My Birthday Party To-morrow, Daddy!

Watch the extra sparkle in the eyes of children—the clapping of the hands and the delighted laughter when Maple Buds are served at the party. Let them eat plenty—they are not harmful in any way; in fact they contain the finest and most expensive cocoa beans, rich, creamy milk, and the best selected sugar blended skilfully. Grown-ups relish them too—you know that yourself.

RATHER MIXED UP

A French Canadian guide came into the camp one day greatly excited. He had a handful of wild cranberries which he exhibited with pride.

"You know the li'l cranberries?" he asked the assembled party. "Well you take the li'l cranberries an' you put him on the fire with plenty of de sug—Oh big lot of de sug, an' you let him cook long time. Then you take him off and let him cool. An' voila, you have a more better apple sauce than you can make out of de prune!"

The Radcliffe sophomore who had on divers occasions, borrowed her brother's raiment when she was a "man" in college plays, brought this same brother to a reception at Radcliffe.

Now brother was a bold male, afraid of no woman. And sister introduced him to the dean.

"And have you ever been to 'Wadcliffe' before?" asked the dean, who lisped.

"No" replied bad brother "no, but my 'trowsers' have."

DOWN IN BALDHEAD ROW

Little Edna is always frightened at the appearance of Indians upon the screen at picture shows.

"Mamma," she whispered to her mother the other night at the theater, "are there going to be any Indians in this show?"

"No dear," answered her mother.

"But mamma," persisted little Edna "have the Indians been out yet?"

"Why no, Edna, I told you there were no Indians in this play."

"But mamma, who scalped all these men down in the front seats?"

WASTED LABOR

Lady of the house—Say Dinah did you clean the fish?

Dinah—Law, no missus! Why should Ah clean dat fish? He done lib all his life in de watah.

DELAYED

In the wee hours of the morn the subur banite got off the train at the home station. Going to the telegraph office he sent this message: "Will not be at the office to day. Am not home yesterday yet."

Father looking up from his paper: "What's all that gindling and cutting up in the back parlor, mother? Isn't it time the children were in bed?"

Mother: "That's not the babies, father. Grandm is showing grandpa her lace-up the-side shoes, her new short silk skirt hose and grandpa is strutting around in one of his sport shirts."

A witty judge of the Municipal Court of Boston stoutly declared that "a patriot was a man who refused to button his wife's lingerie waist."

"A martyr" he went on according to the Youth's Companion, "is one who attempts and fails while a hero tries and succeeds."

"Then what is a coward?" asked a curious bystander.

"Oh, a coward," replied the Judge "is a man who remains single so he won't have to try."
