The vocal trio will present a lovely setting of "The Long Day Closes".

FREDERICTON'S RADIO STATION, OWNED BY JAS. S. NEILL & SONS LTD. HAS INCREASED ITS POWER RANGE

Eastern audiences are due for another real radio thrill, for Jas. S. Neill & Sons, Ltd., Fredericton, N. B., recently announced their intention of adding new equipment that will give their station CFNB, not just double, but actually five times its present power. This announcement follows closely upon the installation only a few weeks ago of an entirely new broadcast transmitter of latest design. The station will come on the air with its additional new equipment the first of next week, operating on a frequency of 1030 kilocycles.

Up until September 1st CFNB's programmes were sent on their way by an installation dating back to March, 1928, which, although the latest thing in transmitters at that time, has since tended to become obsolete with the rapid development of improved equipment. And then, on September 1st, 1933, radio listeners within CFNB's range were astounded by that station's greatly increased volume and remarkably improved fidelity. The explanation lay in a brand new Marconi broadcast transmitter. Although the power rating of this transmitter is the same as that of the older set installed in 1928, improved design gives the new one higher efficiency, with the result that CFNB's range is extended and its volume increased. And recently developed modulation equipment gives it far greater clarity and more complete range in sound reproduction than has hitherto been possible.

A Big Boost

Remarkable through the improvement has been with their new transmitter, Jas. S. Neill & Sons, Ltd., have had even bigger plans, culminating in the addition of equipment that will boost CFNB's output five times. Whereas the present transmitter covers a "daylight service" radius of 60 miles, the new transmitter's daylight range is said to exceed 150 miles. Engineers stated that although accurate

XMAS STORIES ON RADIO FOR DRAMA SERIES

New York, N. Y., Dec. 15—Three well known Christmas stories, especially adapted for radio, will be heard over NBC-WJZ network on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 21, 22, and 23, at 8:15 P. M., A. S. T.

The three Christmas dramas will follow "The Three Musketeers" in the series sponsored by the Jeddo-Highland Oil Company, and in turn will be succeeded by a serial dramatization of "Robin Hood".

"The Bishop's Candlesticks", a celebrated one-act play, based on an incident in Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables" and dealing with the redemption of a convict on Christmas Eve, will be the drama broadcast on Thursday, December 21.

A radio dramatization of O. Henry's famous story, "The Gift of the Magi" will be heard on the second day, Friday, December 22. This popular story has become one of the best known Yuletide legends ever written in America.

"Why the Chimes Rang", a one-act playlet by Elizabeth A. McFadden based on a story of the same title by Raymond McDonald Alden, will be broadcast on Saturday, December 23. This drama tells a story of the perfect Christmas gift.

BIG BAD WOLF BUSY IN TEXAS

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 15—Texas statistics reveal that the "big bad wolf" operated extensively in this State last year with 2 per cent of the State's farm and ranch animals falling victim to wolves, coyotes, bobcats and other predatory animals.

The Oberon Group was one of the first programs offered by the Canadian Radio Commission to Canadian audiences, and has steadily grown in popularity throughout the months of its meticulous production by the Commission's gifted young musical arranger.

MAKING THESE COOKING XMAS CANDIES IS FASCINATING WORK

December days mean candy days and cookie days to many cooks. More and more, in fact, are these delicious little home-made things taking their place of importance upon Christmas lists.

Tomorrow night we will have a session with cookie recipes. Tonight we are going to crown the sugar bowl King. With his ample Queen, the saucepan he will hold court and rule over an assembly of pralines and fudge, and assorted sweet-meats colorful and gay.

First though, we will give away a secret or two for those who hesitate to make Christmas candies because they are not skilled in this fascinating work. There are at least two "short-cuts" in candy making for the amateur. One is the use of evaporated milk for creamy melt-in-the-mouth texture to candies—and the other aid can be gelatine. We will include recipes using both of these among other good old-fashioned standards tonight. Another desirable aid for perfect candies is a candy thermometer. Guess work about the cooking of candy has spoiled more of it than any other one thing. In fact, the possession of a candy thermometer and its proper use will lift one's efforts out of the amateur class almost at once.

STUFFED FIG CHEWS

Take fine whole dried figs and steam them until tender. When cool enough to handle, cut a slit in the form when tested in cold water. Add side of each fig and fill with a stuffing made by mixing equal parts chopped candied cranberries or candied cherries and candied pineapple with a tablespoon of finely chopped pecans and enough orange juice to moisten. (If desired, coconut may be used in place of pecans). Set the figs thus stuffed side by side in a buttered pan, cover with another pan that may be weighted down to press the fruit slightly. Chill. Then slice the figs in thin slices. Place these side by side in a buttered pan about one fourth inch apart or so and pour a syrup made as follows over them:

Boil together one and one half cups of brown sugar with one fourth cup corn syrup, one and one half cups of granulated sugar, 3-4 cup of boiling water and two tablespoons of lemon juice until they reach 200 degrees or will spin a long thread. Pour a thin layer of this over the slices of figs. When cold, break as nearly as possible so that each piece is a strip of taffy covered fig slice.

HONEY CRISPY

Two cups of honey
 One cup of finely ground walnuts
 Spread the nuts in the bottom of a well buttered pan. Put the honey in a saucepan and boil for five minutes or actual boiling, stirring occasionally

Four this in a thin layer over the nuts. Cool. Before entirely hard mark off into squares or oblongs. When cold and hard, cracks so that it breaks about where marked. Put dipping chocolate in top of double boiler. Set over warm (not too hot) water and stir until soft. Dip each piece of "crisp" in this and replace in pan in which more finely chopped nuts have been scattered. A large part of the goodness of this candy is to keep the layer of boiled honey water-thin.

BUTTER SCOTCH

Three cups of brown sugar
 Five tablespoons of butter
 Four tablespoons of water
 Two tablespoons of corn syrup
 Two tablespoons of cream
 Two teaspoons of vanilla
 Cook sugar, water, butter and corn syrup together to 238 degrees, or until a little dropped in cold water will form a soft ball. Add one fourth teaspoon of salt and the cream and continue cooking to 254 degrees, or until a little dropped into cold water will harden at once. Take from fire, add vanilla and pour in a shallow layer in buttered pans. When still warm, mark into small squares. Break apart when cold and hard.

CEROLE PECAN PRALINES

One pound of sugar
 One small cup of molasses
 One scant cup of water
 One pound pecans weighed in shell
 Put sugar, molasses and water in a saucepan and cook together over a slow fire. Cook until a soft ball will form when tested in cold water. Add side of each fig and fill with a stuffing made by mixing equal parts chopped candied cranberries or candied cherries and candied pineapple with a tablespoon of finely chopped pecans and enough orange juice to moisten. (If desired, coconut may be used in place of pecans). Set the figs thus stuffed side by side in a buttered pan, cover with another pan that may be weighted down to press the fruit slightly. Chill. Then slice the figs in thin slices. Place these side by side in a buttered pan about one fourth inch apart or so and pour a syrup made as follows over them:

Boil together one and one half cups of brown sugar with one fourth cup corn syrup, one and one half cups of granulated sugar, 3-4 cup of boiling water and two tablespoons of lemon juice until they reach 200 degrees or will spin a long thread. Pour a thin layer of this over the slices of figs. When cold, break as nearly as possible so that each piece is a strip of taffy covered fig slice.
