COMMON COLD IS THE CAUSE OF DEAFNESS

New York, April 10—Avoid the common cold if you wish to escape becoming hard of hearing.

This message for good ears, coupled with one of the 10,000,000 Americans already impaired in hearing that good health measures may salvage some of their losses, was delivered to the medical society of the state of New York today by Wendell C. Phillips of New York.

Dr. Phillips is a former president of the American Medical Association. He talked on "What the community should know about the problems of hearing."

"In the United States," he said, "at least 10,000,000 are victims of some impairment of hearing. At least 3,000,000 children of school age are victims. The medical solution lies very largely in two directions.

"First, public education regarding hearing. Second, public education regarding maintenance of personal health at its highest efficiency. Learn that deafness is not a disease, but a symptom of many kinds of abnormal ear conditions. Take the terror of it out of your minds.

"The greatest single enemy of good hearing, in all probability, is the common cold. Otologists are agreed that colds when accompanied by infections of the nasal sinuses, are among the basic causes of chronic progressive deafness.

"The over-tired person who gets little exercise, who lives in badly ventilated rooms, who wears clothing too heavy for the weather, who snatches hasty meals, who gourmandizes or is undernourished—he is the person who catches cold easily."

Far be it from us to wish a robin any harm, but something ought to be done about the bird that has been fighting a window pane for two weeks when it ought to be raising a family.
