old editorial problem is given briefly by William Clark in the Norwalk, O., Experiment. He writes:

"It often happens that people who represent that they like to have a paper tell all the news without fear or favor, are the first ones to squawk when the item happens to be about them. Every editor knows of subscribers, who, while claiming they want the news, have discontinued taking his paper because he printed an item of news about them. Readers of a paper should remember that the editor does not make the news, he merely records it after it has been made. Folks who don't like certain news printed about them shouldn't make that kind of news."

The Rev. A. F. Bate, Rector of Fredericton, and chaplain of the New Brunswick Legislature, is being warmly congratulated by people of all denominations on his appointment and installation as an archdeacon of the Church in succession to the late Venerable Archdeacon Newnham. It is not often that such high ecclesiastical honors are conferred on so young a man, and it is the general consensus of opinion that they are well deserved. Archdeacon Bate is one of the most highly esteemed of local clergymen. He is gifted with a genial personality and, if he will pardon the term, he has proved himself a good mixer. Possibly the world might long ago have been saved if clergymen of the splendid type of Archdeacon Bate were the rule rather than the exception.

Atlantic City will receive its current taxes a dollar at a time, or in such multiples as the taxpayer may find convenient, and give the taxpayer a monthly credit of a discount according to the number of months and the amount he is in advance of the due dates for the year's bill. The plan involves more book-keeping, but the Atlantic City folks believe that it will encourage a sufficiently early payment of taxes to pay the cost. And if the science of taxation is to pluck the most meek and cause the least squawking, the scheme at the shore "looks good," because it makes tax-payment easy for the taxpayers.

As Bishop Richardson pointed out in his excellent charge to the Church of England Synod, the activities of the Church have not escaped the business depression. The Churches, like all other organizations, have their problems these days and have difficulty in overcoming them. Cases are known where clergymen have generously offered to accept a reduction in their stipends, but this step has not been taken so far as can be learned. The clergyman, like other laborers, is certainly worthy of his hire.

The natural tendency of our jury system is toward compromise verdicts. In most cases, the only perfectly honest ballot ever taken by a jury is the first one. The true opinions of each juror are usually expressed in that ballot. Thereafter the process of compromise sets in. When there is a final agreement by 12 men in a doubtful case, it means that somebody has yielded his convictions.

The head man of the Doukhobor nude cult in British Columbia has been sentenced to a long term in prison. In effect the indictment charged him with going about clothed in a little brief authority.

Pola Negri told reporters that she would marry a millionaire in July, but did not give his name; feeling, perhaps that he shouldn't be trusted with the information so soon.

Tight-lacing in its day didn't ruin feminine health and wearing party slippers and practically no stockings through snowdrifts didn't either. Proving that prophecy, as usual, is hokey.

A medical publicist remarks that highly-strung persons almost invariably speak in a wild manner, when coming out of the ether. Or going on it.

A pair of sparrows have started to build on one of London's statues. No doubt the birds think there must have been some reason for putting it there.

One of the profounder disappointments of the year was the splitting of the atom, which, we judged from advance notices, would be heard at least around the world.

Oh, for the good old days when nothing annoying came over the radio except static.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

Among our special ambitions is to be the weak link in a chain letter.

 Earth would be a paradise only for the people who inhabit it.

Financial panics always bring about a change in the definition of an optimist.

 Arrogance is one of the besetting sins—the desire to boss. It is often hateful and rancorous.

You are prepared for certain emergencies. They never come. It is the other emergencies that do.

 When near the great, you measuring instruments may be so inadequate that you can't get all the dimensions.

If you can quote the bright sayings from books in your ordinary conversation in the right place, you are bright enough to invent your own.

 Henry Ford says thinking is the hardest work anyone can do. Not many years ago Mr. Ford made it known that he could hire all the brains needed.

It is years before a man ceases to feel a great uprising sense of relief and "there, that's over," on going down the front steps after attending a social function.

 To live a hundred years, says a centenarian, one must be a vegetarian. The earth is prolific, the trees and vines are fruitful. Carrots are not compulsory.

Suit For Damages

The case of the King, on the information of Benjamin Dunlop, vs. Edgar Schriver and Angus Schriver was before Magistrate Limerick in the Police Court this morning. The principals are residents of Campbell Settlement and the action is for the recovery of damages done to a head of stock. The case was adjourned until June 8th, and the prisoners were allowed out on bail. C. L. Dougherty is acting for the defendants.

RUSSIA PREPARES WAR ON LOCUSTS

Tashkent, U. S. S. R., June 1—A vigorous chemical war against an expected invasion of locusts is being prepared by the Central Asia authorities to protect the cotton crops. Locusts threaten eastern Tadzhikistan and some sections of the Uzbek and Turkmen soviet republics.

PLAN SCALE MAP OF ROMAN EMPIRE

Rome, June 1—The committee of the National Researches Institution has decided to prepare and publish a scale map of the Roman empire. The suggestion that such a map should be made on an elaborate scale and in the light of modern knowledge was made at the geographical congress held at Cambridge, England, in 1928.

Died Yesterday

George W. Stafford of Marysville, aged 71 years, died suddenly yesterday afternoon while working on his farm. The death was due to a heart attack. The deceased was born in Le-preaux, a son of the late Robert Stafford. He is survived by his wife, five sons, Samuel J., Norman P., Newton A., Bernie H., Frank E., one daughter, Mrs. George Savage; and three brothers, John A., Samuel and Fred A., all of Marysville and the vicinity. The funeral will take place Thursday from the late home at 2.30 p.m. The services will be conducted by the Rev. M. H. Manuel and interment will be made in the United Church cemetery.

Travel Permits

June 3rd, birthday of King George V and a statutory holiday, will be free to the use of vacationists, and residents of the province, as usual. However, travel permits will be necessary to enter the woods on that date. G. L. Miller chief forester for the province, reported today that all forest fires have been put out, and there is now little or no danger of further outbreak. All travel in the woods had been banned on Victoria Day, May 24, due to the seriousness of the forest fire situation.

There is no reduction in the joy of living.

Dependable Funeral Service

You can provide the BEST and yet be economical. All our prices are Lower than for many years. A New Modern Lowering Device was recently added to our Fine Equipment. Beware of Gasoline as a Cleaner

As a motor fuel, gasoline is invaluable. As a cleaning fluid it is extremely dangerous.

For the protection of yourself, your family and your home, ban the use of gasoline in household dry cleaning, and so prevent a possibly disastrous explosion or fire.

Your druggist can tell you of safe, economical cleaning fluids.

FINGERPRINTS OF EX-KING USED TO SOLVE THEFT

London, June 1—Ex-King Manuel of Portugal has had his fingerprints taken by Scotland Yard.

Detectives who investigated a burglary at his Twickenham home in which his art collection was rifled, wished to learn which of numerous fingerprints in the looted room were there rightfully.

So they fingerprinted Manuel, his consort, Donna Augusta; two German countesses who were guests and the house staff of thirty, from secretaries to scullery maids.

Honor Golfer

Saunton, Devonshire, England, May 31—For the first time in history, the Stars and Stripes of the United States flew alone from the staff of a British golf club yesterday.

The Saunton Golf Club raised the American flag in honor of Miss Maureen Orcutt's sensational 73 in the first round of qualifying play in the British women's championship the other day. Hitherto the American flag has flown under the Union Jack during international play at British golf clubs, or with the flags of other nations.
